Man acquitted of slaying victim's ex-husband sought for questioning

Odd twist to murder of Cal Poly secretary

By JACK BURSON
PB Staff Writer

Los Angeles County sheriff's homicide detectives today were looking for Pomonan Donald Lee Phillips, 27, for questioning about the slaying Monday of secretary Barbara (Bobbie) Newton, 24, in her office at Cal Poly Pomona.

Phillips was acquitted of murdering Mrs. Newton's ex-husband three years ago in a trial in Pomona Superior Court. The jury, after deliberating almost two weeks, apparently decided that Phillips acted in self defense in the slaying June 2, 1973, of Elmo Hartwell Newton Jr., 25.

Mrs. Newton's body was found in her office inside the university's School of Arts Building shortly before 11:30 a.m. She had been shot once in the head. Investigators refused to say if a weapon was found at the scene, but other sources said detectives located a pistol there.

The officer in charge of the investigation, Lt. Phillip Bullington, said this morning that the team working on the slaying "is in the middle of some new things" and, he added, "we expect to release some new information later today."

Meanwhile, acting Cal Poly President Dr. Hugh La Bounty Jr., said of Mrs. Newton's slaying: "Her death is a tragic loss to the university." He described the victim as "extremely supportive" of the students.

"Members of the staff and black students are now in contact with the family," La Bounty said, "but, at this time we are unclear about plans for a memorial service."

Besides being a senior secretary for teacher preparation, Mrs. Newton was a co-adviser for the Black Council for Unity, a club on the Cal Poly campus.

Mrs. Newton lived at 9200 Monte Vista Ave. in Montclair, and had two daughters, Kathy and Regina.

Mrs. Newton reportedly had told university authorities and police that she feared for her life because of threats and the campus police had been alerted.

She reportedly was seen in a heated confrontation recently with a man on campus late last week and early Monday a man located the victim's father, Ezra Henderson, at his place of employment and threatened to kill Mrs. Newton.

Investigators said Mrs. Newton had been shot once in the head. She had been with the University since January of 1973.

Lt. Bullington said Phillips was wanted for questioning, but did not name him as a suspect in the case.

In 1973, Phillips was accused of murdering Mrs. Newton's former husband, Elmo, who was killed by a pistol bullet fired into his head. Newton reportedly forced his way into Mrs. Newton's apartment that night. Phillips, who was in the apartment, struggled with Newton and managed to get a pistol away from him, authorities said. Then, they charged, he chased Newton downstairs and shot him outside 3111 Abbott St.

During the trial, which ended with an acquittal on Jan. 14, 1974, the defense attempted to show that Phillips acted in self defense and that Newton had a history of violent behavior.

Must have energy bill

Carter threatens to call off trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, meeting today with Foreign Minister Saud al-Faisal of Saudi Arabia, raised anew the threat of canceling his four-continent trip next month if Congress fails to send him an energy bill.

"I look forward to being in Saudi Arabia if we get an energy bill," the President told the Saudi prince in the Oval Office.

While Congress continued work on the energy legislation, Carter and Saud planned to talk about oil and the prospects for a reconvened Middle East peace conference in Geneva.

The President said Saud represented "one of the nations that has been extremely helpful to us in many areas of the world in the past nine or 10 months since I've been in office."

Carter's public schedule for today also called for him to sign legislation toughening penalties for doctors and others who defraud the Medicare and Medicaid programs.

By raising the possibility of not making the trip to Latin America, Africa, Asia and Europe, scheduled to begin four weeks from today, Carter put additional pressure on Congress to finish its deliberations on the energy program. He planned to make a refueling stop in Saudi Arabia during the journey.

In a meeting last week with congressional leaders, Carter left little doubt that he would be willing to call off the trip if Congress was still debating the energy legislation. At a similar meeting earlier today, however, he did not mention such a possibility.

House Democratic Whip John Brademas suggested that final approval of the legislation might be "a few weeks" away.

In his meeting with Saud, Carter was looking for ways to hold down oil prices and get the stalled Middle East peace talks moving again.

However, Saud has offered discouraging prospects on the cost of imported oil and has said he has no new ideas on the central issue of Palestinian representation at the Middle East talks.

Although oil prices and the Middle East political situation were likely to be the major points of discussion in the session with the Saudi Arabian prince, Carter and Saud also were expected to talk about the proposed sale of 60 F15 supersonic jet fighters to Saudi Arabia.

Proponents of the sale argue it would help cement ties between the United States and Saudi Arabia, whose economic aid to its Arab neighbors makes it one of the most influential nations in the Middle East. Critics say it violates the President's policy of holding down arms sales.

The $1.5 billion sale reportedly was recommended by Defense Secretary Harold Brown in August. The F15 is the most advanced fighter in the Air Force, and its radar, weapons and communications systems were developed to match the latest Soviet aircraft.

On the Middle East situation, Saud said on Sunday that he had "no new suggestions" for Carter on the issue of Palestine Liberation Organization representation at Geneva.

"I don't think it possible to reconvene the Geneva conference to tackle the Palestinian problem without the presence of the PLO," the prince said on the CBS program "Face the Nation."

The foreign minister said that if the conference deals with "substantive matters — peace — the problem is precisely the Palestinian problem and one must talk with the PLO."

Margaret Gibbs

Claremont woman top assessor contender

By BOB NAGEY

Margaret Gibbs, Claremont educator and civic leader, became one of the top contenders for the position of Los Angeles County Assessor Tuesday through the endorsement of two of the five county supervisors.

Mrs. Gibbs, who now teaches public and business administration at Cal State San Bernardino, was one of 27 finalists named to the $49,500 a year position left vacant by the retirement of County Assessor Philip E. Watson two weeks ago.

But she has formidable competition from several other leading aspirants.

They include Lillian Wyshak, A Beverly Hills tax attorney, James H. Grossman, a Los Angeles attorney, and Derek N. Shearer, a political activist from Santa Monica, all of whom were nominated by more than one supervisor; Los Angeles City Councilman Ernardi Bernardi, Milton C. Gordon, former state real estate commissioner, and Leslie N. Shaw, former Los Angeles postmaster.

Mrs. Gibbs was nominated by Supervisors Peter Schabarum who represents the First District in which she resides, and Supervisor James Hayes of the Fourth District.

The candidate from Claremont is a former city councilwoman who presently is the president of the Citrus College board of trustees.

Ed Edelman, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, said interviews of the finalists would start next Tuesday and the new county assessor would be appointed some time in December.

The appointment is an interim one and lasts until Watson's term expires a year from now.

Gunman slays Arab official at airport

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (AP) — A gunman in a white robe shot and killed a top United Arab Emirates official today and surrendered after trying to hijack a Czechoslovakian cargo plane, authorities reported.

The victim was identified as Saif Ghobash, 35, the No. 2 man in the Foreign Ministry. He was shot while seeing off Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam.

Informed sources said Khaddam, who escaped one assassination attempt last December in Damascus, was the real target of the airport gunman.

Reports conflicted on whether there was more than one gunman. Iraqi radio said a "group" took part in the assassination.

Ghobash died at the hospital, an official spokesman said. Sources reported he was hit in the chest and shoulder by the white-robed man who fired a pistol. The gunman was not identified.

After shooting the minister during airport ceremonies for the visitinr Syrian official, the gunman took seven persons hostage and forced them into the Czechoslovak cargo plane, which he tried to hijack, the official spokesman said. But he later surrendered, the spokesman said without elaboration.

School counselor dies in traffic collision; Pomona man arrested

A Claremont man was killed and a Pomona man was arrested in a shattering high-speed traffic collision at Orange Grove Avenue near Weber Street in Pomona Monday afternoon, police reported.

The victim was James Goodall Ervin, 54, of 1691 N. Mountain Ave. The other driver involved was Thomas Sylvester, 53, of 2165 Arroyo Drive, Pomona. He was booked on suspicion of vehicular manslaughter.

Ervin, a counselor at Marshall Junior High School, was en route home from school, when the accident occurred.

Ervin had been an employe of Pomona Unified School District for more than 25 years. He was a teacher at one time at Fremont School and had served as principal at Palomares Junior High School before taking his present assignment.

Police said that Ervin was eastbound in Orange Grove Avenue when his auto was struck almost broadside by Sylvester's car as Ervin tried to swerve to the right and out of the path of the oncoming vehicle. Officers said Sylvester was driving westbound in the eastbound lanes, passing over vehicles at high speed.

One woman who witnessed the collision told police that Ervin's auto seemed to explode on impact, with parts of the car and the victim's body hurled through the air. Ervin's auto, a 1975 model, was destroyed as was Sylvester's 1970 sedan.

JAMES ERVIN

Officer Walter J. Barkley said that Orange Grove was closed for more than two hours, between Weber and Lewis streets, while crews using three tow trucks collected the debris.

One witness told police that he was passed by Sylvester's auto at 70 miles per hour. The vehicle sounded as if it was in the passing gear as it passed, the witness said.

Ervin was killed instantly; Sylvester suffered a cut lip and complained of chest pains. He was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and booked at the jail ward of County-USC Medical Center.

Police said Sylvester declined to make a statement concerning the accident before discusing the case with an attorney.

Jury deliberates only 17 minutes

Youth sentenced to die in electric chair

SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—A 16-year-old boy who was convicted of stomping an elderly widow to death in a $6 robbery has been sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Frank Ross Jr. of DeSoto City, Fla., stood calmly and said nothing Monday as 10th Circuit Judge Clifton Kelly imposed the death penalty for the Nov. 15, 1976, murder of 64-year-old Helen Dixon of Avon Park.

"The idea of a teen-ager being executed by the state immediately invokes a natural feeling of repugnance and aversion," Kelly wrote in a footnote accompanying the death sentence.

"But there is a still greater feeling of repugnance and aversion when you consider that a helpless, wholly innocent, 64-year-old woman who was living alone in her own home was brutally killed," the judge wrote.

A six-man, six-woman jury had convicted Ross of first degree murder in February. The same jury deliberated only 17 minutes Monday before recommending the death penalty.

Ross' mother, Cressie Belcher, sat quietly as the sentence was pronounced.

"What had to be had to be," said Mrs. Belcher outside the courtroom.

Highlands County Assistant Public Defender Nick Chommer said an appeal is automatic when a death penalty is imposed. Judge Kelly said he would forward the sentence to the Florida Supreme Court for review, another automatic procedure.

Ross was charged with another DeSoto City youth, James Wells, 17, who was found guilty Aug. 12 in a separate trial and sentenced to life in prison by Kelly.

Both boys testified that they had gone to look at a car offered for sale by Mrs. Dixon. Wells testified that Ross knocked the woman down, kicked her, took the money and ripped out her telephone.

When Ross took the stand, Assistant State Attorney William Fletcher asked repeatedly why Ross attacked Mrs. Dixon. The youth said he didn't know.

"I didn't intend to rob her. I didn't intend to kill her," he said.

In the judge's 13-page footnote to Ross's death sentence, he said there's a need for a state statute requiring public schools to teach respect for the law.

"If Ross had been taught and made to understand ... that stealing and robbing are against the law, and that if he killed someone he too could be killed by the state even if he were a juvenile, it could be that Mrs. Dixon would not have been subjected to a brutal and terrifying death."

POLANSKI LEAVES COURT

Movie director Roman Polanski leaves a Santa Monica court Monday after being ordered to report to the California Institution for Men in Chino Dec. 19. Convicted of having sexual relations with a 13-year-old girl, Polanski was given two months to finish shooting a movie, "The Hurricane," before reporting to the prison for psychiatric testing.

Judge orders Polanski to CIM in December

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Movie director Roman Polanski has been given less than two months to finish preparing for a $14 million Tahitian film epic before he reports to a prison for psychiatric tests.

The 44-year-old director, who has pleaded guilty to a sex crime involving a 13-year-old girl, was told Monday to report to Chino state prison Dec. 19 without fail.

"His imprisonment at Chino will not be postponed beyond that date under any circumstances," said Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband.

Polanski had taken the witness stand Monday to convince the judge that he was really working — not living it up — when he was photographed amid beer mugs and beautiful women at the Munich Octoberfest.

Polanski and producer Dino De Laurentiis swore that the director was in Munich to persuade a distributor to advance $1 million backing for the film, "The Hurricane."

The production is to be filmed at Bora Bora in Tahiti, where De Laurentiis said he is building a hotel and restaurant to accommodate the mammoth cast and crew.

Judge Rittenband noted that he as well as Polanski's lawyer, Douglas Dalton, misunderstood earlier representations that Polanski could finish the film by December. It was that idea which first convinced the judge to delay the prison tests.

On the witness stand, Polanski was asked whether he was really "just relaxing" in Munich as the news photo caption had said.

"If I had time to relax," he said, "I would rather do it in Bora Bora."

The judge commented: "On whether or not he was in Germany strictly on business, I will give him the benefit of the doubt."

Deputy Dist. Atty. Roger Gunson sought to show that Polanski went to Germany to see a 17-year-old actress who has become his protege.

The director conceded that he saw Nastaje Kinski but said it was purely business — to give her a screen test for "The Hurricane."

The diminutive Polanski, clad in a blazer, blue shirt and beige slacks, appeared red-eyed and nervous as he testified. He had flown here from Tahiti on court orders and apparently feared he would be immediately imprisoned for the three months of psychiatric tests.

Polanski was arrested last March 10 and subsequently indicted on six counts of rape, sex perversion and drug abuse with a teen-age girl.

Through a plea bargain, he pleaded guilty to only one count — unlawful sexual intercourse with a minor. He admitted he had sex with the girl in the bedroom of actor Jack Nicholson's home while Nicholson was away.

The judge has said he will sentence Polanski after the prison tests are completed.

Crosby's will creates 'living trust' for family

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Bing Crosby, who guarded his privacy in life, apparently has managed to maintain his privacy after death.

The popular entertainer established a "living trust" four months before his death to handle the bulk of his estate, guaranteeing privacy the estate would not have under normal probate proceedings. Crosby's will was filed for probate Monday.

The living trust, in essence a private will, also provides tax breaks for heirs of the Crosby estate.

The living trust arrangement was unveiled when attorney Richard S. Arnold of Los Angeles filed Crosby's nine-page will for probate in San Mateo County Superior Court.

The will listed cash gifts of $400,000, left Crosby's personal effects to his widow, Kathryn, and gave instructions for the funeral of the entertainer, who died Oct. 14 in Spain. He was 74.

Cash bequests in the will included $150,000 to his widow, $50,000 each to Gonzaga High School and Gonzaga University, both in Crosby's home town of Spokane, Wash., and $5,000 to St. Aloysius Catholic Church also in Spokane.

Crosby also left gifts ranging from $5,000 to $25,000 to a sister, a cousin, four nieces and four longtime business associates.

Richard C. Bergen, Crosby's longtime attorney and friend, was named executor of the will.

Califano urges colleges to reach beyond tradition on admissions

JOSEPH CALIFANO

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — College admission tests should measure a wider range of talents to help find more qualified minority students, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Joseph Califano says.

"We must continually seek new ways of measuring true human potential," Califano told the College Entrance Examination Board Monday, "ways that reach beyond the traditional yardsticks.

"Great reserves of human talent have been locked up by our national legacy of slavery and discrimination," he added. "Your mission, as leaders in educational admissions, is to ensure that this potential is recognized."

Califano indicated support for programs designed to overcome effects of past discrimination. He said they "seek not to exclude, but to include," by establishing flexible and reasonable numerical goals.

The College Board, a nonprofit organization of some 2,000 educational institutions, associations and scholarship agencies, publishes the Scholastic Aptitude Test which is widely used by college admissions boards.

Also, Califano said he supports state developed and administered competency tests for children to find those who need help in developing basic skills, and to aid schools in gauging their performance.

UC official: Bakke case must be reversed

LA JOLLA (AP) — If the U.S. Supreme Court upholds the Bakke case decision, "it will give the impression that there is something innately inferior about minority students," says a black University of California official.

Allan Bakke, a white student, claims he was denied admission to the UC Davis medical school because of a minority quota and says he was a victim of reverse discrimination.

In an interview Monday, Dr. Joseph Watson said that whatever the outcome, the Bakke case is going to hurt minorities.

"If the U.S. Supreme Court reverses the California court decision, then the best you have is the maintenance of a token program," said Watson, provost of Third College, a minority-oriented school on UC's San Diego campus.

"It is tokenism of the worst sort ... what it does is stigmatize minorities with the image that they cannot compete with whites," he said.

Interviews are scheduled for assessor candidates

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The county Board of Supervisors will begin interviewing more than 20 candidates next week to find a county assessor to finish out Philip E. Watson's fourth term.

Board Chairman Ed Edelman said interviews would begin Nov. 1, but declined to set a specific date for choosing Watson's successor after two of five supervisors failed to meet the board's self-imposed Monday noon deadline for nominations.

Supervisor Pete Schabarum was to submit his list of nominees today, while Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said he will nominate two or three more candidates in addition to one he has already suggested.

The board's selection process calls for each supervisor to nominate four persons for a total of 20, but so far only Supervisor Baxter Ward has limited himself to that number. Edelman proposed six names and Supervisor James A. Hayes contributed seven.

The successful nominee must win approval by three board members.

Ward put forward the only elected official nominated so far, Los Angeles City Councilman Ernani Bernardi, who said he would accept the job only if approved unanimously by the board.

Ward also nominated San Marino teacher Bryan W. Stevens, who made news in the 1960s by claiming assessments of Malibu land belonging to then-Gov. Ronald Reagan were undervalued.

Edelman's list included Thomas F. Kranz, an attorney who was special counsel in investigating the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy, and Milton G. Gordon, former state real estate commissioner.

Edelman cautioned against reading any significance into a few duplications on the lists. "I think it's wide open — I really mean that," he said.

Watson, who served 15 years as assessor, was granted his retirement pension three weeks ago because of a heart condition.

KKK begins Mexico border patrols today

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Members of the Ku Klux Klan were to begin unarmed patrols of the Mexican border today from Brownsville, Texas to the Pacific Coast, Klan officials said.

David Duke of Metarie, La., Grand Dragon of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, visited a border crossing two weeks ago and vowed that members of the white supremacist group would act as spotters to help stem the flow of illegal aliens into the United States.

He said klansmen would report illegal crossings to the U.S. Border Patrol, which he claimed could not cope with the volume of illegal aliens.

According to Klan spokesman Tom Metzger, Klan members plan to patrol the border in marked cars and radio any illegal crossings to the group's "command post." Then federal officials will be informed, Metzger said.

A spokesman for the U.S. Customs Service at San Ysidro Monday said no special precautions were being taken regarding the patrols.

However, San Diego Police Chief William Kolender has said that if the klansmen go to the border, his officers would be watching for any illegal activities, such as carrying concealed weapons.

Leonel Castillo, Immigration and Naturalization Service commissioner, restated his opposition to the Klan's presence at the border in a telegram to San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson Monday.

"I do not consider a private border patrol by an organization like the Klan or by any other group to help in any way whatsoever," Castillo said.

Wilson sent telegrams to Castillo and U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell last week to protest the KKK activities at the border, which has stirred public controversy since it was announced.

Authorities fear reprisals against klansmen by some militant Mexican-American groups, who have vowed to forcefully repel anyone "interfering with our daily lives."

Nuclear plant delay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Revised plans for the proposed San Joaquin nuclear power plant will delay construction until sufficient agricultural waste water becomes available to service the project.

An environmental impact statement released Monday calls for the delay so that the $35 billion, 5,300-megawatt plant, which uses water for cooling purposes, will not compete with farmers for scarce Kern County fresh water supplies.

Desert drug search

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Authorities were continuing their search for packets of cocaine believed dumped over the desert area from an alleged drug-running plane during a chase in which one man was wounded by a mid-air shotgun blast.

The plane's pilot, Eric B. Ramirez, 30, of Mexico, and passenger Don L. Woodbeck, 30, of Ventura, who was wounded in the shoulder by a shotgun pellet, were arrested after their plane touched down at Palm Springs airport Sunday.

Totie Fields exhausted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Totie Fields, who began a long concert tour last March after undergoing a leg amputation, has canceled her next two engagements on doctors' orders because she is suffering from exhaustion, her agent says.

A circulation problem forced the amputation of Miss Fields' left leg last year. After months of recuperation, she was fitted for an artificial limb and resumed her demanding concert schedule.

Miss Fields was admitted to Los Angeles New Hospital Sunday night, where she underwent tests, according to her agent, Howard Hinderstein.

Radio suspect sought

DOWNEY (AP) — Police are seeking a 21-year-old Downey man who called a radio station to say he had killed his former girlfriend and left her body in a car.

An arrest warrant was issued Monday for Mark Spencer Brooks, who telephoned a KFWB newscaster several times Saturday to talk about the killing and tell where the body of 21-year-old Sherry Sue Johnson of Downey could be found.

A coroner's report indicated the young woman had been strangled a few hours before she was found by Downey police.

Pesticide safeguards

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Beginning Jan. 1, the most toxic liquid pesticides will have to be handled in "closed mixing systems," says the California Department of Food and Agriculture.

The announcement Monday said this will eliminate the pouring by hand of the pesticides from one container to another. It said hand pouring "is the most hazardous activity involving the handling of Category 1 pesticides and has resulted in many serious human illnesses."

Hanna files probed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The files of former Rep. Richard Hanna, now the property of California State University at Long Beach, are being scrutinized by federal investigators in the government's influence-buying probe of South Korean businessman Tongsun Park.

Peter Spyers-Duran, director of the university library confirmed Monday that the 120 boxes of letters, photographs and memorabilia have been researched by FBI agents and congressional investigators, the Los Angeles Times reported.

White couple loses struggle to 'integrate' black neighborhood

OAKLAND (AP) — Young whites Robert and Carol Murray have lost their three-year battle to overcome harassment and win acceptance in a predominately black neighborhood.

He was beaten to death Sunday while walking home after making what his widow says was "his last attempt to get the neighborhood to accept him."

Now, the young woman vows never to return to their home.

Murray went to a Sunday night meeting a half-mile from his east Oakland home after offering to donate some athletic equipment for a new youth center.

As the 28-year-old real estate salesman walked home at about 8:30 p.m., homicide Sgt. Ed Subica said, a woman called police and reported "four or five of the local thugs are beating up on a white man."

Murray was unconscious when police arrived. He died two hours later during surgery at Vespers Hospital in nearby San Leandro.

Mrs. Murray said in an interview that trouble started right after they moved into their tract home in the old neighborhood called Sobrante Park, an area police say has one of Oakland's higher crime rates.

She said black neighbors called her husband names when he walked their dog. And they would urge their dogs to attack the Murrays' pet, the young woman recalled.

Children would chase him with sticks, Mrs. Murray said. Once, she recalled, as she was driving home a man leaped onto her car and smashed a window.

Then last month, the people running a neighborhood rummage sale refused to accept their donated clothing because they were white, Mrs. Murray said.

At a Monday night meeting of the Elmhurst Community District, which includes Sobrante Park, the Murray slaying was on the agenda.

"We've never had any problems like this out here before," board member Leonard Scott said. "This is probably just an isolated incident, not a racial incident."

Added Larena Epperson: "I heard they were nice people and made an effort to get along in the neighborhood and liked it here."

Murray's father, realtor Bernie Murray, said his son didn't want to move because he liked their home. But things had deteriorated to the point were "he told me last week they would have to get out," Murray said.

The victim received his real estate license three months ago. "He had just started working for me," the elder Murray said. "Everything was going to be good..."

Police say they aren't aware of any similar attacks by blacks on white residents in the area.

No arrests have been reported in the case, but police said Monday they have received a lot of response to their public plea for anyone who has information about the attack to contact authorities.

Mrs. Murray said a private funeral was planned.

POLANSKI LEAVES COURT

Movie director Roman Polanski leaves a Santa Monica court Monday after being ordered to report to the California Institution for Men in Chino Dec. 19. Convicted of having sexual relations with a 13-year-old girl, Polanski was given two months to finish shooting a movie, "The Hurricane," before reporting to the prison for psychiatric testing.

Judge orders Polanski to CIM in December

SANTA MONICA (AP) — Movie director Roman Polanski has been given less than two months to finish preparing for a $14 million Tahitian film epic before he reports to a prison for psychiatric tests.

The 44-year-old director, who has pleaded guilty to a sex crime involving a 13-year-old girl, was told Monday to report to Chino state prison Dec. 19 without fail.

"His imprisonment at Chino will not be postponed beyond that date under any circumstances," said Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband.

Polanski had taken the witness stand Monday to convince the judge that he was really working — not living it up — when he was photographed amid beer mugs and beautiful women at the Munich Octoberfest.

Polanski and producer Dino De Laurentiis swore that the director was in Munich to persuade a distributor to advance $1 million backing for the film, "The Hurricane."

The production is to be filmed at Bora Bora in Tahiti, where De Laurentiis said he is building a hotel and restaurant to accommodate the mammoth cast and crew.

Judge Rittenband noted that he as well as Polanski's lawyer, Douglas Dalton, misunderstood earlier representations that Polanski could finish the film by December. It was that idea which first convinced the judge to delay the prison tests.

On the witness stand, Polanski was asked whether he was really "just relaxing" in Munich as the news photo caption had said.

"If I had time to relax," he said, "I would rather do it in Bora Bora."

The judge commented: "On whether or not he was in Germany strictly on business, I will give him the benefit of the doubt."

Deputy Dist. Atty. Roger Gunson sought to show that Polanski went to Germany to see a 17-year-old actress who has become his protege.

The director conceded that he saw Nastaje Kinski but said it was purely business — to give her a screen test for "The Hurricane."

The diminutive Polanski, clad in a blazer, blue shirt and beige slacks, appeared red-eyed and nervous as he testified. He had flown here from Tahiti on court orders and apparently feared he would be immediately imprisoned for the three months of psychiatric tests.

Polanski was arrested last March 10 and subsequently indicted on six counts of rape, sex perversion and drug abuse with a teen-age girl.

Through a plea bargain, he pleaded guilty to only one count — unlawful sexual intercourse with a minor. He admitted he had sex with the girl in the bedroom of actor Jack Nicholson's home while Nicholson was away.

The judge has said he will sentence Polanski after the prison tests are completed.

Califano urges colleges to reach beyond tradition on admissions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — College admission tests should measure a wider range of talents to help find more qualified minority students, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Joseph Califano says.

"We must continually seek new ways of measuring true human potential," Califano told the College Entrance Examination Board Monday, "ways that reach beyond the traditional yardsticks.

"Great reserves of human talent have been locked up by our national legacy of slavery and discrimination," he added. "Your mission, as leaders in educational admissions, is to ensure that this potential is recognized."

Califano indicated support for programs designed to overcome effects of past discrimination. He said they "seek not to exclude, but to include," by establishing flexible and reasonable numerical goals.

The College Board, a nonprofit organization of some 2,000 educational institutions, associations and scholarship agencies, publishes the Scholastic Aptitude Test which is widely used by college admissions boards.

Also, Califano said he supports state developed and administered competency tests for children to find those who need help in developing basic skills, and to aid schools in gauging their performance.

Crosby's will creates 'living trust' for family

The popular entertainer established a "living trust" four months before his death to handle the bulk of his estate, guaranteeing privacy the estate would not have under normal probate proceedings. Crosby's will was filed for probate Monday.

The living trust, in essence a private will, also provides tax breaks for heirs of the Crosby estate.

The living trust arrangement was unveiled when attorney Richard S. Arnold of Los Angeles filed Crosby's nine-page will for probate in San Mateo County Superior Court.

The will listed cash gifts of $400,000, left Crosby's personal effects to his widow, Kathryn, and gave instructions for the funeral of the entertainer, who died Oct. 14 in Spain. He was 74.

Cash bequests in the will included $150,000 to his widow, $50,000 each to Gonzaga High School and Gonzaga University, both in Crosby's home town of Spokane, Wash., and $5,000 to St. Aloysius Catholic Church also in Spokane.

Crosby also left gifts ranging from $5,000 to $25,000 to a sister, a cousin, four nieces and four longtime business associates.

Richard C. Bergen, Crosby's longtime attorney and friend, was named executor of the will.

Title on door doesn't rate Zenith on the floor

Adams recently ordered the return of 12 new sets costing $375 each, although government regulations permit high officials to have color televisions in their offices.

"Adams found out and said, 'We don't need them,'" according to David Jewell, the department's chief spokesman. "He's against redecorating in general."

Asked in a telephone interview Monday why the sets were needed, Jewell replied, "I don't know the answer. I really don't."

He feels the tale of the televisions is really a story of a runaway federal bureacracy.

There are 110,000 Transportation Department employes and Adams has no idea how many have government televisions, Jewell said.

"It's a common practice," Jewell said. "Every time there's a change in administrations, there's almost an automatic procedure built in where TV sets are ordered for new people coming in."

He said the dozen sets were for officials who qualified for them after a recent departmental reorganization. Other officials brought in by Adams found sets waiting in their offices.

"In the previous administration, everybody entitled to one had one," Jewell said.

Adams found a color set in his office when he arrived. It's still there.

Jewell also has one, although he's not ranked high enough to demand one.

"A color one was left here and my deputy has a black and white," he said. "We're supposed to watch press conferences and news shows. If I weren't the public relations man, I wouldn't have one."

The people allowed sets are the secretary, assistant secretaries, deputy assistant secretaries, agency administrators and deputy administrators.

These employes have considerable management responsibility and earn at least $47,500 a year, Jewell said.

He added, "You're entitled to furniture if you're a certain rank. My office furniture and carpet are not red hot. An assistant secretary has a much nicer carpet and furniture. You also get pictures on your wall when you get to be a certain rank.

Son of Sam victim may view Berkowitz

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Violante, the last shooting victim of the .44-caliber killer known as "Son of Sam," may soon be able to see the man accused of wounding him.

It had been feared that Violante would be permanently blinded by the bullet that tore through his head, blinded his left eye and badly damaged his right. But the young Brooklyn man says his world is brighter because he is seeing "more and more." Now, he can even read.

Violante, 20, was shot last July as he and his date, the late Stacy Moskowitz, also 20, became the 12th and 13th persons shot by the killer who had called himself "Son of Sam."

Violante had told police he got a good look at the man who wounded him and killed Miss Moskowitz, but because of the severe damage to his eyes, authorities were worried that he would never be able to identify a suspect.

On the same day, Violante and his parents flew to Boston and the Retina Institute offices of Dr. McKenzie Freeman, a leading eye specialist. There, Violante was outfitted with special glasses whose magnifying lens enables him to read large print.

Violante has begun reading for periods of five to 10 minutes, then rests his eye for half an hour.

"I'm the only one who can really tell how much I've improved, and actually I see much better," he said. "Now I can read anything I want in large type. The public libraries have novels and paperbacks I can use.

"But the honest truth is that I'm not a reader at all. Actually I hate to read. This is going to be like homework," he said, laughing.

Now that he's feeling better, he also says he is finding the limitations imposed by his wound "a little bit of a drag.

"I'm not going out really at all yet, but a lot of my friends and girl friends come to visit," he said.

But there have been bad times.

"Of course I've been depressed. I'm human," he said. "But it's only been maybe 10 or 15 minutes when I'll think, 'Oh, wow, what a drag. What am I going to do.?' But it's just my nature to make the best of things."

Student admits killing family

BRUNSWICK, Ohio (AP) — A university student has admitted that he beat his parents and two brothers with a baseball bat, soaked their bodies and home with gasoline and ignited it with a match, Police Chief Clayton Crook said today.

Crook said Michael Swihart, 18, was charged with four counts of aggravated murder late Monday night after telling police that he killed his family.

The chief refused to disclose the motive for the slayings or any other details of the teenager's statement.

Medina County Coroner Andrew Karson said Michael's father, Donald, 41, died of mutiple head injuries inflicted with a baseball bat.

The youth's mother, Sue Ellen, 40, and brothers Brian, 16, and Russell, 9, suffered severe head wounds and were either unconscious or dead before the fire was set, Karson said.

On Monday, the coronor had said the father died in an explosion of fumes from a flammable liquid which investigators said had been poured over the bodies in the family's home in this Cleveland suburb.

Crook said a gasoline can was found in what was left of the burned home along with a device believed to have been used to ignite it. He declined to describe the device.

Rape-slaying suspect takes stand

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

Clarence L. Hill has testified he cut his arm while breaking into his own apartment, and denied an allegation he was stabbed by a 15-year-old girl who was raped June 24 in Montclair.

Hill, on trial for the alleged murder-rape of Audrey Townsend, 15, the attempted murder of her mother, and the rape and attempted murder of her girlfriend, also denied telling officers he had "done something bad" after his arrest.

The defendant told jury members that during the morning of June 24 when the crimes took place, he was at his Pomona apartment breaking the window in his front door because he had locked himself out. He said he cut his arm in the process.

Hill claimed his wife had poured gin on him in a Pomona bar during an argument the previous night. The defendant said he left the bar, went to his home to change clothes, but found he didn't have a key.

He said he rejoined his wife shortly after midnight and was driving in the Montclair area for several hours while arguing with his wife.

He said he got mad, stopped the car and left his wife near the Montclair apartment complex where the crimes occurred.

Hill said after leaving his wife he looked into the Stop n Go market on Ramona Avenue and thought about robbing it. He said he changed his mind and then went to a friend's house to call a taxi.

Hill said that he did not leave the friend's apartment until the next morning.

In earlier testimony, Miss Townsend's girlfriend testified that Hill first raped and killed Miss Townsend, then stabbed Mrs. Pauline Monroe (Miss Townsend's mother) and then raped her (girlfriend.)

Hill also denied telling several police detectives from Ontario and Montclair he would tell them everything he knew if he were given only 15 to 20 years in prison.

Hill, according to the officers' testimony, had asked if the death penalty would apply at the time of the alleged crimes.

He also denied telling officers that he had "done something bad" in a dream, but couldn't remember what.

Monday a rebuttal witness, Dr. Robert Flannigan, a physician who interviewed Hill after his arrest, said the defendant told him he needed help.

Dr. Flannigan said that Hill told him, "he was afraid that if he didn't get help he would be killed during the commission of a crime, or blow his brains out."

The doctor also said that the defendant hold him he was "possessed."

ROY GALLIHUGH GUARDS SUSPECT MICHAEL LASICH

SAN DIEGO (AP) - A man wounded in a shootout with an armored car security guard has been arrested for investigation of an earlier armored car robbery that netted the bandit $21,000 six weeks ago, police said.

Michael G. Lasich, 27, of La Jolla was struck in the face by a shotgun blast in the Monday afternoon incident and was listed in fair condition at a hospital, they said.

The Armored Transport Inc. security guard, identified by a spokesman as Roy Gallihugh, fired from inside the armored car seconds after another guard on foot was forced to hand several bags of money to the gunman.

A woman clerk said she saw the bandit walk up to a guard carrying money bags from inside Bullock's department store in Mission Valley.

"I saw this guy walk up to a guard," said the clerk, Susan Goodwin. "The robber had a gun in the officer's stomach. Then I heard two shots and I saw the guy running."

The money bags and a pistol taken from the guard were recovered, according to police.

Lasich was held for investigation of two counts of armed robbery and one count of assault with a deadly weapon, investigators said. The second count of armed robbery stems from the Aug. 5 holdup of a Loomis Armored Car Service, Inc. guard in nearby Fashion Valley in which the robber escaped.

No one else was reported hurt in Monday's incident but four parked cars were hit by gunfire, police said.

Brush fire deliberately set?

Arson is suspected in a 5-acre brush fire which broke out near LeRoy Boy's Home in La Verne Monday afternoon.

Gay porno house fire kills six

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigators suspect the explosion of cleaning equipment or a gas heater caused a fire that killed six men and injured nine others at a homosexual film club Monday.

Flames blocked the front door and firemen had to force their way through a back-door to reach the victims, who were on the second floor of the Cinema Follies.

About a dozen persons were watching "all-male, X-rated" films in the the two-story brick building, police said. Those killed apparently died of smoke inhalation, and the injured victims, who included two firemen, also were felled by smoke.

Identities of the victims were not available.

Police Inspector Bryant Hopkins said the fire apparently was caused by use of cleaning equipment in the foyer of the structure in southeast Washington, about a mile south of the Capitol.

Hopkins said a maintenance man was using the electrically powered equipment and a solution of two cleaning compounds near a gas heater just before the fire.

Police said natural gas may have leaked from the heater and ignited a spark from the cleaning machine.

It was also possible, police said, that a spark from the machine may have ignited the cleaning compounds.

S. African sanctions?

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ambassador Andrew Young says he favors mandatory United Nations sanctions against South Africa but the Carter administration has not decided yet whether to go that far because of the white South African government's latest crackdown on blacks.

In a Security Council debate that began Monday, black African nations are demanding that the council order a mandatory arms embargo and other stringent international measures against South Africa.

Young, emerging from the first day's debate, replied "yes" when asked by reporters whether he supports some form of sanctions against the Pretoria government.

But he added: "My role is to describe the situation and possible alternatives (to the White House).... The President and secretary of state will have to decide what sanctions are appropriate in these conditions."

The United States, Britain and France used their vetos in the Security Council in 1975 to block a mandatory arms embargo against South Africa. However, the U.S. government put an arms cutoff into effect voluntarily.

Young, who met with Carter at the White House earlier Monday to discuss South Africa, hinted the United States would seek a compromise resolution short of a binding arms embargo.

Nationalists seize Statue of Liberty

NEW YORK (AP) — About 30 demonstrators who said they represented the New York Committee to Free the Puerto Rican Nationalists Prisoners took over the Statue of Liberty this morning, authorities said.

Officials said the group arrived on the first sightseeing boat to Liberty Island and immediately occupied the statue.

A Coast Guard spokesman said a boat would be sent to the island to remove tourists and persons who live or work there.

The National Park Service is in charge of the island.

The FBI said it was notified of the takover but that no immediate action would be taken.

Barking dogs aren't Hungarian rhapsody

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arranging marching music for visiting dignitaries is well within the normal scope of activities for State Department protocol officers.

But keeping Hungarian diplomats from being awakened by the marches intentionally blaring away from a house next to the embassy isn't.

"It's an amazing situation," said one protocol official called in to negotiate a peace settlement between the Hungarian Embassy and neurologist Richard Sussman.

Kept awake nights by guard dogs prowling the embassy grounds in a fashionable Washington neighborhood, Sussman fired a 6 a.m. phone call to the embassy's No. 2 man.

"If I can't sleep, why should you be able to sleep?" he demanded. Harsh words were exchanged before the official hung up, Sussman said.

Sussman began round two by erecting a 30-foot flagpole and flying the Stars and Stripes, to remind his adversary that the embassy is in the United States.

The flag was illuminated by a floodlight aimed at the ambassador's window. Sussman also complains that the antennas on top of the embassy are unsightly, and that the building's air-conditioning equipment is too noisy.

To counter the barking, Sussman put marching music on his stereo system and turned up the volume. He had planned to raise the flag of the Hungarian freedom fighters on the anniversary of the Oct. 23, 1956 revolt.

The matter was considered urgent enough for Evan S. Dobelle, U.S. chief of protocol, to consider returning to Washington from a trip accompanying Prince Charles of Britain on his visit to this country.

Dobelle moved to prevent an international flareup by negotiating a two-week truce between Sussman and an attorney for the embassy

"The moratorium is holding. The doctor has called off his assault," a protocol officer reported Monday.

The embassy, in turn, has agreed to pen its dogs at night, try to quiet the air conditioning and has planted 15-foot high trees to block the view of the antennas.

Sussman would only be satisfied by trees twice that height, the State Department said, and the embassy is trying to comply. The embassy has also called in an engineer for a second attempt at quieting the air-conditioning system.

Describing their role as "a friendly mediator between the two parties, State Department officials hope to get both sides' arguments in writing to begin serious negotiations. "We don't like embassies to have this type of trouble in addition to the substantive troubles they face here," said Hampton Davis, assistant chief of protocol for consular services.

PROTESTOR BERNARD SUSSMAN

Title on door doesn't rate Zenith on the floor

Adams recently ordered the return of 12 new sets costing $375 each, although government regulations permit high officials to have color televisions in their offices.

"Adams found out and said, 'We don't need them,'" according to David Jewell, the department's chief spokesman. "He's against redecorating in general."

Asked in a telephone interview Monday why the sets were needed, Jewell replied, "I don't know the answer. I really don't."

He feels the tale of the televisions is really a story of a runaway federal bureacracy.

There are 110,000 Transportation Department employes and Adams has no idea how many have government televisions, Jewell said.

"It's a common practice," Jewell said. "Every time there's a change in administrations, there's almost an automatic procedure built in where TV sets are ordered for new people coming in."

He said the dozen sets were for officials who qualified for them after a recent departmental reorganization. Other officials brought in by Adams found sets waiting in their offices.

"In the previous administration, everybody entitled to one had one," Jewell said.

Adams found a color set in his office when he arrived. It's still there.

Jewell also has one, although he's not ranked high enough to demand one.

"A color one was left here and my deputy has a black and white," he said. "We're supposed to watch press conferences and news shows. If I weren't the public relations man, I wouldn't have one."

The people allowed sets are the secretary, assistant secretaries, deputy assistant secretaries, agency administrators and deputy administrators.

These employes have considerable management responsibility and earn at least $47,500 a year, Jewell said.

He added, "You're entitled to furniture if you're a certain rank. My office furniture and carpet are not red hot. An assistant secretary has a much nicer carpet and furniture. You also get pictures on your wall when you get to be a certain rank.

Son of Sam victim may view Berkowitz

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Violante, the last shooting victim of the .44-caliber killer known as "Son of Sam," may soon be able to see the man accused of wounding him.

It had been feared that Violante would be permanently blinded by the bullet that tore through his head, blinded his left eye and badly damaged his right. But the young Brooklyn man says his world is brighter because he is seeing "more and more." Now, he can even read.

Violante, 20, was shot last July as he and his date, the late Stacy Moskowitz, also 20, became the 12th and 13th persons shot by the killer who had called himself "Son of Sam."

Violante had told police he got a good look at the man who wounded him and killed Miss Moskowitz, but because of the severe damage to his eyes, authorities were worried that he would never be able to identify a suspect.

On the same day, Violante and his parents flew to Boston and the Retina Institute offices of Dr. McKenzie Freeman, a leading eye specialist. There, Violante was outfitted with special glasses whose magnifying lens enables him to read large print.

Violante has begun reading for periods of five to 10 minutes, then rests his eye for half an hour.

"I'm the only one who can really tell how much I've improved, and actually I see much better," he said. "Now I can read anything I want in large type. The public libraries have novels and paperbacks I can use.

"But the honest truth is that I'm not a reader at all. Actually I hate to read. This is going to be like homework," he said, laughing.

Now that he's feeling better, he also says he is finding the limitations imposed by his wound "a little bit of a drag.

"I'm not going out really at all yet, but a lot of my friends and girl friends come to visit," he said.

But there have been bad times.

"Of course I've been depressed. I'm human," he said. "But it's only been maybe 10 or 15 minutes when I'll think, 'Oh, wow, what a drag. What am I going to do.?' But it's just my nature to make the best of things."

Student admits killing family

BRUNSWICK, Ohio (AP) — A university student has admitted that he beat his parents and two brothers with a baseball bat, soaked their bodies and home with gasoline and ignited it with a match, Police Chief Clayton Crook said today.

Crook said Michael Swihart, 18, was charged with four counts of aggravated murder late Monday night after telling police that he killed his family.

The chief refused to disclose the motive for the slayings or any other details of the teenager's statement.

Medina County Coroner Andrew Karson said Michael's father, Donald, 41, died of mutiple head injuries inflicted with a baseball bat.

The youth's mother, Sue Ellen, 40, and brothers Brian, 16, and Russell, 9, suffered severe head wounds and were either unconscious or dead before the fire was set, Karson said.

On Monday, the coronor had said the father died in an explosion of fumes from a flammable liquid which investigators said had been poured over the bodies in the family's home in this Cleveland suburb.

Crook said a gasoline can was found in what was left of the burned home along with a device believed to have been used to ignite it. He declined to describe the device.

Rape-slaying suspect takes stand

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

Clarence L. Hill has testified he cut his arm while breaking into his own apartment, and denied an allegation he was stabbed by a 15-year-old girl who was raped June 24 in Montclair.

Hill, on trial for the alleged murder-rape of Audrey Townsend, 15, the attempted murder of her mother, and the rape and attempted murder of her girlfriend, also denied telling officers he had "done something bad" after his arrest.

The defendant told jury members that during the morning of June 24 when the crimes took place, he was at his Pomona apartment breaking the window in his front door because he had locked himself out. He said he cut his arm in the process.

Hill claimed his wife had poured gin on him in a Pomona bar during an argument the previous night. The defendant said he left the bar, went to his home to change clothes, but found he didn't have a key.

He said he rejoined his wife shortly after midnight and was driving in the Montclair area for several hours while arguing with his wife.

He said he got mad, stopped the car and left his wife near the Montclair apartment complex where the crimes occurred.

Hill said after leaving his wife he looked into the Stop n Go market on Ramona Avenue and thought about robbing it. He said he changed his mind and then went to a friend's house to call a taxi.

Hill said that he did not leave the friend's apartment until the next morning.

In earlier testimony, Miss Townsend's girlfriend testified that Hill first raped and killed Miss Townsend, then stabbed Mrs. Pauline Monroe (Miss Townsend's mother) and then raped her (girlfriend.)

Hill also denied telling several police detectives from Ontario and Montclair he would tell them everything he knew if he were given only 15 to 20 years in prison.

Hill, according to the officers' testimony, had asked if the death penalty would apply at the time of the alleged crimes.

He also denied telling officers that he had "done something bad" in a dream, but couldn't remember what.

Monday a rebuttal witness, Dr. Robert Flannigan, a physician who interviewed Hill after his arrest, said the defendant told him he needed help.

Dr. Flannigan said that Hill told him, "he was afraid that if he didn't get help he would be killed during the commission of a crime, or blow his brains out."

The doctor also said that the defendant hold him he was "possessed."

Guard foils armored car heist

SAN DIEGO (AP) - A man wounded in a shootout with an armored car security guard has been arrested for investigation of an earlier armored car robbery that netted the bandit $21,000 six weeks ago, police said.

Michael G. Lasich, 27, of La Jolla was struck in the face by a shotgun blast in the Monday afternoon incident and was listed in fair condition at a hospital, they said.

The Armored Transport Inc. security guard, identified by a spokesman as Roy Gallihugh, fired from inside the armored car seconds after another guard on foot was forced to hand several bags of money to the gunman.

A woman clerk said she saw the bandit walk up to a guard carrying money bags from inside Bullock's department store in Mission Valley.

"I saw this guy walk up to a guard," said the clerk, Susan Goodwin. "The robber had a gun in the officer's stomach. Then I heard two shots and I saw the guy running."

The money bags and a pistol taken from the guard were recovered, according to police.

Lasich was held for investigation of two counts of armed robbery and one count of assault with a deadly weapon, investigators said. The second count of armed robbery stems from the Aug. 5 holdup of a Loomis Armored Car Service, Inc. guard in nearby Fashion Valley in which the robber escaped.

No one else was reported hurt in Monday's incident but four parked cars were hit by gunfire, police said.

$23.80 average paid for drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average American spent $23.80 for prescription medicines in 1973, but the cost was much higher among the elderly, a government survey shows.

The out-of-pocket expense for prescription drugs rose sharply from a low of $9.10 per year for persons under 17 to $61.40 for those 65 or older, according to the National Health Survey report released Tuesday.

Some 1.2 billion prescriptions were filled during the year studied, or an average of 5.8 per person.

The researchers found that low-income families used more prescription drugs, but they also obtained more free medicine through government programs or from their doctors.

Alaska, Ohio feud on name change

SHOULD IT BE MT. McKINLEY OR DENALI?

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Ohio congressman says Alaska is trying to deal a low blow to one of his state's favorite sons, stripping William McKinley's name from North America's highest peak.

But Alaskans maintain the mountain was Denali, The Great One, long before a wandering prospector had the temerity to attach the name of a flatlander politician, a name chosen partly in a fit of revenge.

The dispute involves the 20,320-foot Alaska mountain which has borne McKinley's name for 81 years. Alaska wants its historic name restored.

Rep. Ralph S. Regula, R-Ohio, says it would be "an affront to the presidency and to the memory of William McKinley" to rename the mountain.

Except for Ohio's 25-member congressional delegation, Regula says there is no organized opposition to the change. But he hopes to marshal support for his cause following today's Interior Department hearing on the proposal.

"Out of respect for a president, and a martyred president at that, this change ought not to be made," said Regula, who concedes he has never been to Alaska or seen the peak.

The Alaska Legislature petitioned the interior secretary in 1975 to approve the name change. Alaska's governor, several conservation groups and the National Park Service back the move.

Congress also is considering a bill to rename the 1.9-million-acre Mt. McKinley National Park, where the peak is located, to Denali. The interior secretary can rename the mountain, but only Congress can rename a national park.

According to officials of the U.S. Board on Geographic Names, which is conducting the hearing, the mountain was called by the Indian name Denali for centuries. But in 1896, prospector William A. Dickey stuck the McKinley tag on the peak.

Alaska Gov. Jay Hammond said Dickey "fell in with a trio of prospectors who were rabid champions of free silver, and after listening to their arguments for many weary days, he retaliated by naming the mountain after the champion of the gold standard."

Hammond said Dickey also selected the name because the first news he heard upon leaving the wilderness was that McKinley had received the Republican nomination for president.

The name grew in status after McKinley won the election that fall, and his assassination in 1901 further popularized the name, even though McKinley never set foot in Alaska.

"To those with even the most casual interest in Alaska and this mountain," says Hammond of Dickey's motives, "it must be obvious these are simply not valid reasons for the name McKinley."

Interior Department officials say the department has received 6,000 letters and petition signatures on the issue, and 62 per cent favor the name change to Denali. The only opponents, other than those in Ohio, are several Alaska chambers of commerce and vacation firms

Suspect arson in blaze

Fire broke out Monday night in the rear building of the Boy Scouts of America headquarters in Claremont while a meeting was under way in the front building.

The $10,000 fire appears to have been set in a pile of wood being stored outside of a rear building on the property, according to Ron Brundage, executive director of Old Baldy Council Boy Scouts.

The wood was to be sold for the benefit of YMCA Indian Y-Guides, Brundage said. The YMCA rents space in the scout facility at 120 W. San Jose Ave., Claremont.

Larry Aids, a neighbor of Brundage in Claremont, first spotted the fire while driving on the San Bernardino Freeway. He rushed to the headquarters at the same time the fire was seen by the group meeting in the front building.

There were no injuries and damage was confined to the exterior of the building and to some camping equipment stored inside.

Brundage said the headquarters will be open today.

Cause of the fire is being investigated by Los Angeles County fire officials.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A robber wearing a pillowcase over his head managed to carry out a heist at a Northwest Side sandwich shop Monday night — even though he neglected to cut eye holes in the pillowcase.

The man, armed with a knife, had to lift the pillowcase occasionally to see what was happening, officials said, but he escaped on foot with two paper bags containing an undisclosed amount of money.

LONDON (AP) — J.B. Priestley and three other Britons have been appointed to the Order of Merit, Buckingham Palace announced today.

It is one of the few honors whose recipients are personally selected by Queen Elizabeth II. Most honors are conferred by the monarch on the advice of the prime minister.

In addition to the 83-year-old Priestley, a novelist, others receiving the honor were Sir Frederick Ashton, 71, a choreographer and former director of the Royal Ballet; Lord Franks, 72, former ambassador to the United States and chairman of several recent government committees of inquiry, and Lord Todd, 70, a research scientist.

The Order of Merit was founded in 1902 by King Edward VII as a special distinction.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Entertainer Frank Fontaine is going home to Boston after five weeks in a hospital where he has been recovering from a heart attack.

Fontaine played the character of Crazy Guggenheim on the old Jackie Gleason show.

Mount Carmel East Hospital officials said Monday that Fontaine, 57, was in satisfactory condition, and would be released today to fly home for further convalescence.

Fontaine was hospitalized Sept. 18 after collapsing in Port Columbus International Airport following a three-day engagement at the Sandalwood Inn in Columbus.

WILLIAM SIMON

NEW YORK (AP) — William Simon, former secretary of the treasury, has resigned as chairman of the board of The Trib, a planned daily newspaper, at the request of the paper's publisher, Leonard Saffir.

Saffir said Simon's resignation was requested because Simon had "attempted unsuccessfully to gain editorial and financial control for political purposes."

According to Simon's secretary, Simon, now working for a management consultant firm, "has resigned due to a commitment of time and other personal reasons."

The five-day-a-week paper is due to begin circulation on Jan. 9.

Meanwhile, in Boise, Idaho, at a Republican fund-raising event, Simon said he's not running for president, the U.S. Senate, or any other public office, despite persistent speculation.

Simon said Monday that he was pleased to be mentioned among the leading Republican contenders for the 1980 presidential nomination.

"I guess I'm flattered," he said, adding that for now, "I'm concerned with various public policies and I will spend from now until next year trying to put the balance back in Congress."

There has been speculation that Simon will challenge Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., or run for the spot in the event Case retires.

"I have no intention of running for any office," Simon said. "...As far as I know, Cliff Case is going to run again."

$23.80 average paid for drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average American spent $23.80 for prescription medicines in 1973, but the cost was much higher among the elderly, a government survey shows.

The out-of-pocket expense for prescription drugs rose sharply from a low of $9.10 per year for persons under 17 to $61.40 for those 65 or older, according to the National Health Survey report released Tuesday.

Some 1.2 billion prescriptions were filled during the year studied, or an average of 5.8 per person.

The researchers found that low-income families used more prescription drugs, but they also obtained more free medicine through government programs or from their doctors.

Pomona Adult School

The Pomona Adult School is operating a Programmed Assistance to Learning (PAL) laboratory in the former Southern California Gas Co. building at 1540 W. Second St., Pomona.

"The PAL program is designed for people who want to take courses for high school credit or to increase their own general knowledge," said John H. Camper, the school district's new adult school principal.

Sudents work on their own individual programmed courses, with assistance from a teacher, at hours and days to suit their own schedules.

Courses are available in English, spelling, American government, health science, U.S. history and basic mathematics with a major emphasis on developing basic reading and math laboratories for pre-high school adult students.

The PAL progarm is one of several adult courses in operation at the former gas company facility. Other courses are upholstery, taught in both English and Spanish; power sewing; English as a second language; and auto upholstery. Future programs will include General Educational Development (High school equivalency testing), typing, bookkeeping, business machines, and other business-related courses.

The PAL lab is open Mondays through Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and Mondays and Wednesdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Daytime hours will be extended if demand develops, said officials.

Before opening the PAL laboratory, Vick ran a similar learning lab at the California Institution for Men. A graduate of the State University of New York at Brockport, he taught junior high school classes for four years in North Carolina before coming to California.

Enrollment at the lab has jumped from five on opening day, Sept. 12 to 40. Vick said students take the courses for various reasons, including:

—Improving their knowledge of English and mathematics because of vocational requirements.

—Increasing their personal knowledge of various subjects.

—Obtaining credits needed for high school graduation.

The PAL classroom is bordered with 16 study carrels where students work on individual programs. The room also has several round tables to seat several students at a time and an audio-visual area where materials are stored.

Several courses, such as math, English review, and basic spelling, utilize cassettes and tape recorders in conjunction with program workbooks. A reading course on tapes that will handle kindergarten through 12th-grade subjects is on order. A sound-filmstrip projector is also available for use in several subjects.

PAL students range from 16-year-old high school students, who need to come in at night to finish graduation requirements, to people in their 40s working on the GED test. They may enter at any time during the year by registering at the Adult School office in the Education Center, 800 S. Garey Ave.

A lab fee of $3 is charged for each course, and there is also a 25 cent student body fee. All courses carry five units of high school credit. Books and materials are provided by the school.

New highway landscape to be tested

Motorists pausing at the Fontana reststop on the San Bernardino Freeway will glimpse a wild desert shrub that may someday save California thousands of acre feet in water a year.

Jojoba, the wild shrub, will be planted Wednesday at 10 a.m., a joint project of UC Riverside and the California Department of Transportation. The university will provide the plants and Caltrans will maintain them.

Caltrans officials hope the demonstration plot of 200 seedlings will prove jojoba to be a drought-resistant ornamental usable on desert highways. After the first year, jojoba plants should require no watering. Currently, Caltrans estimates it uses 2.5 acre feet of water per landscape acre per year.

UCR plant scientist Dr. Demetrios Yermanos hopes to demonstrate jojoba's ornamental possibilities to the landscape industry, further hastening the shrub's domestication and cultivation.

Yermanos has already alerted the lubricants industry to jojoba's other remarkable qualities. He proved it contains a chemically rare liquid wax ideally suited to use as a high-pressure lubricant. It is capable of replacing sperm whale oil, now subject to import ban and sorely missed by a huge market, including the car industry.

Jojoba, to be planted at Fontana by the California Conservation Corps, will be studied for use on Southern California highways, especially desert highways connecting San Bernardino to Bishop, Needles, Las Vegas, Palm Springs, Blythe, Temecula and El Centro.

The extent of its future highway use will depend on its performance at the experimental plot during the next few years. Several factors will be monitored, said Caltrans landscape architect Warren Chan.

"Will it survive without watering after the first year, as scientists predict?" he said. "Will it grow the predicted one foot per year under very dry conditions? How fast will it root, controlling soil erosion? Is it pleasing in appearance? Is it thick enough to screen headlights of oncoming cars, or to screen residential neighborhoods from highways?"

Jojoba's ability to grow on as little as 8 inches of water a year — desert conditions — is its chief advantage to Caltrans. Its 10-year maturation period is only slow to moderate by comparison with other highway shrubs. Rapid growth to maturity is favored for minimizing weed control and maximizing screening and erosion control.

Pomona Adult School

The Pomona Adult School is operating a Programmed Assistance to Learning (PAL) laboratory in the former Southern California Gas Co. building at 1540 W. Second St., Pomona.

"The PAL program is designed for people who want to take courses for high school credit or to increase their own general knowledge," said John H. Camper, the school district's new adult school principal.

Sudents work on their own individual programmed courses, with assistance from a teacher, at hours and days to suit their own schedules.

Courses are available in English, spelling, American government, health science, U.S. history and basic mathematics with a major emphasis on developing basic reading and math laboratories for pre-high school adult students.

The PAL progarm is one of several adult courses in operation at the former gas company facility. Other courses are upholstery, taught in both English and Spanish; power sewing; English as a second language; and auto upholstery. Future programs will include General Educational Development (High school equivalency testing), typing, bookkeeping, business machines, and other business-related courses.

The PAL lab is open Mondays through Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and Mondays and Wednesdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Daytime hours will be extended if demand develops, said officials.

Before opening the PAL laboratory, Vick ran a similar learning lab at the California Institution for Men. A graduate of the State University of New York at Brockport, he taught junior high school classes for four years in North Carolina before coming to California.

Enrollment at the lab has jumped from five on opening day, Sept. 12 to 40. Vick said students take the courses for various reasons, including:

—Improving their knowledge of English and mathematics because of vocational requirements.

—Increasing their personal knowledge of various subjects.

—Obtaining credits needed for high school graduation.

The PAL classroom is bordered with 16 study carrels where students work on individual programs. The room also has several round tables to seat several students at a time and an audio-visual area where materials are stored.

Several courses, such as math, English review, and basic spelling, utilize cassettes and tape recorders in conjunction with program workbooks. In Chino Hills

Chino's influence sphere reduced

The City of Chino's sphere of influence in the Chino Hills was reduced drastically this week by the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO), a county agency charged with the responsibility of settling boundary disputes.

Homeowners in the Chino Hills have for several years been debating whether or not the area should eventually be annexed to the city, or should remain an autonomous community with its own separate identity.

Those in favor of removing the City of Chino's influence in the area appeared to have won the latest battle over the issue.

LAFCO commissioners voted 5 to 2 Wednesday to reduce Chino's sphere of influence from the general western ridgeline of the foothills west of the city down to the Corona Expressway.

The decision affects rapidly developing land in the Chino Hills that roughly parallels a 2½-mile strip west of the roadway.

Chino City officials had not totally opposed efforts to reduce the sphere of influence, but had indicated they favored the boundaries remaining as is.

The decision by LAFCO, however, will not affect most government services in the area. It will affect future planning and development, said Dennis Chiniaeff, director of community development in Chino.

Residents of Los Serranos, Glenmeade and Chino Hills have been debating the sphere of influence issue for several years.

A study of the area prepared by an ad hoc committee of residents concluded the city's sphere of influence should have been pushed back to a flood control channel that runs parallel to the Corona Expressway, but further east from it.

Another study prepared by the San Bernardino County Special Districts Department recommended expanding the city's sphere of influence to include nearly all of the land west of Chino to the Los Angeles County line.

They felt the area should eventually be incorporated into Chino, rather than be developed separately.

Expansion of the sphere, however, was opposed by both city officials and unincorporated area residents.

Because of the confusion over the issue, the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors, who currently have jurisdiction in the area, recently asked for a review by LAFCO of the whole sphere of influence question.

A Chino Hills Municipal Advisory Council (MAC), appointed recently by Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino, voted to reduce the size of Chino's sphere of influence. to the Corona Expressway, rather than the flood control channel as the MAC had requested.

Another hearing on the environmental aspects will be heard soon.

The Thursday evening session will include the first lesson and registration. No dogs are to be brought to this first lesson. The fee for the 10-week course is $25.

In Chino Hills

Chino's influence sphere reduced

The City of Chino's sphere of influence in the Chino Hills was reduced drastically this week by the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO), a county agency charged with the responsibility of settling boundary disputes.

Homeowners in the Chino Hills have for several years been debating whether or not the area should eventually be annexed to the city, or should remain an autonomous community with its own separate identity.

Those in favor of removing the City of Chino's influence in the area appeared to have won the latest battle over the issue.

LAFCO commissioners voted 5 to 2 Wednesday to reduce Chino's sphere of influence from the general western ridgeline of the foothills west of the city down to the Corona Expressway.

The decision affects rapidly developing land in the Chino Hills that roughly parallels a 2½-mile strip west of the roadway.

Chino City officials had not totally opposed efforts to reduce the sphere of influence, but had indicated they favored the boundaries remaining as is.

The decision by LAFCO, however, will not affect most government services in the area. It will affect future planning and development, said Dennis Chiniaeff, director of community development in Chino.

Residents of Los Serranos, Glenmeade and Chino Hills have been debating the sphere of influence issue for several years.

A study of the area prepared by an ad hoc committee of residents concluded the city's sphere of influence should have been pushed back to a flood control channel that runs parallel to the Corona Expressway, but further east from it.

Another study prepared by the San Bernardino County Special Districts Department recommended expanding the city's sphere of influence to include nearly all of the land west of Chino to the Los Angeles County line.

They felt the area should eventually be incorporated into Chino, rather than be developed separately.

Expansion of the sphere, however, was opposed by both city officials and unincorporated area residents.

Because of the confusion over the issue, the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors, who currently have jurisdiction in the area, recently asked for a review by LAFCO of the whole sphere of influence question.

A Chino Hills Municipal Advisory Council (MAC), appointed recently by Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino, voted to reduce the size of Chino's sphere of influence. to the Corona Expressway, rather than the flood control channel as the MAC had requested.

Another hearing on the environmental aspects will be heard soon.

Claremont board, council review city recreational needs

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

The need for more school athletic facilities and more city recreational facilities was discussed at a joint Claremont school board-City Council meeting Monday.

Presently over a barrel financially, the two bodies met to try to hammer out a method by which some joint use may be created.

Heavily impacted by a federal law which, among other things, requires sports teams for girls, Claremont High School has had its number of sports teams more than double in the past five years. Meanwhile, a general interest in sports has also increased, putting a heavier stress on the school's present facilities.

At the community level, the City Council views the creation of an added 10- to 15-acre sports park, with a soccer and baseball field, as its top recreational priority.

Both school district and city facilities are being used, as one official put it, "seven days a week."

Of major concern to school trustees Monday was the possible redesign of Cahuilla Park to include a soccer field along with the two baseball fields already on the site immediately north of Claremont High School on Indian Hill Boulevard.

Board President Mary Ellen Kilsby said the district has now determined that it will definitely remain a one-high-school district and that it will sell its approximately 40-acre Miramar Avenue high school site.

The board then faces the decision of what to do with the money from that land sale. Two choices predominate.

The first of these is to devote all or a portion of these funds to the purchase of the 6.6 acres immediately south of Claremont High School for development of a baseball field, soccer field and parking area. The land is owned by Griswolds' owner Alton Sanford who is contemplating development of a condominium complex on the site. The district, however, is already considering the possible condemnation of the property which adjoins an approximately 1.5 acre wedge-shaped parcel of undeveloped land on the high school campus.

However, feelings expressed Monday indicated that if the city and school district could work out a plan for development of a soccer field along with the two baseball fields already in Cahuilla Park, funds from the sale of the Miramar site could go to the development of a swimming pool and an additional gymnasium on the high school campus.

At the same time, it appears as though the district and the city should be able to reach accord on the development of the sports park for recreational uses on approximately 10 acres west of La Puerta Intermediate School.

Among the many opinions expressed over the situation Monday evening was the feeling that both the city and the district give greater thought to additional lighted fields.

City Recreation Director Ron Hagan commented that, while lighting does provide additional time for a field to be used, it also creates a problem for the amount of wear the turf on the field can sustain without ruining the playing surface.

Officials also heard one resident comment that she hoped the city would maintain a policy of not developing all of its park space so that some areas would remain for young children to simply run and play or picnic without having to belong to a given sports organization in order to use park facilities.

Mrs. Kilsby also explained that she hoped voters would not confuse the present athletic facilities problem with the district's planned revenue limit increase election next March, noting that capital outlay funds and operating funds (the latter impacted by the revenue limit election) come from "two different pockets."

The district presently is having a consultant prepare two studies on the athletic facility configuration for the high school. One study includes the acreage south of the high school without the incorporation of Cahuilla Park. The other includes Cahuilla Park and the additonal gym and pool.

Report on Pomona anti-gang program scheduled Thursday

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Hard-core gang members, 14 to 17 years old, will report on a federally-funded special youth development service project designed to keep them in school during a public meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Pomona City Council chambers.

Persons directly or indirectly involved in the $100,000 first phase of the "anti-gang" project between April and September will attend the session.

The second phase, funded by Los Angeles County for $76,000, will operate between Oct. 1 and Sept. 30, 1978.

Enrique Segura, project coordinator, said 12 agencies which came in contact with the project during its first phase were "very satisfied" with its performance.

The project had a goal of putting 55 members of the Cherrieville and Twelfth Street gangs on probation back into school.

After attending classes, they received training for positions such as clerks, janitors and teachers' aides.

The trained members may be found working at the Department of Motor Vehicles, Pacific State Hospital, Pomona College, Air National Guard at Ontario and the Pomona Athletic League several hours each afternoon.

During the summer months, those participating may work 20 hours a week at $2.50 per hour.

"Through the cooperation of various agencies and some experimental money, we hope to decrease gang activities in our Barrio areas of the city," explained Segura.

He said that of the 54 youths — including 22 girls — involved in the first phase, only nine came into contact with police during that period.

A screening committee meets every two weeks, and a parents advisory board meets each Tuesday.

Nancy Lopez, parent coordinator, encourages parents from the two gang areas to meet each Tuesday at the Pomona City Hall's employees lounge to share ideas and concerns of areas needing support.

"We want to get more parents involved," said Mrs. Lopez. "They can meet and talk to our speakers on a one-to-one situation."

Board told

15% of Pomona students cannot speak English

More than 15 percent of the children in the Pomona Unified School District speak little or no English, school board members will be told at a special study session today at 4 p.m. in the Education Center.

Trustees will hear a report from Rafael Estupinian, principal of Fremont Junior High School who is serving as the district's administrative assistant for bilingual education.

His report will include a language dominance survey completed by the district last week as required by state law. The law implements a Supreme Court decision which calls for children in public schools to be taught in their home language.

The survey's initial phase is aimed at determining language dominance. A later study will test students for ability in their dominant languages.

With 246 students still to be tested due to absences or other reasons, officials determined that 593 students speak no English at all, and another 505 students speak some English at school but a dominant language other than English at home.

Another 1,327 students are classified as bilingual where they have equal fluency in both their home languages and in English. That classification, however, makes no provision for quality — meaning a student in this area may have an equally poor grasp of both English and the home language.

The district survey also identified another 821 students as being English dominant but in a home where another language is spoken. These students will also be tested for academic achievement in English.

While the Spanish language makes up the majority of languages other than English represented in the district, a number of exotic foreign languages are also represented locally.

COUNCIL'S OWN PRAYER

Visitors to the Pomona City Council will soon see hanging on the wall to the left of the council members the council's adopted prayer. From left are Councilwoman Georgia Grove, whose idea it was to have a prayer, and Mrs. Waltine Conley of Pomona, who wrote the prayer. Mrs. Conley said the prayer is acceptable to all faiths.

Will grace chambers

Pomona council saying a prayer

The Pomona City Council will soon hang its newly adopted prayer in the council chambers.

The prayer was written by Mrs. Waltine Conley, a local resident, after Councilwoman Georgia Grove suggested that the council have its own prayer.

Mrs. Grove noted that many meetings in the council chamber start without a prayer.

"I see nothing wrong with having a prayer hanging on the wall," she said. "It will not replace the prayer by a clergyman which usually begins our meetings."

Mrs. Grove instituted a contest, and 19 suggestions were received from local residents.

A committee, which Mrs. Grove said was well representative of all religions, read the prayers submitted and reduced the number to five.

The City Council then chose a winner from the finalists.

Mrs. Conley was honored at a recent council meeting and presented a resolution of appreciation by Mayor Charles Bader.

Mrs. Conley said she wrote the prayer while a student at Chaffey College. It was printed in a local newspaper.

Mrs. Grove said she believed the prayer should hang on the wall where the city's zoning map is located. But other council members disagreed and moved its location several feet to the north.

Acting gives children learning experience

Children of the Ontario-Montclair School District are having fun these days learning through play-acting.

The program is put on by Shirley Acosta and Rodney Davis of Drama Therapy Associates of Claremont. It is funded by the Artists in Schools Program of the California Arts Council and the school district.

The CAC accepted the proposal of Davis and Mrs. Acosta because of the unique and innovative aspects written into the program design which apply theatrical techniques to a bilingual, multi-cultural population to explore patterns of interaction and communication. The Ontario-Montclair School District was the only one in the San Bernardino/Riverside area chosen for an Artists in Residence program.

Drama play takes one of the earliest forms of human interaction and focuses it into a medium for group participation. There are no theatrical trappings — no stage, lights, costumes or makeup — and no script. Drama play originates from improvisational theater techniques adapted for children's use.

The principle is simple. Children choose games or fairy tale roles and carry out assignments in an improvised format. The observing teacher can gather important data on cognitive understanding, social interaction, communication styles and sensory-motor coordination that are not readily revealed in conventional educational programs. An overly-aggressive child, for example, can step into a new peer relationship; the withdrawn child is offered a safe medium in attempting a more assertive model. Each child is learning skills and attempting new behaviors while experiencing good, old-fashioned fun.

Mrs. Acosta, organizer and developer of drama play, was a children's theater director for 20 years. Now she is children's theater consultant for the Claremont Graduate School, La Verne College and several school districts. She is coordinator of clinical services for the Children's Services Center at Casa Colina Hospital and carries on a private practice as marriage, family and child counselor.

Davis, co-developer of drama play, majored in drama as an undergraduate and earned his doctorate in counseling, curriculum and developmental psychology. He was professor of psychology at La Verne College for 12 years. He is coordinator of doctoral study programs in psychology and education for the Fielding Institute and conducts private practice as a psychologist.

Mrs. Acosta said, "We use games, improvisational theater, mime, fairy tales and role playing to explore two cultures and how they affect each other, to understand and develop communication and to help the children become aware of their attitudes toward themselves. We are also interested in having fun."

The pilot program is proving very popular, Davis says, with more and more children and parents eager to be included. He hopes for a renewal of the CAC's one-year grant.

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Staff Writer

Overturning an Architectural Commission veto of a proposed city yards building of corrugated steel by Upland City Council Monday night will allow U.S. taxpayers everywhere to foot the bill for the project rather than Upland residents alone.

Meeting in emergency session, city councilmen overruled an Architectural Commission objection to the steel building in favor of a "more esthetic" structure.

City manager Lee Travers called the emergency session for fear of losing a federal grant of $750,000. If work is not begun on the project at Benson Avenue and 13th Street within 90 days, the grant would be withheld. Purpose of the grant, as explained by Asst. City Manager Mike Matlock, is a federal economic pump priming project in which speed in executing public works projects is of the essence.

Last month, architectural commissioners — after earlier approving the new city yards conceptual plan — vetoed it after a second look at the project because of the corrugated steel automotive and equipment shops. A combined water department, general services building and pump house in the same project would be either of concrete or cement block structure. These were not faulted by commissioners.

Mayor pro tem John McCarthy said the project should be pushed through to obtain the federal grant and avoid Upland footing the bill alone plus the fact the structure is not as unsightly as cited by architectural commissioners.

Councilman Harold Bailin said action by the Architectural Commission should spark a closer look at appointed commissions and their actions. He said the City Council should take more responsibility in commission matters.

The $750,000 grant to build the three buildings and improve the site is part of a $2.2 million federal grant for Upland shared equally by the school system and city. School trustees have earmarked their share for improving Upland Elementary School.

Balance of the city's share — $350,000 — will go toward other city improvements.

Chino teacher gets S.B. County award

Barbara Smith, a teacher at Don Lugo High School in Chino, has been chosen as San Bernardino County's "Teacher of the Year" for 1977-78.

Mrs. Smith, a math teacher and district specialist in her subject, had previously been named as the Chino school district's "Teacher of the Year."

The Chino district entered her in county competition, and she was chosen by a committee made up of administrators from the office of Roy Hill, county superintendent of schools. Four other teachers competed for the title.

"I was very impressed by her resume," said Forest Miller, a member of the county selection committee. "She has made many contributions to area schools in the mathematics field."

Miller said Mrs. Smith had set up mathematics workshops at schools in the Chino, Rialto and Cucamonga school districts, had done work in computer education and worked on other programs to increase student motivation, experience and interest in mathematics.

"On top of all of that she's bilingual," said Miller.

Mrs. Smith, 35, is now competing for the state "Teacher of the Year" award, and is one of the top four finalists out of an original field of 40, according to Don Lugo principal Dan Garner. The announcement of the state winner should be made soon.

Mrs. Smith has been a Chino teacher since 1975, and also worked as a teacher in the Rialto school district for four years. She lives in Claremont with her husband, John, an attorney, and one son.

More than 15 percent of the children in the Pomona Unified School District speak little or no English, school board members will be told at a special study session today at 4 p.m. in the Education Center.

Trustees will hear a report from Rafael Estupinian, principal of Fremont Junior High School who is serving as the district's administrative assistant for bilingual education.

His report will include a language dominance survey completed by the district last week as required by state law. The law implements a Supreme Court decision which calls for children in public schools to be taught in their home language.

The survey's initial phase is aimed at determining language dominance. A later study will test students for ability in their dominant languages.

With 246 students still to be tested due to absences or other reasons, officials determined that 593 students speak no English at all, and another 505 students speak some English at school but a dominant language other than English at home.

Another 1,327 students are classified as bilingual where they have equal fluency in both their home languages and in English. That classification, however, makes no provision for quality — meaning a student in this area may have an equally poor grasp of both English and the home language.

The district survey also identified another 821 students as being English dominant but in a home where another language is spoken. These students will also be tested for academic achievement in English.

While the Spanish language makes up the majority of languages other than English represented in the district, a number of exotic foreign languages are also represented locally.

These include Vietnamese, Chinese, Persian, Russian and German.

Acting gives children learning experience

Children of the Ontario-Montclair School District are having fun these days learning through play-acting.

The program is put on by Shirley Acosta and Rodney Davis of Drama Therapy Associates of Claremont. It is funded by the Artists in Schools Program of the California Arts Council and the school district.

The CAC accepted the proposal of Davis and Mrs. Acosta because of the unique and innovative aspects written into the program design which apply theatrical techniques to a bilingual, multi-cultural population to explore patterns of interaction and communication. The Ontario-Montclair School District was the only one in the San Bernardino/Riverside area chosen for an Artists in Residence program.

Drama play takes one of the earliest forms of human interaction and focuses it into a medium for group participation. There are no theatrical trappings — no stage, lights, costumes or makeup — and no script. Drama play originates from improvisational theater techniques adapted for children's use.

The principle is simple. Children choose games or fairy tale roles and carry out assignments in an improvised format. The observing teacher can gather important data on cognitive understanding, social interaction, communication styles and sensory-motor coordination that are not readily revealed in conventional educational programs. An overly-aggressive child, for example, can step into a new peer relationship; the withdrawn child is offered a safe medium in attempting a more assertive model. Each child is learning skills and attempting new behaviors while experiencing good, old-fashioned fun.

Mrs. Acosta, organizer and developer of drama play, was a children's theater director for 20 years. Now she is children's theater consultant for the Claremont Graduate School, La Verne College and several school districts. She is coordinator of clinical services for the Children's Services Center at Casa Colina Hospital and carries on a private practice as marriage, family and child counselor.

Davis, co-developer of drama play, majored in drama as an undergraduate and earned his doctorate in counseling, curriculum and developmental psychology. He was professor of psychology at La Verne College for 12 years. He is coordinator of doctoral study programs in psychology and education for the Fielding Institute and conducts private practice as a psychologist.

Mrs. Acosta said, "We use games, improvisational theater, mime, fairy tales and role playing to explore two cultures and how they affect each other, to understand and develop communication and to help the children become aware of their attitudes toward themselves. We are also interested in having fun."

The pilot program is proving very popular, Davis says, with more and more children and parents eager to be included. He hopes for a renewal of the CAC's one-year grant.

Barbara Smith

Chino teacher gets S.B. County award

Barbara Smith, a teacher at Don Lugo High School in Chino, has been chosen as San Bernardino County's "Teacher of the Year" for 1977-78.

Mrs. Smith, a math teacher and district specialist in her subject, had previously been named as the Chino school district's "Teacher of the Year."

The Chino district entered her in county competition, and she was chosen by a committee made up of administrators from the office of Roy Hill, county superintendent of schools. Four other teachers competed for the title.

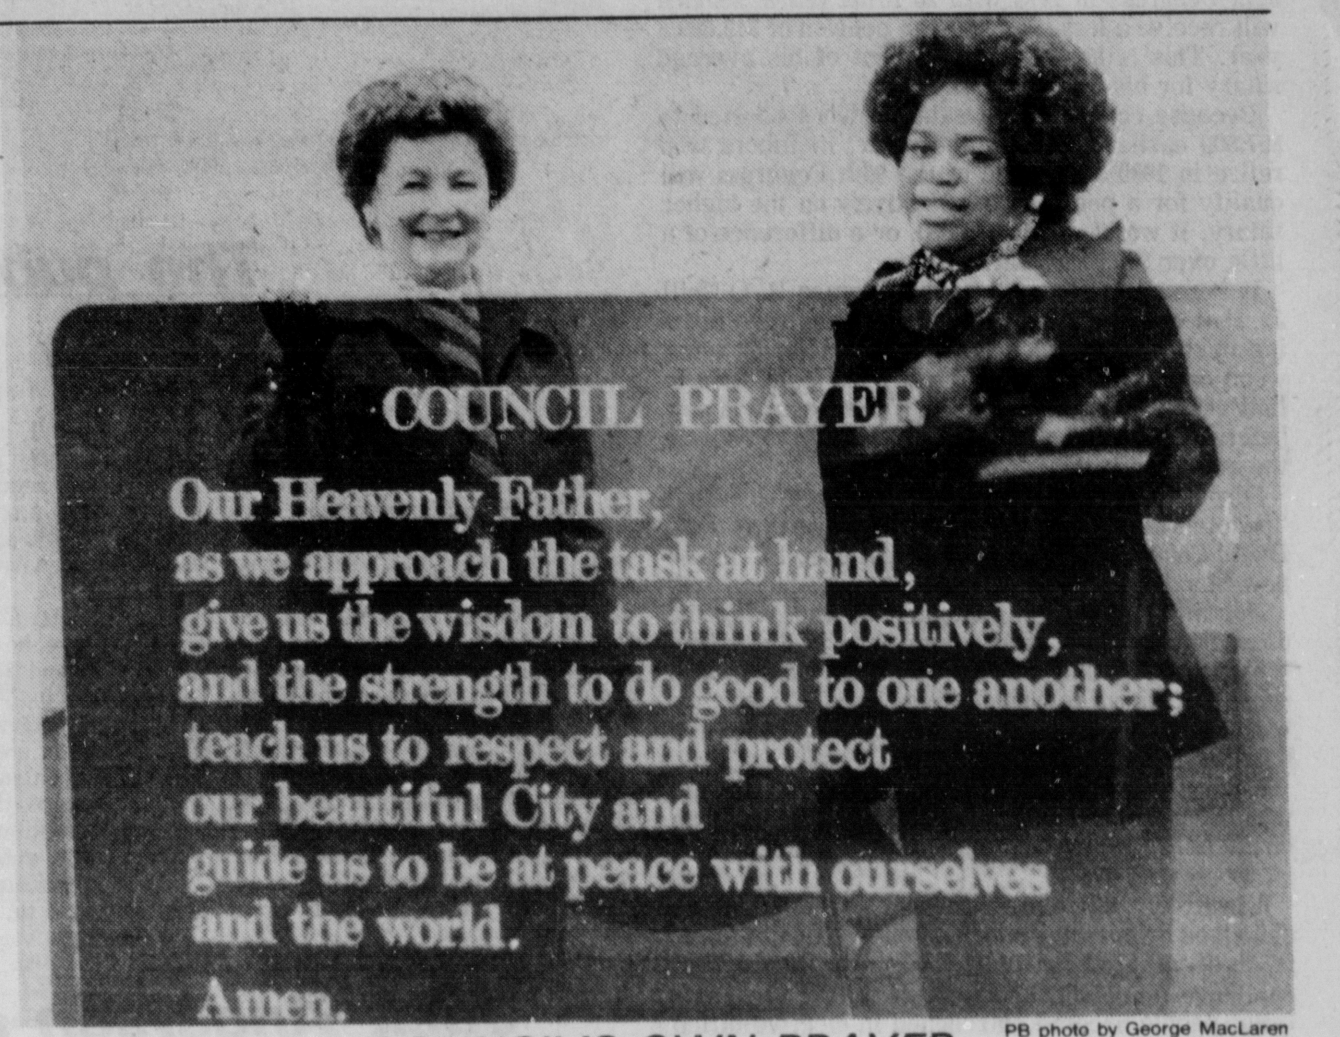
"I was very impressed by her resume," said Forest Miller, a member of the county selection committee. "She has made many contributions to area schools in the mathematics field."

Miller said Mrs. Smith had set up mathematics workshops at schools in the Chino, Rialto and Cucamonga school districts, had done work in computer education and worked on other programs to increase student motivation, experience and interest in mathematics.

"On top of all of that she's bilingual," said Miller.

Mrs. Smith, 35, is now competing for the state "Teacher of the Year" award, and is one of the top four finalists out of an original field of 40, according to Don Lugo principal Dan Garner. The announcement of the state winner should be made soon.

Mrs. Smith has been a Chino teacher since 1975, and also worked as a teacher in the Rialto school district for four years. She lives in Claremont with her husband, John, an attorney, and one son.



COUNCIL PRAYER
Our Heavenly Father,
as we approach the task at hand,
give us the wisdom to think positively,
and the strength to do good to one another; teach us to respect and protect our beautiful City and guide us to be at peace with ourselves and the world.
Amen.

COUNCIL'S OWN PRAYER

Visitors to the Pomona City Council will soon see hanging on the wall to the left of the council members the council's adopted prayer. From left are Councilwoman Georgia Grove, whose idea it was to have a prayer, and Mrs. Waltine Conley of Pomona, who wrote the prayer. Mrs. Conley said the prayer is acceptable to all faiths.

Will grace chambers

Pomona council saying a prayer

The Pomona City Council will soon hang its newly adopted prayer in the council chambers.

The prayer was written by Mrs. Waltine Conley, a local resident, after Councilwoman Georgia Grove suggested that the council have its own prayer.

Mrs. Grove noted that many meetings in the council chamber start without a prayer.

"I see nothing wrong with having a prayer hanging on the wall," she said. "It will not replace the prayer by a clergyman which usually begins our meetings."

Mrs. Grove instituted a contest, and 19 suggestions were received from local residents.

A committee, which Mrs. Grove said was well representative of all religions, read the prayers submitted and reduced the number to five.

The City Council then chose a winner from the finalists.

Mrs. Conley was honored at a recent council meeting and presented a resolution of appreciation by Mayor Charles Bader.

Mrs. Conley said she wrote the prayer while a student at Chaffey College. It was printed in a local newspaper.

Mrs. Grove said she believed the prayer should hang on the wall where the city's zoning map is located. But other council members disagreed and moved its location several feet to the north.

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Staff Writer

Overturning an Architectural Commission veto of a proposed city yards building of corrugated steel by Upland City Council Monday night will allow U.S. taxpayers everywhere to foot the bill for the project rather than Upland residents alone.

Meeting in emergency session, city councilmen overruled an Architectural Commission objection to the steel building in favor of a "more esthetic" structure.

City manager Lee Travers called the emergency session for fear of losing a federal grant of $750,000. If work is not begun on the project at Benson Avenue and 13th Street within 90 days, the grant would be withheld. Purpose of the grant, as explained by Asst. City Manager Mike Matlock, is a federal economic pump priming project in which speed in executing public works projects is of the essence.

Last month, architectural commissioners — after earlier approving the new city yards conceptual plan — vetoed it after a second look at the project because of the corrugated steel automotive and equipment shops. A combined water department, general services building and pump house in the same project would be either of concrete or cement block structure. These were not faulted by commissioners.

Mayor pro tem John McCarthy said the project should be pushed through to obtain the federal grant and avoid Upland footing the bill alone plus the fact the structure is not as unsightly as cited by architectural commissioners.

Councilman Harold Bailin said action by the Architectural Commission should spark a closer look at appointed commissions and their actions. He said the City Council should take more responsibility in commission matters.

The $750,000 grant to build the three buildings and improve the site is part of a $2.2 million federal grant for Upland shared equally by the school system and city. School trustees have earmarked their share for improving Upland Elementary School.

Balance of the city's share — $350,000 — will go toward other city improvements.

In Chino Hills

Chino's influence sphere reduced

The City of Chino's sphere of influence in the Chino Hills was reduced drastically this week by the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO), a county agency charged with the responsibility of settling boundary disputes.

Homeowners in the Chino Hills have for several years been debating whether or not the area should eventually be annexed to the city, or should remain an autonomous community with its own separate identity.

Those in favor of removing the City of Chino's influence in the area appeared to have won the latest battle over the issue.

LAFCO commissioners voted 5 to 2 Wednesday to reduce Chino's sphere of influence from the general western ridgeline of the foothills west of the city down to the Corona Expressway.

The decision affects rapidly developing land in the Chino Hills that roughly parallels a 2½-mile strip west of the roadway.

Chino City officials had not totally opposed efforts to reduce the sphere of influence, but had indicated they favored the boundaries remaining as is.

The decision by LAFCO, however, will not affect most government services in the area. It will affect future planning and development, said Dennis Chiniaeff, director of community development in Chino.

Residents of Los Serranos, Glenmeade and Chino Hills have been debating the sphere of influence issue for several years.

A study of the area prepared by an ad hoc committee of residents concluded the city's sphere of influence should have been pushed back to a flood control channel that runs parallel to the Corona Expressway, but further east from it.

Another study prepared by the San Bernardino County Special Districts Department recommended expanding the city's sphere of influence to include nearly all of the land west of Chino to the Los Angeles County line.

They felt the area should eventually be incorporated into Chino, rather than be developed separately.

Expansion of the sphere, however, was opposed by both city officials and unincorporated area residents.

Because of the confusion over the issue, the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors, who currently have jurisdiction in the area, recently asked for a review by LAFCO of the whole sphere of influence question.

A Chino Hills Municipal Advisory Council (MAC), appointed recently by Supervisor Robert Townsend of Chino, voted to reduce the size of Chino's sphere of influence. to the Corona Expressway, rather than the flood control channel as the MAC had requested.

Another hearing on the environmental aspects will be heard soon.

Claremont board, council review city recreational needs

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

The need for more school athletic facilities and more city recreational facilities was discussed at a joint Claremont school board-City Council meeting Monday.

Presently over a barrel financially, the two bodies met to try to hammer out a method by which some joint use may be created.

Heavily impacted by a federal law which, among other things, requires sports teams for girls, Claremont High School has had its number of sports teams more than double in the past five years. Meanwhile, a general interest in sports has also increased, putting a heavier stress on the school's present facilities.

At the community level, the City Council views the creation of an added 10- to 15-acre sports park, with a soccer and baseball field, as its top recreational priority.

Both school district and city facilities are being used, as one official put it, "seven days a week."

Of major concern to school trustees Monday was the possible redesign of Cahuilla Park to include a soccer field along with the two baseball fields already on the site immediately north of Claremont High School on Indian Hill Boulevard.

Board President Mary Ellen Kilsby said the district has now determined that it will definitely remain a one-high-school district and that it will sell its approximately 40-acre Miramar Avenue high school site.

The board then faces the decision of what to do with the money from that land sale. Two choices predominate.

The first of these is to devote all or a portion of these funds to the purchase of the 6.6 acres immediately south of Claremont High School for development of a baseball field, soccer field and parking area. The land is owned by Griswolds' owner Alton Sanford who is contemplating development of a condominium complex on the site. The district, however, is already considering the possible condemnation of the property which adjoins an approximately 1.5 acre wedge-shaped parcel of undeveloped land on the high school campus.

However, feelings expressed Monday indicated that if the city and school district could work out a plan for development of a soccer field along with the two baseball fields already in Cahuilla Park, funds from the sale of the Miramar site could go to the development of a swimming pool and an additional gymnasium on the high school campus.

At the same time, it appears as though the district and the city should be able to reach accord on the development of the sports park for recreational uses on approximately 10 acres west of La Puerta Intermediate School.

Among the many opinions expressed over the situation Monday evening was the feeling that both the city and the district give greater thought to additional lighted fields.

City Recreation Director Ron Hagan commented that, while lighting does provide additional time for a field to be used, it also creates a problem for the amount of wear the turf on the field can sustain without ruining the playing surface.

Officials also heard one resident comment that she hoped the city would maintain a policy of not developing all of its park space so that some areas would remain for young children to simply run and play or picnic without having to belong to a given sports organization in order to use park facilities.

Mrs. Kilsby also explained that she hoped voters would not confuse the present athletic facilities problem with the district's planned revenue limit increase election next March, noting that capital outlay funds and operating funds (the latter impacted by the revenue limit election) come from "two different pockets."

The district presently is having a consultant prepare two studies on the athletic facility configuration for the high school. One study includes the acreage south of the high school without the incorporation of Cahuilla Park. The other includes Cahuilla Park and the additonal gym and pool.

Report on Pomona anti-gang program scheduled Thursday

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Hard-core gang members, 14 to 17 years old, will report on a federally-funded special youth development service project designed to keep them in school during a public meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Pomona City Council chambers.

Persons directly or indirectly involved in the $100,000 first phase of the "anti-gang" project between April and September will attend the session.

The second phase, funded by Los Angeles County for $76,000, will operate between Oct. 1 and Sept. 30, 1978.

Enrique Segura, project coordinator, said 12 agencies which came in contact with the project during its first phase were "very satisfied" with its performance.

The project had a goal of putting 55 members of the Cherrieville and Twelfth Street gangs on probation back into school.

After attending classes, they received training for positions such as clerks, janitors and teachers' aides.

The trained members may be found working at the Department of Motor Vehicles, Pacific State Hospital, Pomona College, Air National Guard at Ontario and the Pomona Athletic League several hours each afternoon.

During the summer months, those participating may work 20 hours a week at $2.50 per hour.

"Through the cooperation of various agencies and some experimental money, we hope to decrease gang activities in our Barrio areas of the city," explained Segura.

He said that of the 54 youths — including 22 girls — involved in the first phase, only nine came into contact with police during that period.

A screening committee meets every two weeks, and a parents advisory board meets each Tuesday.

Nancy Lopez, parent coordinator, encourages parents from the two gang areas to meet each Tuesday at the Pomona City Hall's employees lounge to share ideas and concerns of areas needing support.

"We want to get more parents involved," said Mrs. Lopez. "They can meet and talk to our speakers on a one-to-one situation."

Board told

15% of Pomona students cannot speak English

More than 15 percent of the children in the Pomona Unified School District speak little or no English, school board members will be told at a special study session today at 4 p.m. in the Education Center.

Trustees will hear a report from Rafael Estupinian, principal of Fremont Junior High School who is serving as the district's administrative assistant for bilingual education.

His report will include a language dominance survey completed by the district last week as required by state law. The law implements a Supreme Court decision which calls for children in public schools to be taught in their home language.

The survey's initial phase is aimed at determining language dominance. A later study will test students for ability in their dominant languages.

With 246 students still to be tested due to absences or other reasons, officials determined that 593 students speak no English at all, and another 505 students speak some English at school but a dominant language other than English at home.

Another 1,327 students are classified as bilingual where they have equal fluency in both their home languages and in English. That classification, however, makes no provision for quality — meaning a student in this area may have an equally poor grasp of both English and the home language.

The district survey also identified another 821 students as being English dominant but in a home where another language is spoken. These students will also be tested for academic achievement in English.

While the Spanish language makes up the majority of languages other than English represented in the district, a number of exotic foreign languages are also represented locally.

These include Vietnamese, Chinese, Persian, Russian and German.

Acting gives children learning experience

Children of the Ontario-Montclair School District are having fun these days learning through play-acting.

The program is put on by Shirley Acosta and Rodney Davis of Drama Therapy Associates of Claremont. It is funded by the Artists in Schools Program of the California Arts Council and the school district.

The CAC accepted the proposal of Davis and Mrs. Acosta because of the unique and innovative aspects written into the program design which apply theatrical techniques to a bilingual, multi-cultural population to explore patterns of interaction and communication. The Ontario-Montclair School District was the only one in the San Bernardino/Riverside area chosen for an Artists in Residence program.

Drama play takes one of the earliest forms of human interaction and focuses it into a medium for group participation. There are no theatrical trappings — no stage, lights, costumes or makeup — and no script. Drama play originates from improvisational theater techniques adapted for children's use.

The principle is simple. Children choose games or fairy tale roles and carry out assignments in an improvised format. The observing teacher can gather important data on cognitive understanding, social interaction, communication styles and sensory-motor coordination that are not readily revealed in conventional educational programs. An overly-aggressive child, for example, can step into a new peer relationship; the withdrawn child is offered a safe medium in attempting a more assertive model. Each child is learning skills and attempting new behaviors while experiencing good, old-fashioned fun.

Mrs. Acosta, organizer and developer of drama play, was a children's theater director for 20 years. Now she is children's theater consultant for the Claremont Graduate School, La Verne College and several school districts. She is coordinator of clinical services for the Children's Services Center at Casa Colina Hospital and carries on a private practice as marriage, family and child counselor.

Davis, co-developer of drama play, majored in drama as an undergraduate and earned his doctorate in counseling, curriculum and developmental psychology. He was professor of psychology at La Verne College for 12 years. He is coordinator of doctoral study programs in psychology and education for the Fielding Institute and conducts private practice as a psychologist.

Mrs. Acosta said, "We use games, improvisational theater, mime, fairy tales and role playing to explore two cultures and how they affect each other, to understand and develop communication and to help the children become aware of their attitudes toward themselves. We are also interested in having fun."

The pilot program is proving very popular, Davis says, with more and more children and parents eager to be included. He hopes for a renewal of the CAC's one-year grant.

Chino teacher gets S.B. County award

Barbara Smith, a teacher at Don Lugo High School in Chino, has been chosen as San Bernardino County's "Teacher of the Year" for 1977-78.

Mrs. Smith, a math teacher and district specialist in her subject, had previously been named as the Chino school district's "Teacher of the Year."

The Chino district entered her in county competition, and she was chosen by a committee made up of administrators from the office of Roy Hill, county superintendent of schools. Four other teachers competed for the title.

"I was very impressed by her resume," said Forest Miller, a member of the county selection committee. "She has made many contributions to area schools in the mathematics field."

Miller said Mrs. Smith had set up mathematics workshops at schools in the Chino, Rialto and Cucamonga school districts, had done work in computer education and worked on other programs to increase student motivation, experience and interest in mathematics.

"On top of all of that she's bilingual," said Miller.

Mrs. Smith, 35, is now competing for the state "Teacher of the Year" award, and is one of the top four finalists out of an original field of 40, according to Don Lugo principal Dan Garner. The announcement of the state winner should be made soon.

Mrs. Smith has been a Chino teacher since 1975, and also worked as a teacher in the Rialto school district for four years. She lives in Claremont with her husband, John, an attorney, and one son.

COUNCIL'S OWN PRAYER

Visitors to the Pomona City Council will soon see hanging on the wall to the left of the council members the council's adopted prayer. Pomona council saying a prayer

The Pomona City Council will soon hang its newly adopted prayer in the council chambers.

The prayer was written by Mrs. Waltine Conley, a local resident, after Councilwoman Georgia Grove suggested that the council have its own prayer.

Mrs. Grove noted that many meetings in the council chamber start without a prayer.

"I see nothing wrong with having a prayer hanging on the wall," she said. "It will not replace the prayer by a clergyman which usually begins our meetings."

Mrs. Grove instituted a contest, and 19 suggestions were received from local residents.

A committee, which Mrs. Grove said was well representative of all religions, read the prayers submitted and reduced the number to five.

The City Council then chose a winner from the finalists.

Mrs. Conley was honored at a recent council meeting and presented a resolution of appreciation by Mayor Charles Bader.

Mrs. Conley said she wrote the prayer while a student at Chaffey College. It was printed in a local newspaper.

Mrs. Grove said she believed the prayer should hang on the wall where the city's zoning map is located. But other council members disagreed and moved its location several feet to the north.

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Staff Writer

Overturning an Architectural Commission veto of a proposed city yards building of corrugated steel by Upland City Council Monday night will allow U.S. taxpayers everywhere to foot the bill for the project rather than Upland residents alone.

Meeting in emergency session, city councilmen overruled an Architectural Commission objection to the steel building in favor of a "more esthetic" structure.

City manager Lee Travers called the emergency session for fear of losing a federal grant of $750,000. If work is not begun on the project at Benson Avenue and 13th Street within 90 days, the grant would be withheld. Purpose of the grant, as explained by Asst. City Manager Mike Matlock, is a federal economic pump priming project in which speed in executing public works projects is of the essence.

Last month, architectural commissioners — after earlier approving the new city yards conceptual plan — vetoed it after a second look at the project because of the corrugated steel automotive and equipment shops. A combined water department, general services building and pump house in the same project would be either of concrete or cement block structure. These were not faulted by commissioners.

Mayor pro tem John McCarthy said the project should be pushed through to obtain the federal grant and avoid Upland footing the bill alone plus the fact the structure is not as unsightly as cited by architectural commissioners.

Councilman Harold Bailin said action by the Architectural Commission should spark a closer look at appointed commissions and their actions. He said the City Council should take more responsibility in commission matters.

The $750,000 grant to build the three buildings and improve the site is part of a $2.2 million federal grant for Upland shared equally by the school system and city. School trustees have earmarked their share for improving Upland Elementary School.

Balance of the city's share — $350,000 — will go toward other city improvements.

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Staff Writer

Overturning an Architectural Commission veto of a proposed city yards building of corrugated steel by Upland City Council Monday night will allow U.S. taxpayers everywhere to foot the bill for the project rather than Upland residents alone.

Meeting in emergency session, city councilmen overruled an Architectural Commission objection to the steel building in favor of a "more esthetic" structure.

City manager Lee Travers called the emergency session for fear of losing a federal grant of $750,000. If work is not begun on the project at Benson Avenue and 13th Street within 90 days, the grant would be withheld. Purpose of the grant, as explained by Asst. City Manager Mike Matlock, is a federal economic pump priming project in which speed in executing public works projects is of the essence.

Last month, architectural commissioners — after earlier approving the new city yards conceptual plan — vetoed it after a second look at the project because of the corrugated steel automotive and equipment shops. A combined water department, general services building and pump house in the same project would be either of concrete or cement block structure. These were not faulted by commissioners.

Mayor pro tem John McCarthy said the project should be pushed through to obtain the federal grant and avoid Upland footing the bill alone plus the fact the structure is not as unsightly as cited by architectural commissioners.

Councilman Harold Bailin said action by the Architectural Commission should spark a closer look at appointed commissions and their actions. He said the City Council should take more responsibility in commission matters.

The $750,000 grant to build the three buildings and improve the site is part of a $2.2 million federal grant for Upland shared equally by the school system and city. School trustees have earmarked their share for improving Upland Elementary School.

Balance of the city's share — $350,000 — will go toward other city improvements.

Congressional payoff

Indications are that Congress may quietly drop the idea of easing some of its older members out the door with a $3,000-a-year going-away present.

Skipping the arithmetical complications, a representative or senator retiring at the end of the 95th Congress in 1978 with 20 to 32 years' service will receive a less-than-spartan pension of $42,880 a year. This is based on 80 percent of his average salary for his last three years.

Because congressional salaries were boosted to $57,500 earlier this year, however, members who retire in 1980 at the end of the 96th Congress will qualify for a pension based entirely on the higher salary. It works out to $46,000, or a difference of a little over $3,000 a year.

It seemed to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. that extending that $3,000 to congressmen retiring next year would help clear out a lot of aging wood on Capitol Hill, and he slipped legislation to that effect through the House. The measure is now before the Senate, where it is beginning to receive the attention it deserves.

Surprisingly, the idea is supported by that "people's lobby," Common Cause, whose president, David Cohen, says it is worth the money to "infuse new blood into the institution."

For an organization dedicated to improving the democratic process, this is a rather elitist attitude. What it says is that if the people don't have enough sense to retire a representative or senator who has become a mere time-server in Congress, then it will have to be done for them.

A corollary assumption is that any congressman who has been around for more than 20 years is an obstacle in the way of progress. We don't think this is necessarily true.

Admittedly, some members of Congress can't be dislodged by anything short of death or dynamite. It is exceedingly difficult for "new blood" to challenge an entrenched incumbent.

But people become entrenched in elective office because the voters put them there and the voters keep them there. This, for better or worse, is democracy.

Of course, any congressman who would feel strapped on a pension of $42,880 a year and who would let himself be "bought" for an extra $3,000 probably deserves to be retired.

But we still think the people ought to do it, not the U.S. Treasury.

The case for daydreaming

Americans don't do enough daydreaming, says a University of Iowa psychologist, and our imaginations are the worse for it.

"Positive fantasies," says Dr. Kathleen Staley, "make us feel good about ourselves, add to our personal growth and enrich our capacity for creative work."

Obviously, what she has in mind is not mere mental loafing or the kind of fantasizing that becomes a substitute for reality, but creative woolgathering — as engaged in by Isaac Newton when he sat down under the apple tree, or by young Christopher Columbus as he watched the masts of ships disappear behind the curve of the horizon, or by Wilbur and Orville Wright as they observed the flight of birds.

Unfortunately, she says, daydreaming is on the way out because people believe it's a waste of time, because we are bombarded with factual information and because of "canned fantasy."

We think she is much too pessimistic. A few people have always thought daydreaming was a waste of time, and factual information is the very stuff of which all productive daydreaming is spun.

As for "canned fantasy," every generation seems to have its own, whether it is television, movies, cheap novels or traveling storytellers.

No, daydreaming will always be popular. If the day every comes when it isn't, a lot of the impetus for what we call progress will have vanished.

A dog and purse act

Sometimes the most fascinating stories in the news are the shortest ones.

A wire dispatch, all of 15 lines long, told the tale of a purse-snatching bulldog in Cincinnati the other day.

Seems the animal jumped on a bus at a stop, darted to the rear and grabbed a passenger's purse. Other riders yanked it away from the beast, whereupon it seized another purse. When this, too, was retrieved, the dog ran from the bus and disappeared in a nearby yard. End of story.

Was this just one of those crazy things that happen? Or does there lurk somewhere in Cincinnati a sinister canine-coaching Fagin who schools innocent pups in the crafts of thievery?

Dear Editor:

What kind of a bond campaign is Pomona Valley Municipal Water District running? Someone who identified himself as working for a community organization, the California Consultants, phoned me one evening asking questions which inferred that Pomona Valley residents are in for a 50 percent cutback of water supply and a loss of thousands of jobs. Their final question was, did I know about the upcoming water bond election?

I happen to know that Pomona's water supply is more than adequate. Most of the water Pomona uses annually comes from local wells. The Weymouth water treatment plant in La Verne, which doesn't even operate at full capacity, is large enough to supply all the future imported water needs of the Pomona Valley and surrounding communities. Your water bond article on Oct. 17 could have emphasized this point.

I made inquiry about the telephone survey because the questions were so loaded. I found out that Pomona Valley Municipal Water District, which is forbidden by law to campaign in a water election, has hired a political campaign firm to run a "public information" campaign. Under the direction of this firm, and in the guise of "public information," PVMWD is mailing out tracts and questionnaires to voters inferring that we are out of drinking water, our yards are about to turn to desert and our jobs are in danger. In case we are not making the connection, the telephone survey does it for us: "Are you aware of the water bond election that's coming up?"

I don't know what outrages me more, that PVMWD is spending tax money to wage this election campaign, or that they can get away with such transparently deceptive tactics!

Pomona is not out of water now, nor are we in danger of running out in the future. I am going to vote NO to water bonds on Nov. 8!

FBI spies on Lawyers Guild

WASHINGTON — At the bottom of most Washington scandals, there invariably seems to be some lawyers in the woodpile.

The Watergate crimes were plotted initially at the Justice Department, with the attorney general presiding and the White House counsel advising. Lawyers participated in the bag-jobs, forgeries, frame-ups, break-ins, cover-ups and perjury that followed.

Now we've learned that the bastion of legal ethics, the American Bar Association, conspired with the FBI to discredit the left-wing National Lawyers Guild. The FBI secretly wiretapped and spied on the guild's national offices and then fed derogatory information to key officials of the bar association.

The guild came under FBI surveillance not just because of its leftist leanings, but because of its opposition of racial discriminationa, support of civil liberties and protests against congressional abuses.

The American Bar Association should have had a more enlightened view of the nation's founding principles. Yet it not only joined in the red-baiting of the 1950s but sought dirt about the lawyers guild from the FBI. The sordid story has been buried for two decades in FBI files, which have now been made available to us.

The bar association's chief communist hunter, Austin Canfield Sr., telephoned the FBI in January 1952 to ask for information that could be used against the guild. A top FBI official, Louis B. Nichols, reported in a memo that Canfield "was in favor of taking . . . on" the guild.

Nichols then supplied Canfield with a report charging that the guild worked closely with communist factions. As one piece of evidence, the report declared that the guild had blasted the FBI's "Gestapo activities," and attacked the ABA. Any criticism of the FBI was considered akin to treason.

One month later, Canfield made another call to the FBI and Nichols again related the conversation in a confidential memo. "Canfield . . . stated . . . there will be . . . an attempt to move the American Bar Association into action against the National Lawyers Guild," reported Nichols. "He feels the . . . guild has now gone far enough and that now is the time to act."

The FBI, meanwhile, searched its 'security index'' for information about guild officers. Four memos were prepared, advised an FBI memo, which "may be of possible assistance to the American Bar Association."

As late as the 1960s, long after the red scare had abated, the president-elect of the American Bar Association, John C. Satterfield, met with Hoover to discuss "matters of mutual interest between the FBI and the ABA," according to a written account of the meeting.

Satterfield lavished praise upon the crusty FBI director and offered to do favors for him. Later, Satterfield asked another FBI official for information on the guild. Apparently, he planned to use the information to discredit guild members. For an FBI memo states:

"(Satterfield) would like to reinstitute this policy of not only barring members of the NLG from becoming members of the ABA but also expel from the ABA any attorney who continues to be associated with the NLG and fosters its aims."

FBI officials, with Hoover's permission noted with a terse "OK H," sent Satterfield a 24-page report on the National Lawyers Guild. This compared the guild's positions with those of the Communist Party. The fact that both groups adopted the same line on the racial question and civil liberties, of course, didn't prove they were allied. The ABA ultimately balked at officially barring guild members.

Footnote: Satterfield conceded to our associate, Larry Kraftowitz, that he was "not in sympathy" with some of the guild's activities. But he said he couldn't remember discussing the guild with FBI officials. The FBI declined to comment because it is involved in litigation with the guild.

BACKROOM BATTLE: Sen. John Stennis, D.-Miss., the crusty chairman of the Armed Services Committee, is trying to kill a plan for tougher investigations of presidential appointees.

A Senate Office of Nominations that would probe the backgrounds and financial dealings of nominees is being pushed by Sens. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Charles Percy, R-Ill., who were greatly embarrassed by the Bert Lance affair.

But Stennis, who prefers to approve nominations in the cloakrooms with a handshake and a wink, objects to "another layer of responsibility," his spokesman said. "He likes the one-on-one situation of nominee and senator." Stennis also objects to setting fixed standards that would "exclude some people" and "drive others into bankruptcy."

The proposed standards, however, are merely guidelines suggesting that the nominee should be "qualified" and have "personal and professional integrity." His financial data would also be made public.

Senators such as Stennis, one congressional investigator explained, like to have a free rein over these matters, especially if it's an ex-congressman or former staff member that they're approving. "The background checks by some of these committees are non-existent," he said.

Farmers are something else

Farmers are something else; you know that?

You want to know why the largest of all farm organizations, the U.S. Farm Bureau, does not beat the drums and pound the White House desk and demand that Congress and the U.S. Department of Agriculture do what's best for farmers?

There is no more neglected minority in our nation than this 3 million-person segment of our population, most of which works from dark to dark for less than the national minimum wage.

Yet nobody can presume to espouse "what's best for farmers" because 1977 vintage farmers are "something else."

Imagine that you are secretary of agriculture. You are charged with representing the best interests of farmers. What are they?

The present biggest cash farm crop in Alabama is catfish! At 3,000 pounds to the acre!

The Wisconsin dairy farmer now has such a sophisticated operation that he selects the feed in each stanchion and the sires for next year's calves by computer.

There are California farmers preoccupied with the problems and profits relating to 42,000 acres of olives.

Within a single state — Washington —the farmer may grow apples; but other Washington state farmers grow 71 percent of our nation's hops.

Twice a year Indiana farmers — bless their freewheeling independence — can't even agree on what time it is. So some accept daylight time and some don't.

If you espouse tariff laws to protect beef and sugar farmers you are penalizing wheat and bean farmers.

Wheat prices are already so low that a host of Kansas farmers are switching to growing sunflowers.

And who sets the thermostat? Hot weather favors sugar growers but punishes beef pasture and many states have some of each.

A tobacco farmer can make-do with five acres and survive whereas a dryland rancher may need thousands of acres.

Allocate acreage and the corn farmer will plant his rows closer or pour on more fertilizer, and your bureaucratic snoopervisor is back where he started.

That's why it has not helped agriculture generally to have a peanut farmer in the White House because most American farmers are something else.

And that is why no secretary of agriculture since Henry Wallace has been very popular for long.

Ezra Taft Benson and Earl Butz came closest with their philosophy that government must not subsidize inefficiency, and should leave farmers free to do their own thing.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

When we speak of senators and representatives, we naturally think of them as members of Congress. And Congress, according to the American Heritage Dictionary, is defined under Section A as: "The national legislative body of the United States consisting of the Senate and the House of Representatives." But, according to this country's leading etymologists, there's more to that word Congress than most Americans realize. So, in light of what it is alleged certain congressmen have been up to recently, those linguistic scholars suggest that we pursue the dictionary definition a bit further to determine just what the word Congress can also mean. Acting on their advice, we come to Section 5 where we find it also defined as "Sexual Intercourse."

Legal advice is unheeded

By EARL G. WATERS

Can you imagine a business paying $5 million a year for legal advice and then not heeding it? The answer appears to be "yes" if it happens to be the California Legislature.

Recent disclosures of major bills being passed by the lawmakers despite rulings of the legislative counsel that such measures were unconstitutional suggest that the practice of acting contrary to the advice of their lawyers is becoming common.

The situation was highlighted in a release by Sen. Alfred Alquist who revealed that both conflicts with federal law and the state's constitution were involved in nuclear power legislation he authored last year.

The measures had been hastily passed in a successful effort to head off passage of Proposition 15, the nuclear safety initiative which was defeated in the June 8, 1976, primary by a 2 to 1 majority.

Alquist had offered the bills as a more reasonable approach to nuclear safety than contained in the initiative. It was contended at the time, and probably accurately so, that the ballot proposition would have halted further nuclear power construction and closed down existing operations.

It was also probable that the same constitutional defects and conflicts with federal law found in the Alquist bills were existent in the initiative.

In any event, Alquist now says he has reservations about the provisions of his bills and will seek advice from the attorney general as to the possible action to be taken.

Earlier this year Sen. Ruben Ayala obtained a legislative counsel opinion which held that the Wild Rivers Act passed in 1972 is unconstitutional. Subsequently it was discovered that the author of that legislation, Sen. Peter Behr, had been so advised by the counsel back in 1971 but had secured passage of the bill, the advice notwithstanding.

Just how much legislation is pushed through contrary to legal advice as to its constitutionality by authors, more interested in gaining credit for "solving" some political issue rather than in securing sound legislation, is not easy to determine.

This is because the legislative counsel maintains a confidential "lawyer-client" relationship between itself and the individual members. Thus, even though a request for the drafting of a bill may result in advice to a lawmaker that such a measure would be unconstitutional, that advice is not disclosed to the public or to other members of the Legislature.

Any member, of course, may seek an opinion as to the constitutionality of any bill, but again that is confidential and would only be disclosed by the member if he happened to be in opposition to the proposed legislation.

It is argued that such opinions represent only the view of one lawyer and may not be upheld by the courts. But the legislative counsel is in effect one of the largest law firms in the state and its track record of being right has been remarkable over the years. Besides, any time the lawmakers commence having misgivings about the quality of the advice it gets from its lawyers, it is within their power to replace them with whomever they choose.

In the meantime, spending in excess of $4.5 million annually for their battery of attorneys to furnish them advice, maybe they should start listening to them more carefully.

Imagine that you are secretary of agriculture. You are charged with representing the best interests of farmers. What are they?

The present biggest cash farm crop in Alabama is catfish! At 3,000 pounds to the acre!

The Wisconsin dairy farmer now has such a sophisticated operation that he selects the feed in each stanchion and the sires for next year's calves by computer.

There are California farmers preoccupied with the problems and profits relating to 42,000 acres of olives.

Within a single state — Washington —the farmer may grow apples; but other Washington state farmers grow 71 percent of our nation's hops.

Twice a year Indiana farmers — bless their freewheeling independence — can't even agree on what time it is. So some accept daylight time and some don't.

If you espouse tariff laws to protect beef and sugar farmers you are penalizing wheat and bean farmers.

Wheat prices are already so low that a host of Kansas farmers are switching to growing sunflowers.

And who sets the thermostat? Hot weather favors sugar growers but punishes beef pasture and many states have some of each.

A tobacco farmer can make-do with five acres and survive whereas a dryland rancher may need thousands of acres.

Allocate acreage and the corn farmer will plant his rows closer or pour on more fertilizer, and your bureaucratic snoopervisor is back where he started.

That's why it has not helped agriculture generally to have a peanut farmer in the White House because most American farmers are something else.

And that is why no secretary of agriculture since Henry Wallace has been very popular for long.

Ezra Taft Benson and Earl Butz came closest with their philosophy that government must not subsidize inefficiency, and should leave farmers free to do their own thing.

Just in jest

When we speak of senators and representatives, we naturally think of them as members of Congress. And Congress, according to the American Heritage Dictionary, is defined under Section A as: "The national legislative body of the United States consisting of the Senate and the House of Representatives." But, according to this country's leading etymologists, there's more to that word Congress than most Americans realize. So, in light of what it is alleged certain congressmen have been up to recently, those linguistic scholars suggest that we pursue the dictionary definition a bit further to determine just what the word Congress can also mean. Acting on their advice, we come to Section 5 where we find it also defined as "Sexual Intercourse."

Legal advice is unheeded

By EARL G. WATERS

Can you imagine a business paying $5 million a year for legal advice and then not heeding it? The answer appears to be "yes" if it happens to be the California Legislature.

Recent disclosures of major bills being passed by the lawmakers despite rulings of the legislative counsel that such measures were unconstitutional suggest that the practice of acting contrary to the advice of their lawyers is becoming common.

The situation was highlighted in a release by Sen. Alfred Alquist who revealed that both conflicts with federal law and the state's constitution were involved in nuclear power legislation he authored last year.

The measures had been hastily passed in a successful effort to head off passage of Proposition 15, the nuclear safety initiative which was defeated in the June 8, 1976, primary by a 2 to 1 majority.

Alquist had offered the bills as a more reasonable approach to nuclear safety than contained in the initiative. It was contended at the time, and probably accurately so, that the ballot proposition would have halted further nuclear power construction and closed down existing operations.

It was also probable that the same constitutional defects and conflicts with federal law found in the Alquist bills were existent in the initiative.

In any event, Alquist now says he has reservations about the provisions of his bills and will seek advice from the attorney general as to the possible action to be taken.

Earlier this year Sen. Ruben Ayala obtained a legislative counsel opinion which held that the Wild Rivers Act passed in 1972 is unconstitutional. Subsequently it was discovered that the author of that legislation, Sen. Peter Behr, had been so advised by the counsel back in 1971 but had secured passage of the bill, the advice notwithstanding.

Just how much legislation is pushed through contrary to legal advice as to its constitutionality by authors, more interested in gaining credit for "solving" some political issue rather than in securing sound legislation, is not easy to determine.

This is because the legislative counsel maintains a confidential "lawyer-client" relationship between itself and the individual members. Thus, even though a request for the drafting of a bill may result in advice to a lawmaker that such a measure would be unconstitutional, that advice is not disclosed to the public or to other members of the Legislature.

Any member, of course, may seek an opinion as to the constitutionality of any bill, but again that is confidential and would only be disclosed by the member if he happened to be in opposition to the proposed legislation.

It is argued that such opinions represent only the view of one lawyer and may not be upheld by the courts. But the legislative counsel is in effect one of the largest law firms in the state and its track record of being right has been remarkable over the years. Besides, any time the lawmakers commence having misgivings about the quality of the advice it gets from its lawyers, it is within their power to replace them with whomever they choose.

In the meantime, spending in excess of $4.5 million annually for their battery of attorneys to furnish them advice, maybe they should start listening to them more carefully.

Even one flea can harm cat

DEAR DR. MILLER: Why would a cat who has always had a few fleas and never been bothered by them suddenly be driven nuts by only one or two? — P.G.

DEAR P.G.: An animal not sensitized to fleas may be able to cope with an entire colony with surprisingly little adverse effect. Once the animal is sensitized, however, even one flea can cause considerable consternation and severe skin reation. (Most animals do become super sensitive to fleas eventually.) Ideally, one fights fleas on the pet when they're first found. A cat or dog who has been indifferent early but who suddenly becomes sensitive to fleas had better have concentrated help in fighting them from then on if potentially serious skin problems, and a lot of misery on the part of the pet, are to be avoided.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My old toad, Tommy, is getting sleepy and set for hibernation again. My new young toad, Tompkins, showns no signs of sleepiness. Doesn't he know how to hibernate? — T.D.

DEAR T.D.: Tompkin's troubles, if any, won't include his inability to get to sleep. When conditions are right and when he is in the mood, he'll happily hibernate. However, young toads normally hibernate later in the fall (and arouse earlier in the spring) than the mature adults do.

DEAR DR. MILLER: During the summer our son tried to raise two young calves. Both developed diarrhea and died. He was not careless with them. They received recommended diets. What could have gone wrong? — L.L.

DEAR L.L.: Calf diarrhea is by far the most common cause of death — it may kill one in four. The most common causes are bacterial infections and coccidiosis. Other causes include viruses, nutritional deficiencies, lead or arsenic poisoning or a combination of some of these. Such losses definitely do not mean the calves received poor care. However, should your son contemplate a third calf, he should check with a local veterinarian regarding specific ways to prevent this syndrome from developing.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Frosty is much too big a dog for me to keep up with even if I were in top physical shape. But I have hit on the ideal way to exercise him safely. I'm training him to trot alongside me and I'm on my bicycle. This way I can keep up with him and keep tabs on him, too, because I've got the leash tied to the bike. I have no problem, I just thought I'd pass along my system. — S.C.

DEAR S.C.: Unfortunately, your "system" can be hazardous to both your health and Frosty's. Should he suddenly dart in front of the bike, or behind it, you would be hard put to keep leash, bike and dog separated. A sudden lunge and pull to one side can quickly topple you. While I have seen the canine cycle combo seemingly work well, this hazard is ever present. The risk is simply too great.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Wednesday, Oct. 26, 1977
Your Birthday, Oct. 26, 1977

There's a possibility that you'll form some interesting and productive partnerships this coming year. Where you have previously been a loner, you may benefit greatly from tandem associations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 21-Nov. 22) One-to-one relationships are a critical area for you today. You may find you have trouble even with those you usually get along with. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There are rewards for work well done today, but duties and responsibilities will also be a lot more difficult than normal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) While you're in a sociable mood today, you'd be wise to avoid large gatherings. You'll be more comfortable in a small group where you can exercise control.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Establish realistic goals today. If you set your sights beyond your scope, you'll feel you've achieved nothing when you really have.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The one type of person you don't want to be around today is the know-it-all. He or she could really get your blood boiling.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Financial conditions are mixed for you today. There could be a few roadblocks you didn't anticipate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Independence is a noble virtue, but today you have to strike a balance in one-to-one relationships, to assure others you care about them, too.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The possibilities for personal gain are good today, but make sure the price is worth the return. Don't swap integrity for silver.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Social complications may arise for you today if one in the group tries to run the show. You won't sit back and take it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Should you have a run-in with a person in authority today, you'd be wise to back off a bit, even though you may be right.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Trying to blatantly impose your will on others today will draw you only nasty responses. Sugarcoat the message. You'll get it across.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You must feel the input is equal in any joint ventures involving money today, otherwise you'll feel you're being taken advantage of.

Ann Landers

Tell boys truth about daddy

Dear Ann Landers: My husband, who is actually a pleasant, well-behaved, law-abiding man, has got himself into a peck of trouble. He ignored several dozen traffic tickets and showed up to argue his case — fortified by a little "bottled courage." He got mouthy with the judge and was given a choice — $100 fine or 15 days in jail. He chose jail.

We have three small children — two boys, seven and five years of age, and a baby girl 10 months old. I am just sick to think that my children will have the stigma of their father's jail record all their lives.

Please tell me what to say to them. I have worried myself sick over how to break the news. I need your help. — Ashamed And Tongue-Tied Mother

Dear Mother: It doesn't make much difference what you tell the girl, but I suggest you tell the boys the truth.

Explain that Daddy is not a bad man and he didn't hurt anyone. Tell them people who drive cars must follow certain rules or they will get in trouble with the police — and this is what happened to their daddy. Explain that his punishment is to spend 15 days in jail and that's why he won't be home for a while.

Dear Ann Landers: So many people are unaware of the help available to them free of charge. Will you kindly print this information in your column? I learned of it at a church meeting last night, went home, checked it out and it works fine.

The federal government provides hot-line services of all kinds for people in distress. If you think you have been denied housing because of race, color, sex, religion or national origin, call 800-424-2666. The Housing Discrimination Hot-Line will explain your rights. It is open seven days a week, 24 hours a day.

If you want to check the safety of toys or any products such as a new appliance, call the Consumer Product Safety Commission Hot-Line at 800-638-2666. Open 24 hours a day.

Runaway children can get counseling by calling 800-621-4000. If they want to contact their parents, a recorded message will be taken and relayed — free of charge. This service is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The Moving Hot-Line helps people with complaints regarding moving from state to state. They will also check into complaints having to do with buses and trains. The number is 800-424-9312. Open from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Sign me. — Helpful Hilda

Dear Hilda: You are helpful indeed.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a dedicated worker in a hospital auxiliary that does many wonderful things for handicapped children and adults. I feel very good about this group but one thing gripes the daylights out of me.

I can name at least 25 women who brag about being active members, yet they do nothing put pay their dues and attend meetings when it doesn't interfere with their social life. They refuse to accept any committee assignments and do absolutely no work.

What can be done about these lazybones? — J.P.M.

Dear J.P.M.: Nothing. Just continue to collect their dues and use the money to good advantage.

Every organization has its wheelhorses and sparkplugs — then there are the other 94 percent. There will always be "joiners" and "doers." Take it from me — the "doers" have the most fun.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (13 cents postage) envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Handbag must be woman's lot

The first and only time I was on a ski slope, I had the attention of every person within a two-mile radius.

It could have been my color-coordinated pants and jacket.

It could have been by oversized goggles.

It could have been my knitted cap with the signature of a leading skier on it.

My husband seemed to think it was because I was the only woman on skis carrying a handbag.

I can't help it. Do men actually believe women enjoy lugging around a handbag everywhere they go? By the time everyone in the family unloads their stuff on me, I feel like an anvil salesman.

I don't know when it all started, but somewhere in history someone decided women were the keeper of the nose tissue, fingernail clipper, breath sprays, band aids, change for restrooms, pins, hair spray, sticks for chapped lips, road maps, combs and scratch pads. I never see a film clip of Queen Elizabeth with that large handbag slung over her arm that I don't half expect to see Prince Phillip lean forward and say, "Got any gum, Ducky?"

History was kinder to its women than they are nowadays. Did you see Joan of Arc carrying a Gucci to war? Did Pocahontas lug around a pouch to match her mocassins? And I don't know where Lady Godiva carried her credit cards, but it wasn't in a handbag. I would have noticed.

Believe me, there is nothing that detracts from a woman's aura of mystery and intrigue like wearing a black suede over-the-shoulder bag with a pale blue bathing suit.

I think it's time we women stopped carrying supplies for the entire family. If children don't have room to carry their own toys, if men don't have pockets in their pants, tougho.

Things are clearly out of control. I didn't mind rummaging through my bag for the ring at the wedding ceremony. I didn't raise my voice when I went to surgery with a tote bag over my chest. But the other day, I realized things had gone too far. My husband said, "These Life Savers are stuck together. Where did you have them?"

"When I went to the sauna . . ."

"You didn't!"

Dr. Lamb

No warning for heart attack

DEAR DR. LAMB — I can't seem to get the answer to my questions. I am a male, 67, 175 pounds and 5 feet 8. I have never been in a hospital until two weeks ago and in general have had excellent health, no coffee, liquor or tobacco.

Recently I felt a numbness in my arm, so I had a complete physical, brain wave tracing, electrocardiogram and the works. I was told I was in excellent health and nothing was amiss.

One day after receiving this report I suffered a heart attack and am waiting to learn if I will need a bypass operation.

Wouldn't some phase of this complete physical examination indicate some warning of a clot formation?

DEAR READER — "I think I've heard that song before." Many people don't seem to realize that heart disease is a "silent killer." You may not have a single symptom, even numbness, before the heart attack strikes. A healthy appearing man in his middle 40s may suddenly crumple over with chest pain and be dead in minutes. That is why people simply must have a preventive program. When the first sign or symptom is an attack causing death, it is too late to do anything about it.

Also it doesn't make any difference what or who is at the hospital if you are dead on arrival. The best doctors and facilities in the world will not help then.

The frequency of this problem is why I recommend that all adults should learn how to aid a victim of heart attack. You simply do not know when it is going to happen, even after a good medical examination. When a major portion of a population learns what to do the death rate can be cut in half as has occurred in Seattle, Washington. I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-4, Save A Life: Heart and Lung Arrest, so you can learn more about this.

More to the point, encourage someone around you to learn how, as it might save your life.

Others who want this issue outlining this method can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. I would also encourage all of my readers to contact their nearest chapter of the American Heart Association and find out if they have any courses they can take in learning how to do this procedure.

Numbness of the arm can be caused by many things, including bursitis and arthritis. Heart pain is more apt to be of short duration, unless it is an actual attack. The disease is actually in the artery going to the heart muscle. There is no way to see these arteries unless you do special X-ray examinations of the type I presume you will have to see whether you need a bypass operation. The pain and findings of a heart attack are caused when the heart muscle is not getting enough blood. That may not occur until the moment that the artery is blocked.

Exercise tests with electrocardiograms help to detect those likely to have trouble. Otherwise the risk factors of increased blood cholesterol, high blood pressure and cigarette smoking are the main things that indicate the possibility of having an attack.

South wanted to know why North hadn't used Stayman to find the 4-4 heart fit. North replied that he felt three notrump would have been as good a contract as four hearts and that it was just too bad that three out of three finesses had been wrong.

They went on to the next hand without either one seeing that three notrump could have been made in spite of all the misplaced kings. South had chucked his contract at trick one when he put his queen of clubs on West's jack. East had taken his king and returned the suit to set up two more club tricks for West.

South should have risen with dummy's ace of clubs at trick one and knocked out the ace of hearts.

West would have won, but would also have been helpless. If he led the 10 of clubs dummy's queen would force East's king and leave South's nine as the master club. If West led a low club, the three would be played from dummy and East would have to play the king. Either way South would score nine tricks.

A player who is about to bid more than necessary, such as an opening bid of three spades, has the right to announce: "I am about to make a skip bid!" He doesn't have to do this, but if he does, the next player is supposed to think for about 10 seconds before acting.

Commandments of resistance

In every conquered country occupied by foreign soldiers there thrives a resistance movement, an underground. One of these flourished in Czechoslovakia when the Soviets moved into that nation. And therein was conceived: "The Ten Commandments of Resistance — We haven't learned anything. We don't know anything. We don't have anything. We don't give anything. We can't do anything. We don't sell anything. We won't help. We don't understand. We don't betray. WE WON'T FORGET ANYTHING.

Other causes include viruses, nutritional deficiencies, lead or arsenic poisoning or a combination of some of these. Such losses definitely do not mean the calves received poor care. However, should your son contemplate a third calf, he should check with a local veterinarian regarding specific ways to prevent this syndrome from developing.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Frosty is much too big a dog for me to keep up with even if I were in top physical shape. But I have hit on the ideal way to exercise him safely. I'm training him to trot alongside me and I'm on my bicycle. This way I can keep up with him and keep tabs on him, too, because I've got the leash tied to the bike. I have no problem, I just thought I'd pass along my system. — S.C.

DEAR S.C.: Unfortunately, your "system" can be hazardous to both your health and Frosty's. Should he suddenly dart in front of the bike, or behind it, you would be hard put to keep leash, bike and dog separated. A sudden lunge and pull to one side can quickly topple you. While I have seen the canine cycle combo seemingly work well, this hazard is ever present. The risk is simply too great.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Wednesday, Oct. 26, 1977
Your Birthday, Oct. 26, 1977

There's a possibility that you'll form some interesting and productive partnerships this coming year. Where you have previously been a loner, you may benefit greatly from tandem associations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 21-Nov. 22) One-to-one relationships are a critical area for you today. You may find you have trouble even with those you usually get along with. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There are rewards for work well done today, but duties and responsibilities will also be a lot more difficult than normal.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) While you're in a sociable mood today, you'd be wise to avoid large gatherings. You'll be more comfortable in a small group where you can exercise control.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Establish realistic goals today. If you set your sights beyond your scope, you'll feel you've achieved nothing when you really have.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The one type of person you don't want to be around today is the know-it-all. He or she could really get your blood boiling.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Financial conditions are mixed for you today. There could be a few roadblocks you didn't anticipate.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Independence is a noble virtue, but today you have to strike a balance in one-to-one relationships, to assure others you care about them, too.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The possibilities for personal gain are good today, but make sure the price is worth the return. Don't swap integrity for silver.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Social complications may arise for you today if one in the group tries to run the show. You won't sit back and take it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Should you have a run-in with a person in authority today, you'd be wise to back off a bit, even though you may be right.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Trying to blatantly impose your will on others today will draw you only nasty responses. Sugarcoat the message. You'll get it across.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You must feel the input is equal in any joint ventures involving money today, otherwise you'll feel you're being taken advantage of.

Ann Landers

Tell boys truth about daddy

Dear Ann Landers: My husband, who is actually a pleasant, well-behaved, law-abiding man, has got himself into a peck of trouble. He ignored several dozen traffic tickets and showed up to argue his case — fortified by a little "bottled courage." He got mouthy with the judge and was given a choice — $100 fine or 15 days in jail. He chose jail.

We have three small children — two boys, seven and five years of age, and a baby girl 10 months old. I am just sick to think that my children will have the stigma of their father's jail record all their lives.

Please tell me what to say to them. I have worried myself sick over how to break the news. I need your help. — Ashamed And Tongue-Tied Mother

Dear Mother: It doesn't make much difference what you tell the girl, but I suggest you tell the boys the truth.

Explain that Daddy is not a bad man and he didn't hurt anyone. Tell them people who drive cars must follow certain rules or they will get in trouble with the police — and this is what happened to their daddy. Explain that his punishment is to spend 15 days in jail and that's why he won't be home for a while.

Dear Ann Landers: So many people are unaware of the help available to them free of charge. Will you kindly print this information in your column? I learned of it at a church meeting last night, went home, checked it out and it works fine.

The federal government provides hot-line services of all kinds for people in distress. If you think you have been denied housing because of race, color, sex, religion or national origin, call 800-424-2666. The Housing Discrimination Hot-Line will explain your rights. It is open seven days a week, 24 hours a day.

If you want to check the safety of toys or any products such as a new appliance, call the Consumer Product Safety Commission Hot-Line at 800-638-2666. Open 24 hours a day.

Runaway children can get counseling by calling 800-621-4000. If they want to contact their parents, a recorded message will be taken and relayed — free of charge. This service is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The Moving Hot-Line helps people with complaints regarding moving from state to state. They will also check into complaints having to do with buses and trains. The number is 800-424-9312. Open from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Sign me. — Helpful Hilda

Dear Hilda: You are helpful indeed.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a dedicated worker in a hospital auxiliary that does many wonderful things for handicapped children and adults. I feel very good about this group but one thing gripes the daylights out of me.

I can name at least 25 women who brag about being active members, yet they do nothing put pay their dues and attend meetings when it doesn't interfere with their social life. They refuse to accept any committee assignments and do absolutely no work.

What can be done about these lazybones? — J.P.M.

Dear J.P.M.: Nothing. Just continue to collect their dues and use the money to good advantage.

Every organization has its wheelhorses and sparkplugs — then there are the other 94 percent. There will always be "joiners" and "doers." Take it from me — the "doers" have the most fun.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (13 cents postage) envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Erma Bombeck

Handbag must be woman's lot

The first and only time I was on a ski slope, I had the attention of every person within a two-mile radius.

It could have been my color-coordinated pants and jacket.

It could have been by oversized goggles.

It could have been my knitted cap with the signature of a leading skier on it.

My husband seemed to think it was because I was the only woman on skis carrying a handbag.

I can't help it. Do men actually believe women enjoy lugging around a handbag everywhere they go? By the time everyone in the family unloads their stuff on me, I feel like an anvil salesman.

I don't know when it all started, but somewhere in history someone decided women were the keeper of the nose tissue, fingernail clipper, breath sprays, band aids, change for restrooms, pins, hair spray, sticks for chapped lips, road maps, combs and scratch pads. I never see a film clip of Queen Elizabeth with that large handbag slung over her arm that I don't half expect to see Prince Phillip lean forward and say, "Got any gum, Ducky?"

History was kinder to its women than they are nowadays. Did you see Joan of Arc carrying a Gucci to war? Did Pocahontas lug around a pouch to match her mocassins? And I don't know where Lady Godiva carried her credit cards, but it wasn't in a handbag. I would have noticed.

Believe me, there is nothing that detracts from a woman's aura of mystery and intrigue like wearing a black suede over-the-shoulder bag with a pale blue bathing suit.

I think it's time we women stopped carrying supplies for the entire family. If children don't have room to carry their own toys, if men don't have pockets in their pants, tougho.

Things are clearly out of control. I didn't mind rummaging through my bag for the ring at the wedding ceremony. I didn't raise my voice when I went to surgery with a tote bag over my chest. But the other day, I realized things had gone too far. My husband said, "These Life Savers are stuck together. Where did you have them?"

"When I went to the sauna . . ."

"You didn't!"

Dr. Lamb

No warning for heart attack

DEAR DR. LAMB — I can't seem to get the answer to my questions. I am a male, 67, 175 pounds and 5 feet 8. I have never been in a hospital until two weeks ago and in general have had excellent health, no coffee, liquor or tobacco.

Recently I felt a numbness in my arm, so I had a complete physical, brain wave tracing, electrocardiogram and the works. I was told I was in excellent health and nothing was amiss.

One day after receiving this report I suffered a heart attack and am waiting to learn if I will need a bypass operation.

Wouldn't some phase of this complete physical examination indicate some warning of a clot formation?

DEAR READER — "I think I've heard that song before." Many people don't seem to realize that heart disease is a "silent killer." You may not have a single symptom, even numbness, before the heart attack strikes. A healthy appearing man in his middle 40s may suddenly crumple over with chest pain and be dead in minutes. That is why people simply must have a preventive program. When the first sign or symptom is an attack causing death, it is too late to do anything about it.

Also it doesn't make any difference what or who is at the hospital if you are dead on arrival. The best doctors and facilities in the world will not help then.

The frequency of this problem is why I recommend that all adults should learn how to aid a victim of heart attack. You simply do not know when it is going to happen, even after a good medical examination. When a major portion of a population learns what to do the death rate can be cut in half as has occurred in Seattle, Washington. I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-4, Save A Life: Heart and Lung Arrest, so you can learn more about this.

More to the point, encourage someone around you to learn how, as it might save your life.

Others who want this issue outlining this method can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. I would also encourage all of my readers to contact their nearest chapter of the American Heart Association and find out if they have any courses they can take in learning how to do this procedure.

Numbness of the arm can be caused by many things, including bursitis and arthritis. Heart pain is more apt to be of short duration, unless it is an actual attack. The disease is actually in the artery going to the heart muscle. There is no way to see these arteries unless you do special X-ray examinations of the type I presume you will have to see whether you need a bypass operation. The pain and findings of a heart attack are caused when the heart muscle is not getting enough blood. That may not occur until the moment that the artery is blocked.

Exercise tests with electrocardiograms help to detect those likely to have trouble. Otherwise the risk factors of increased blood cholesterol, high blood pressure and cigarette smoking are the main things that indicate the possibility of having an attack.

South wanted to know why North hadn't used Stayman to find the 4-4 heart fit. North replied that he felt three notrump would have been as good a contract as four hearts and that it was just too bad that three out of three finesses had been wrong.

They went on to the next hand without either one seeing that three notrump could have been made in spite of all the misplaced kings. South had chucked his contract at trick one when he put his queen of clubs on West's jack. East had taken his king and returned the suit to set up two more club tricks for West.

South should have risen with dummy's ace of clubs at trick one and knocked out the ace of hearts.

West would have won, but would also have been helpless. If he led the 10 of clubs dummy's queen would force East's king and leave South's nine as the master club. If West led a low club, the three would be played from dummy and East would have to play the king. Either way South would score nine tricks.

We have been asked several questions on the skip bid warning in duplicate.

A player who is about to bid more than necessary, such as an opening bid of three spades, has the right to announce: "I am about to make a skip bid!" He doesn't have to do this, but if he does, the next player is supposed to think for about 10 seconds before acting.

Commandments of resistance

In every conquered country occupied by foreign soldiers there thrives a resistance movement, an underground. One of these flourished in Czechoslovakia when the Soviets moved into that nation. And therein was conceived: "The Ten Commandments of Resistance — We haven't learned anything. We don't know anything. We don't have anything. We don't give anything. We can't do anything. We don't sell anything. We won't help. We don't understand. We don't betray. WE WON'T FORGET ANYTHING.

A. It hasn't any. Nor any arsenal, evidently. When President Lyndon B. Johnson visited there nine years ago, Costa Rica had to borrow a cannon from El Salvador for the 21-gun salute.

$483,183 just sitting in bank

WACO, Tex. (AP) — For the past eight months, almost half a million dollars two teen-agers claim they dug up on a southern Texas farm has been sitting in a bank vault, kept separate from other funds in case it was tainted by crime.

The fortune has drawn not a dollar in interest, but last week attorneys for the city asked U.S. District Court Judge Jack Roberts to direct the Citizens National Bank of Waco to put the $483,183 into an interest-bearing account.

Asked if Citizens National would prefer the money in an account, Joe Newton, executive vice president, said, "It's not doing anybody any good just sitting in the vault."

City Atty. Wiley Stem Jr. said that lawyers are convinced there will be no criminal trials concerning the fortune.

He said the money could earn thousands of dollars in interest, which would go the party that eventually receives the funds, before courts finally determine ownership.

The money was found last January in the trunk of a new 1977 Thunderbird stopped for a traffic violation in Waco.

The two youths driving the car, James Dean Bridges and Percy Arnold Garcia, told police they had bought the car with some of the cash they had found the day before while digging on a ranch owned by Bridges' father, James Hiroms.

Hiroms did not claim the money, and investigations by government agencies and one state grand jury failed to reveal any criminal activity in connection with it.

State District Court Judge Bill Logue of Waco directed the bank to keep the money separate from other bank funds in case it was needed as evidence in possible criminal proceedings.

However, McLennan County is claiming the cash as abandoned property, and the State of Texas also claims a stake.

Roberts has set a pretrial hearing date for Feb. 1 in preparation of a trial to determine who will get what amount of the money.

Christians, Moslems rebuilding their forces in Lebanon

TYRE, Lebanon (AP) — Christian and Moslem militias that fought in the Lebanese civil war are rebuilding their forces.

Both the Christian rightists and the Moslem leftists are recruiting and arming new fighters openly and without interference.

The two opposing factions are estimated to have a total of 45,000 trained, armed men, not including the Palestinians.

This is more than 10 times the 4,000 experienced, loyal soldiers claimed for the Lebanese army. But the Christians and Moslems are estimated to keep only about 3,000 men each on active duty.

The Mourabiton (Ambushers), the independent Nasserite Movement's militia, swore in 700 recruits in Tyre Sunday in the name of "Arab Lebanon" and the Palestinian cause. Commandos, teen-age boys, nurses and a unit of frogmen paraded before leftist dignitaries and foreign correspondents in a vacant lot.

The Mourabiton started as a rag-tag gang of street fighters who battled alongside Palestinian guerrillas and other leftist factions during the civil war. They have become the second most powerful leftist force, exceeded only by the Palestinians.

More than 600 of the most experienced fighters have been trained in Vietnam, Cuba and friendly Arab countries since the civil war, sources in the militia revealed.

Earlier this month, the Christian Tigers held a similar ceremony in East Beirut. Their leader, former President Camille Chamoun, said his militia would continue to expand as long as the Palestinian guerrillas remained in the country.

Lebanon has been the Palestinians' chief base of operations since King Hussein's army expelled them from Jordan in 1970, and their support was giving the leftists victory in the civil war until the Syrian army intervened to check them. The Christians continue to demand that the Palestinians clear out of the country, but the leftists have made the Palestinian cause their own,

The Lebanese army is slowly rebuilding after disintegrating during the war. But it is not strong enough to enter southern Lebanon to separate the Palestinians and Christians who battled there until a shaky cease-fire in late September.

Army spokesmen admit their forces are not strong enough to face a major confrontation. Informed sources report that the government is afraid that a clash with either the Palestinians or the Christians would cause army troops of the same faith to desert or would touch off fights between Moslems and Christians within the army.

The Moslems claim the Christians get most of their arms from Israel, which openly aided the Christians in the fighting in southern Lebanon. The Christians, who have plenty of money.

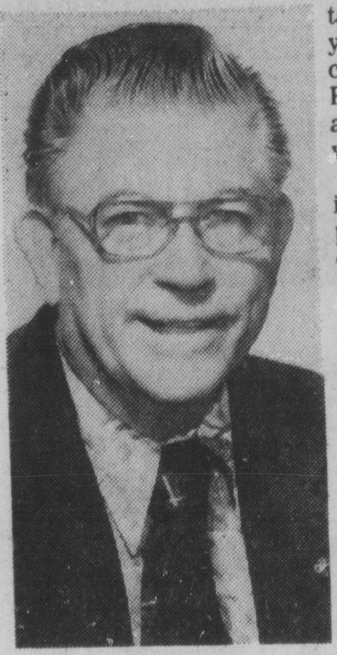
Tri-community candidates

This is the seventh in a series of statements presented by candidates for five city council seats in the proposed Rancho Cucamonga election in Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda Nov. 8.



ASA COLE

ASA COLE

Asa L. ''Ace'' Cole believes his experience as a realtor in the booming tri communities area can help him be an effective city councilman in the new city.

"I am confident I can help out new city get started in the right direction,'' Cole said.

He is a native of Marshall, Texas, and grew up on a farm in Poplar Bluff, Mo. He was a member of the Army for six years before and during World War II.

Upon discharge, Cole moved to California in 1946 with his wife, Pauline. The couple have five children and seven grandchildren.

Cole moved to Alta Loma in 1970 and has been a realtor the past 10 years. He is a member of the Elks, Moose Lodge, VFW and a member of St. Peter and St. Paul Church.

DENNIS L. STOUT

San Bernardino County Dep. Dist. Atty. Dennis L. Stout feels he has the experience to give a new city effective leadership.

That experience, said Stout, includes four years as an administrative assistant with the county's mental health department, a year as a planning technician with the city of Pomona, and a year as an administrative analyst with the city of Fontana.

''I believe in the maximum amount of public participation in governmental decision making. For that reason, I would favor the three communities having separate sub-councils,'' he said.

Stout said ''growth management'' must be given high priority in the new city or the community will find itself ''strangled by ill planned growth.''

The city and building interests must cooperate, said Stout, but ''the interests of city come first.''

CHARLES A. WEST

Charles A. West, 56, plant manager for a Cucamonga firm, has been a resident of the tri-communities for 14 years.

''I feel this area will need experienced, responsible leadership from the start. It's especially crucial our new city should begin with leaders who know how to manage and get things done right, which has been my job for 26 years,'' said West.

He said the new city ''must have foresight to plan for balanced, sensible growth.

''I believe that recreational facilities, commercial and industrial planning, and residential growth will be best served when controlled by local representatives,'' said West in support of incorporation.

He said he would like to see as much open space as possible preserved ''for future generations to enjoy.''

West has been active in a variety of organizations, including the Cucamonga Volunteer Fire Department. He and his wife, Rhoda, reside at 6311 Emerald St., Alta Loma.

The instructor, Dr. Steven Whaley, said participants will benefit if they have reviewed the texts: ''Star Wars,'' ''The Forever Wars,'' ''Glory Road,'' ''Man Unwept'' and ''Childhood's End.''

The course, scheduled in building 5, room 132, will provide two units of university credit for a fee of $47. Preregistration is required by Nov. 1.

That experience, said Stout, includes four years as an administrative assistant with the county's mental health department, a year as a planning technician with the city of Pomona, and a year as an administrative analyst with the city of Fontana.

"I believe in the maximum amount of public participation in governmental decision making. For that reason, I would favor the three communities having separate sub-councils," he said.

Stout said "growth management" must be given high priority in the new city or the community will find itself "strangled by ill planned growth."

CHARLES A. WEST

Charles A. West, 56, plant manager for a Cucamonga firm, has been a resident of the tri-communities for 14 years.

"I feel this area will need experienced, responsible leadership from the start. It's especially crucial our new city should begin with leaders who know how to manage and get things done right, which has been my job for 26 years," said West.

He said the new city "must have foresight to plan for balanced, sensible growth.

"I believe that recreational facilities, commercial and industrial planning, and residential growth will be best served when controlled by local representatives," said West in support of incorporation.

He said he would like to see as much open space as possible preserved "for future generations to enjoy."

West has been active in a variety of organizations, including the Cucamonga Volunteer Fire Department. He and his wife, Rhoda, reside at 6311 Emerald St., Alta Loma.

Wendall Tyler of the Rams takes off on a 44-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter against the Minnesota Vikings in the Coliseum Monday night. Tyler, a rookie from UCLA, gained over 100 yards in the final quarter as the Rams buried the Vikings, 35-3.

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — If the Rams played every game as well as they played Monday night on national television, they would achieve their goal of going to the Super Bowl.

The 35-3 score over the visiting Minnesota Vikings before 62,414 (there were 8,625 no-shows), was an accurate barometer of the Rams' dominance.

The Angelenos outplayed the Vikes decisively both offensively and defensively.

Old tormentor Fran Tarkenton must have felt he was one man facing an army. There were blue and gold uniformed figures hurtling at him from all sides all evening long.

When the war ended, Francis showed only 10 completions out of 27 passes which netted just 108 yards. He was sacked four times and intercepted twice (by Pat Thomas).

Both interceptions led to touchdowns.

On the ground, the front four of Jack Youngblood, Fred Dryer, Lawrence Brooks and Cody Jones with linebackers Bob Brudzinski, Jim Youngblood and Isiah Robertson were impenetrable.

They not only put terrific pressure on Tarkenton all evening, they also put the clamps on the Minnesota running game.

'All-purpose back Chuck Foreman was held to 35 yards on 10 rushes and had just one pass reception for four yards. Holding Foreman to 39 yards total offense is quite an accomplishment.

Foremen's running mate, Brent McClanahan, netted only 21 yards on eight rushes and caught two passes for 17 yards.

Minnesota rushed for only 98 yards and wound up with just 206 total net yards to the Rams' 397 (283 rushing and 114 passing).

On offense, Pat Haden sparkled again and once more made one wonder why coach Chuck Knox waited so long and used Haden so little before benching Joe Namath.

Haden executed flawlessly. He completed 12 of 21 passes including two for touchdowns and scrambled three times for 13 yards and another TD.

On the touchdown run (seven yards), Haden swept right, cut back and went in showing mobility Namath never had.

"I feel my ability to scramble adds another dimension to our offense," Haden agreed when questioned about it. "I think it helps the club and it helps me. Some quarterbacks can do some things and some can do others."

Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti supplied speed and power with 81 yards in 19 carries and 53 yards on 12 carries respectively. Cappelletti also has perfected his hurdling.

Three times the 6-1, 220-pounder hurdled the enemy line for gains, once for a one-yard TD.

But it was rookie Wendell Tyler who added another dimension to the running game. It's not too common in the pros. It's breakaway running.

The 5-10, 188-pound Tyler had his first 100-yard game as a pro. Tyler carried only eight times, but netted 102 yards including a 44-yard breakaway run for a touchdown.

Then there was special teams' star Bill Waddy, another rookie with blazing speed.

The 5-11, 185-pound Waddy had a spectacular 87-yard return for a touchdown nullified by a penalty (Thomas). But Waddy still ran back kicks for 30, 34 and six yards and set up the first Ram TD.

"This was a very satisfying win because we played well against a very good team," said Knox. "The offense moved the ball, the defense did a great job and the special teams played with a lot of enthusiasm.

"Pat Haden did a grreat job. He certainly demonstrated that he is number one. We kept him in a long time because we wanted to give him some work against a good team like Minnesota. I didn't want to put Joe Namath in a mop-up situation.

Haden went all the way until the last series when rookie Vince Ferragamo took over.

"The Rams were just too good tonight," said Grant. "We've all had these games before and we might as well get it out of our system now, once and for all.

"The game obviously was very important and since the Rams hadn't looked very good, they were obviously up for the game."

If the two teams meet in the playoffs again, the Rams probably won't play that well and the Vikings most assuredly won't play as bad.

Owner Carroll Rosenbloom had the most pertinent comment. When a pressbox employee gushed, "they certainly look great tonight." Rosenbloom replied crustily, "that's the way we expected them to look from the beginning."

Sunday the Rams travel to New Orleans. Next home game is Nov. 6 against John McKay's hapless Tampa Bay Bucaneers.

Bruins to run fewer options

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quarterback Rick Bashore was UCLA's leading rusher in the Bruins' victory over California, but Coach Terry Donahue was not particularly pleased with that fact.

"We called 10 option plays," Donahue said Monday, "and we wanted to pitch on about half of them. But we only got the pitch on one or two."

Bashore, a rangy 6-foot-1, 177-pound sophomore, carried 20 times for 90 yards and also logged a 41-yard touchdown run in the Bruins' 21-19 triumph over Cal last Saturday.

Half those carries came when he was running the option — and keeping the ball himself — and the rest were scrambles.

Donahue has said that UCLA was going to use the option less, and he reiterated that Monday.

"We're going to retain some of our option plays, but we can't run the number of options that we went into the season with. We just can't execute them to that degree."

The Bruins kept their Pacific-8 title hopes alive with the victory over Cal, and face another crucial conference game Saturday when they host Washington's Huskies. UCLA carries a 4-3 overall and 2-1 conference mark into the contest, while Washington is also 4-3 in all games but is tied with Southern Cal for the Pac-8 lead at 3-0.

"I don't think you can win the conference outright with two losses," said Donahue.

The Bruins coach said he was pleased with most aspects of his team's play in the victory over Cal, but added the kicking coverage is worrying him.

"We have to improve our kicking game," Donahue said. "It's in shambles right now. We have not covered punts and kickoffs properly.

"I wish I could tell you why, but there are so many factors involved. But I know our kickoff coverage for the last two weeks has been the poorest I've ever been associated with," he continued.

"Washington is probably the best kickoff returning team in the conference and I'm really concerned about it."

Bavasi takes over Angels

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Gene Autry has a new sidekick.

Bavasi headed the front office of the San Diego Padres the past nine years and directed the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers for many years before that.

Former cowboy movie star Autry also gave himself an expanded new role in the frontoffice shakeup of his Angels. Autry becomes president and continues as chairman of the board. The hiring of Bavasi and retention of most or all other top Angel officials had been reported last week.

The Angels' penchant to spend money for new players is not expected to change. Like the Angels, San Diego also went the free-agent route a year ago in an effort to improve a team which appeared ready to contend for a pennant.

But star-quality additions were cancelled out by injuries on both teams, making 1977 a lot like every other year at Anaheim and San Diego.

It's reported that free-agent players eyed by the Angels this winter include Mike Torrez, who pitched two victories for the New York Yankees in the World Series, and relief ace Rich Gossage of Pittsburgh. The Angels also are reported working on a multi-player deal that would bring them third baseman Toby Harrah of the Texas Rangers.

But an executive reorganization was Autry's first priority following the Angels' 74-88 finish in 1977, putting the team in fifth place in the American League West Division.

Still to be determined is the role for Arthur E. "Red" Patterson, who had been the Angel president for three years. Patterson's came to the Angels from the Los Angeles Dodgers, where he had been public relations chief, and he is expected to continue with the club in a related capacity.

Rogie Vachon must get rest

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Goalie Rogie Vachon of the Los Angeles Kings will miss at least four more games because of a concussion, suffered when struck by a shot last week.

After an overnight hospital stay, Vachon was sent home Monday and told to rest for at least a week, a spokesman for the National Hockey League team said.

Vachon had two shutouts in the first three regular season games before he was hurt last Wednesday during a 3-1 loss at Cleveland. He also missed Saturday night's home game in which the Kings were beaten by Boston 4-3.

The Kings' All-Star goalie was knocked unconscious when a shot fired by Cleveland's Bob Murdoch struck him on the side of the head. He appeared to be recovering the next few days, but complained of dizziness over the weekend and was admitted to Centinela Valley Hospital for precautionary tests Sunday evening.

According to a team spokesman, doctors said brain-scan test results were not normal, and could indicate some swelling. Further tests are scheduled next Monday, the Kings said.

Jones now knows how Crockett felt

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

"We thought we were going to the Golden Dome, but when we got there it was more like the Alamo."

That's the way Cal Poly's Jim Jones summed up his team's 66-10 defeat to Ball State at Monday's Progress Bulletin football luncheon at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

Jones and the other valley grid coaches were quick with the quips, despite the fact that many of them suffered disheartening losses last week.

Selected as the college players of the week were Randy Martinez from Azusa Pacific and La Verne's Dean Buttress. Tabbed as the junior college players of the week were Barry McManus and Myron Bourne of Citrus.

Martinez made nine unassisted and 11 assisted tackles from his lineman's position to pace APC's win at U. San Diego. Martinez also had five quarterback sacks. Buttress, a 6-2, 235-pound offensive tackle, had a big game in La Verne's narrow loss to Occidental.

McManus played a major role in Citrus' key win over Chaffey last week by rushing for 178 yards and one touchdown. Bourne made a 55-yard interception return for a TD in the same contest.

Other players nominated were Cal Poly wide receiver Teddy Mylees, La Verne defensive back Bruce Hines, APC wide receiver Randy McKelvin, Chaffey tackle Dave Flores and Mt. San Antonio quarterback Butch Stocking.

Quoting the coaches:

JONES, Cal Poly: "It was a great weekend for us, and would have been even better if we hadn't played a football game.

"We got to the stadium and it was kind of scary to see 95 guys at the other end of the field with red jerseys. They just had too much for us. We were playing guys we shouldn't be playing.

"We play Northridge this week, they're more at our level. They have been an up-and-down team this year. We aren't down, in fact our kids have been real realistic about our season. They're just trying to make the best out of what's left of it."

JOHN STRYCULA, Citrus: "We did what we had to do to beat Chaffey. We got good blocking and controlled the ball, and on defense took away their outside sweep and long pass.

"We felt all along we had good backs, and they finally got the blocking against Chaffey and showed what they could do.

"We play Southwestern this week. Of all the teams in our conference they have given us the most trouble, we will have to play a good game to beat them."

MIKE MERANDI, Chaffey: "We have reached a plateau the past two weeks, and it's not a very good one for us. We just lack grit. We never generated any momentum against Citrus and they just came right at us.

"We have to try to regroup this week against San Bernardino. They have the people and are a very physical team.

"We've lost Sonny LaFargue to a knee problem, that makes nine of our 22 starters we've lost to injuries this year. He is definitely questionable for this week."

JERRY SCONCE, Azusa Pacific: "We went down to that "snakepit" (at U. San Diego) again, and the usual strange things happened. I'll tell you, unless they fix their field up I'll never play there again. We lost three players with injuries due to holes in their playing surface.

"We were fortunate to win down there in that disaster area. That's no reflection on their coach or players, but just on the facilities. They leave something to be desired.

"We'll make a long flight up to St. Mary's this week and expect some of the same sort of "baloney". They're a good football team and we'll be hard-pressed to win up there. We've lost 16 players with injuries now which makes it a little tough."

JOHN ZINDA, Claremont-Mudd: "We lost to Whittier, they're a fine defensive team. They had held opponents to only a net of 162 yards on 155 rushes prior to us, and they shut us off completely. It was not a good game from our standpoint.

"We have Pomona this week. It will be a tough game for us, we don't have a passing attack, while they do, so that gives them the ability to score a quick touchdown. We'll have to execute a lot better than we have to beat them."

WALT AMBORD, Pomona-Pitzer: "We played Redlands and got beat 49-10, but I feel we did some things well in that game. Overall, I was pleased with our effort.

"We go against Claremont this week. I don't want to say anything which might be used against me about them! Seriously, they are a well-coached team, and their coaches seem to get the best out of their material. I think the team which makes the fewest mistakes will win. We just hope it's a little closer than last year. That game almost cost me my job!"

ROLAND ORTMAYER, La Verne: "Our first conference effort (against Occidental) turned out to be a loss. We failed to capitalize on a couple first half opportunities and that really boomeranged on us.

"People were telling me afterward what a brave move it was to go for two points after we had scored a touchdown late in the game. Heck, it wasn't a brave move. I had no choice. First off, we don't have a kicker anyway, and secondly, you have to play this game to win.

"We're at Whittier this week. They beat us 19-3 in our first game and I assume they think they can do it again. They seem to have the upper hand on things in our conference right now."

MAL EATON, MSAC: "We played a good game at Grossmont, our offensive line did a good job and Stocking had a good game at quarterback. He had two touchdown passes and had two others dropped.

"We're still inconsistent in spots, and our kicking game let us down a bit. We play Cerritos this week, and we'll need our very best game to win. They are well-balanced and make very few mistakes. We need to avoid penalties and turnovers to stay with them."

It's reported that free-agent players eyed by the Angels this winter include Mike Torrez, who pitched two victories for the New York Yankees in the World Series, and relief ace Rich Gossage of Pittsburgh. The Angels also are reported working on a multi-player deal that would bring them third baseman Toby Harrah of the Texas Rangers.

But an executive reorganization was Autry's first priority following the Angels' 74-88 finish in 1977, putting the team in fifth place in the American League West Division.

Still to be determined is the role for Arthur E. "Red" Patterson, who had been the Angel president for three years. Patterson's came to the Angels from the Los Angeles Dodgers, where he had been public relations chief, and he is expected to continue with the club in a related capacity.

Rogie Vachon must get rest

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Goalie Rogie Vachon of the Los Angeles Kings will miss at least four more games because of a concussion, suffered when struck by a shot last week.

After an overnight hospital stay, Vachon was sent home Monday and told to rest for at least a week, a spokesman for the National Hockey League team said.

Vachon had two shutouts in the first three regular season games before he was hurt last Wednesday during a 3-1 loss at Cleveland. He also missed Saturday night's home game in which the Kings were beaten by Boston 4-3.

The Kings' All-Star goalie was knocked unconscious when a shot fired by Cleveland's Bob Murdoch struck him on the side of the head. He appeared to be recovering the next few days, but complained of dizziness over the weekend and was admitted to Centinela Valley Hospital for precautionary tests Sunday evening.

According to a team spokesman, doctors said brain-scan test results were not normal, and could indicate some swelling. Further tests are scheduled next Monday, the Kings said.

Jones now knows how Crockett felt

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

"We thought we were going to the Golden Dome, but when we got there it was more like the Alamo."

That's the way Cal Poly's Jim Jones summed up his team's 66-10 defeat to Ball State at Monday's Progress Bulletin football luncheon at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

Jones and the other valley grid coaches were quick with the quips, despite the fact that many of them suffered disheartening losses last week.

Selected as the college players of the week were Randy Martinez from Azusa Pacific and La Verne's Dean Buttress. Tabbed as the junior college players of the week were Barry McManus and Myron Bourne of Citrus.

Martinez made nine unassisted and 11 assisted tackles from his lineman's position to pace APC's win at U. San Diego. Martinez also had five quarterback sacks. Buttress, a 6-2, 235-pound offensive tackle, had a big game in La Verne's narrow loss to Occidental.

McManus played a major role in Citrus' key win over Chaffey last week by rushing for 178 yards and one touchdown. Bourne made a 55-yard interception return for a TD in the same contest.

Other players nominated were Cal Poly wide receiver Teddy Mylees, La Verne defensive back Bruce Hines, APC wide receiver Randy McKelvin, Chaffey tackle Dave Flores and Mt. San Antonio quarterback Butch Stocking.

Quoting the coaches:

JONES, Cal Poly: "It was a great weekend for us, and would have been even better if we hadn't played a football game.

"We got to the stadium and it was kind of scary to see 95 guys at the other end of the field with red jerseys. They just had too much for us. We were playing guys we shouldn't be playing.

"We play Northridge this week, they're more at our level. They have been an up-and-down team this year. We aren't down, in fact our kids have been real realistic about our season. They're just trying to make the best out of what's left of it."

JOHN STRYCULA, Citrus: "We did what we had to do to beat Chaffey. We got good blocking and controlled the ball, and on defense took away their outside sweep and long pass.

"We felt all along we had good backs, and they finally got the blocking against Chaffey and showed what they could do.

"We play Southwestern this week. Of all the teams in our conference they have given us the most trouble, we will have to play a good game to beat them."

MIKE MERANDI, Chaffey: "We have reached a plateau the past two weeks, and it's not a very good one for us. We just lack grit. We never generated any momentum against Citrus and they just came right at us.

"We have to try to regroup this week against San Bernardino. They have the people and are a very physical team.

"We've lost Sonny LaFargue to a knee problem, that makes nine of our 22 starters we've lost to injuries this year. He is definitely questionable for this week."

JERRY SCONCE, Azusa Pacific: "We went down to that "snakepit" (at U. San Diego) again, and the usual strange things happened. I'll tell you, unless they fix their field up I'll never play there again. We lost three players with injuries due to holes in their playing surface.

"We were fortunate to win down there in that disaster area. That's no reflection on their coach or players, but just on the facilities. They leave something to be desired.

"We'll make a long flight up to St. Mary's this week and expect some of the same sort of "baloney". They're a good football team and we'll be hard-pressed to win up there. We've lost 16 players with injuries now which makes it a little tough."

JOHN ZINDA, Claremont-Mudd: "We lost to Whittier, they're a fine defensive team. They had held opponents to only a net of 162 yards on 155 rushes prior to us, and they shut us off completely. It was not a good game from our standpoint.

"We have Pomona this week. It will be a tough game for us, we don't have a passing attack, while they do, so that gives them the ability to score a quick touchdown. We'll have to execute a lot better than we have to beat them."

WALT AMBORD, Pomona-Pitzer: "We played Redlands and got beat 49-10, but I feel we did some things well in that game. Overall, I was pleased with our effort.

"We go against Claremont this week. I don't want to say anything which might be used against me about them! Seriously, they are a well-coached team, and their coaches seem to get the best out of their material. I think the team which makes the fewest mistakes will win. We just hope it's a little closer than last year. That game almost cost me my job!"

ROLAND ORTMAYER, La Verne: "Our first conference effort (against Occidental) turned out to be a loss. We failed to capitalize on a couple first half opportunities and that really boomeranged on us.

"People were telling me afterward what a brave move it was to go for two points after we had scored a touchdown late in the game. Heck, it wasn't a brave move. I had no choice. First off, we don't have a kicker anyway, and secondly, you have to play this game to win.

"We're at Whittier this week. They beat us 19-3 in our first game and I assume they think they can do it again. They seem to have the upper hand on things in our conference right now."

MAL EATON, MSAC: "We played a good game at Grossmont, our offensive line did a good job and Stocking had a good game at quarterback. He had two touchdown passes and had two others dropped.

"We're still inconsistent in spots, and our kicking game let us down a bit. We play Cerritos this week, and we'll need our very best game to win. They are well-balanced and make very few mistakes. We need to avoid penalties and turnovers to stay with them."

DEFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE WEEK — Pat Thomas, reserve cornerback, Los Angeles Rams. Thomas, playing in place of injured Rod Perry, intercepted two Fran Tarkenton passes Monday night, each leading to a Pat Haden touchdown pass in the Rams' 35-3 victory over the Minnesota Vikings.

OFFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE WEEK — Richard Todd, quarterback, New York Jets. Completed 17 of 29 passes for 396 yards and four touchdowns Sunday against Oakland. Only a missed extra point and a pair of missed chip-shot field goals kept the Jets from beating the Raiders, who came back to win 28-27.

Heinsohn didn't have much praise for Detroit after its 100-85 National Basketball Association triumph Monday night. The reason? The Boston coach was too busy bracing his own team with criticism.

'We played dumb, nonhustling basketball,'' said Heinsohn. ''We played well enough in the first half, then rolled over and died. They are not thinking out there.''

Lanier said Boston ''isn't the team out there that it was before. They don't play well together. Usually, they keep coming at you, but right now they're not doing that.''

Boston is 0-3 on the season. Detroit is 3-2, but the Pistons seem to be unbeatable at home. Detroit has won nine straight games in Cobo Arena in a string of victories dating to last March.

On Monday night, Lanier had 19 of his game-high 33 points during the third and fourth periods. Money caged 16 of his 24 points in the second half.

With Lanier and Money each scoring eight points over the first nine minutes of the third period, the Pistons outscored Boston 21-4 and then raised their lead to 69-58 going into the last period.

The Celtics retaliated with Tom Boswell and Jo Jo White to move within 74-71 of Detroit with 7:28 remaining. Then it was Lanier and Money again, each with three baskets and Lanier with a free throw, to wrap up Detroit's third victory in five starts.

Boswell had 19 points and White and Charlie Scott had 16 each to top the Celtics.

''We didn't play tough defense,'' Heinsohn said. ''We didn't take shots when we had them and took shots that were lousy. We've got to get our heads together and play some basketball.''

Brown, in fact, attributed the victory to rebounding and defense, citing the fact that the Pistons gave up only nine points in the third quarter and only 36 in the entire second half.

''We talked at halftime about how badly we played, how poor we rebounded and that we weren't getting any loose balls,'' Brown said. ''The answer really was our defense, with rebounding the key in the second half.''

Canadiens still 'own' Capitals

MONTREAL (AP) — If nothing else, there's one thing to be said for National Hockey League meetings between the Washington Capitals and Montreal Canadiens — they're predictable.

When Guy Lafleur scored his fifth goal of the season and set up two others to lead the Canadiens to a 5-1 victory in the only NHL game Monday night, it marked the 20th Montreal triumph in as many games against Washington since the Capitals joined the league for the 1974-75 season.

Those 20 games, including two so far this season, have been split evenly between the Forum and the Capital Centre in Landover, Md. But that's all that's been even.

Steve Shutt, Yvon Lambert, Bill Nyrop and Serge Savard also scored for the unbeaten Canadiens, 6-0-1 and leading the Norris Division, while the Capitals trail with a 1-3-0 mark.

Canadiens netminder Michel Larocque, who faced a total of 21 shots while his teammates were directing 46 at Washington's Gary Smith, was well on the way to his second shutout in three games before Gerry Meehan scored for the Capitals at 8:16 of the third period to cut the Montreal margin to 4-1.

''It's pretty tough to tend goal in a game like that,'' Larocque said. ''I didn't have that many shots and most of them were from long range. On Meehan's goal, I have to admit I was surprised. He skated right in front of me and I thought he was going to pass. He let go a shot and I was fooled.''

Goals by Shutt and Lafleur, the latter on a power play with Capitals rookie Robert Picard serving a hooking penalty, gave Montreal a 2-0 first-period lead, and Lambert and Nyrop made it 4-0 after two periods.

In NHL action tonight, the New York Rangers visit the Cleveland Barons, the Atlanta Flames meet the Blues in St. Louis, the Colorado Rockies entertain the Boston Bruins and the Los Angeles Kings visit the Vancouver Canucks.

Claremont-Mudd's cross country team completed its dual meet season last weekend with a 5-1 record against Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) competition and 7-1 overall after whipping Whittier, 15-46.

The Stags will compete in the Biola Invitational Saturday and in the SCIAC championships on Nov. 5 at Whittier.

Sports briefs

Bethea, Lofton honored

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cliff Bethea, the Washington nose guard who made 12 tackles and ended Oregon State's last scoring opportunity with a pass interception, was named Pacific-8 Defensive Player of the Week today.

The offensive award went to Stanford wide receiver James Lofton, who caught two touchdown passes in a 31-29 victory over Washington State and also intercepted a pass when he took the field as a defensive back in the final seconds.

Bethea made 21 tackles in the Huskies' 14-6 win over OSU. His interception came at the Washington 29-yard line and he also caused a fumble in the victory which made the Huskies 3-0 in the conference football standings.

Others nominated for the defensive award were linebacker Frank Stephens of UCLA and safety Don Schwartz of Washington State.

Fresno State players tabbed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fresno State's Steve Franklin had some wide holes to run through in gaining 155 yards, and offensive guard Chuck Shearn led the blocking effort in the 45-24 victory over San Jose State Saturday.

Franklin and Shearn were chosen Monday to share the Pacific Coast Athletic Association offensive player of the week honor. The PCAA football defensive player of the week award also was split, going to end Lance Fralick of Cal State Fullerton and linebacker Rayford Roberson of San Jose State.

Fresno State gained 420 yards on the ground, with the 5-foot-8, 195-pound Franklin averaging nearly 10 yards per carry on 16 opportunities. He had one run of 72 yards against San Jose State, and a touchdown romp of 23 yards.

Michael Thompson ineligible

MINNEAPOLIS — The University of Minnesota reversed itself and voted to declare Big Ten basketball scoring champion Michael Thompson and Dave Winey ineligible.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association had placed the entire University of Minnesota men's athletic program on probation on Oct. 21, 1976 for failing to comply with an NCAA ruling calling on Minnesota to declare Thompson and Winey ineligible.

At that time, the NCAA charged that Thompson was selling complimentary season basketball tickets for more than their face value. Winey was alleged to have accepted free lodging from a university booster at a Wisconsin lake cabin.

Following the NCAA probation decree, the University took the matter to court and won a decision in federal district court. However, an appeals court last summer sided with the NCAA and upheld the probation, forcing Minnesota to reconsider its position.

Frew McMillan named MVP

LOS ANGELES — Frew McMillan, the doubles ace whose consistent play helped the Golden Gaters reach the World Team Tennis playoffs, was named the WTT's Most Valuable Player for the 1977 season.

The South African also had an outstanding year in mixed doubles, teaming with Francois Durr for a 212-155 game record, .578 percentage and a 30-9 set mark.

Solomon advances

PERTH, Australia — Veteran Harold Solomon trounced countryman John Whitlinger 6-0, 6-3 to advance to the second round of a $46,000 international tennis tournament.

In other matches, Tim Wilkison ousted Brian Fairlie of New Zealand 6-1, 6-1; Australian Phil Dent beat Brad Rowe 6-7, 6-3, 6-4; Jiri Hrebec of Czechoslovakia edged Pat Dupre 6-3, 6-7, 6-4 and Marcelo Lara of Mexico defeated Australian Mark Edmonson 1-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Cauthen passes $5 million

NEW YORK — Steve Cauthen became the first jockey ever to win purses of more than $5 million in a single year when he finished first on Rare Joel in the second race at Aqueduct.

The $6,000 winner's share of the $10,000 purse boosted the 17-year-old Cauthen's earnings for 1977 to $5,004,312.

DEFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE WEEK — Pat Thomas, reserve cornerback, Los Angeles Rams. Thomas, playing in place of injured Rod Perry, intercepted two Fran Tarkenton passes Monday night, each leading to a Pat Haden touchdown pass in the Rams' 35-3 victory over the Minnesota Vikings.

OFFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE WEEK — Richard Todd, quarterback, New York Jets. Completed 17 of 29 passes for 396 yards and four touchdowns Sunday against Oakland. Only a missed extra point and a pair of missed chip-shot field goals kept the Jets from beating the Raiders, who came back to win 28-27.

Celtics drop third in row

Heinsohn didn't have much praise for Detroit after its 100-85 National Basketball Association triumph Monday night. The reason? The Boston coach was too busy bracing his own team with criticism.

'We played dumb, non-hustling basketball," said Heinsohn. "We played well enough in the first half, then rolled over and died. They are not thinking out there."

Bob Lanier, who teamed up with Eric Money to pace a second-half blitz that overcame a 49-42 halftime deficit for Detroit, agreed with the Boston coach.

Lanier said Boston "isn't the team out there that it was before. They don't play well together. Usually, they keep coming at you, but right now they're not doing that."

Boston is 0-3 on the season. Detroit is 3-2, but the Pistons seem to be unbeatable at home. Detroit has won nine straight games in Cobo Arena in a string of victories dating to last March.

On Monday night, Lanier had 19 of his game-high 33 points during the third and fourth periods. Money caged 16 of his 24 points in the second half.

With Lanier and Money each scoring eight points over the first nine minutes of the third period, the Pistons outscored Boston 21-4 and then raised their lead to 69-58 going into the last period.

The Celtics retaliated with Tom Boswell and Jo Jo White to move within 74-71 of Detroit with 7:28 remaining. Then it was Lanier and Money again, each with three baskets and Lanier with a free throw, to wrap up Detroit's third victory in five starts.

Boswell had 19 points and White and Charlie Scott had 16 each to top the Celtics.

"We didn't play tough defense," Heinsohn said. "We didn't take shots when we had them and took shots that were lousy. We've got to get our heads together and play some basketball."

Brown, in fact, attributed the victory to rebounding and defense, citing the fact that the Pistons gave up only nine points in the third quarter and only 36 in the entire second half.

"We talked at halftime about how badly we played, how poor we rebounded and that we weren't getting any loose balls," Brown said. "The answer really was our defense, with rebounding the key in the second half."

Canadiens still 'own' Capitals

MONTREAL (AP) — If nothing else, there's one thing to be said for National Hockey League meetings between the Washington Capitals and Montreal Canadiens — they're predictable.

When Guy Lafleur scored his fifth goal of the season and set up two others to lead the Canadiens to a 5-1 victory in the only NHL game Monday night, it marked the 20th Montreal triumph in as many games against Washington since the Capitals joined the league for the 1974-75 season.

Those 20 games, including two so far this season, have been split evenly between the Forum and the Capital Centre in Landover, Md. But that's all that's been even.

Steve Shutt, Yvon Lambert, Bill Nyrop and Serge Savard also scored for the unbeaten Canadiens, 6-0-1 and leading the Norris Division, while the Capitals trail with a 1-3-0 mark.

Canadiens netminder Michel Larocque, who faced a total of 21 shots while his teammates were directing 46 at Washington's Gary Smith, was well on the way to his second shutout in three games before Gerry Meehan scored for the Capitals at 8:16 of the third period to cut the Montreal margin to 4-1.

"It's pretty tough to tend goal in a game like that," Larocque said. "I didn't have that many shots and most of them were from long range. On Meehan's goal, I have to admit I was surprised. He skated right in front of me and I thought he was going to pass. He let go a shot and I was fooled."

Goals by Shutt and Lafleur, the latter on a power play with Capitals rookie Robert Picard serving a hooking penalty, gave Montreal a 2-0 first-period lead, and Lambert and Nyrop made it 4-0 after two periods.

In NHL action tonight, the New York Rangers visit the Cleveland Barons, the Atlanta Flames meet the Blues in St. Louis, the Colorado Rockies entertain the Boston Bruins and the Los Angeles Kings visit the Vancouver Canucks.

Stags' harrier sets record

Claremont-Mudd's cross country team completed its dual meet season last weekend with a 5-1 record against Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) competition and 7-1 overall after whipping Whittier, 15-46.

The Stags will compete in the Biola Invitational Saturday and in the SCIAC championships on Nov. 5 at Whittier.

Sports briefs

Bethea, Lofton honored

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Cliff Bethea, the Washington nose guard who made 12 tackles and ended Oregon State's last scoring opportunity with a pass interception, was named Pacific-8 Defensive Player of the Week today.

The offensive award went to Stanford wide receiver James Lofton, who caught two touchdown passes in a 31-29 victory over Washington State and also intercepted a pass when he took the field as a defensive back in the final seconds.

Bethea made 21 tackles in the Huskies' 14-6 win over OSU. His interception came at the Washington 29-yard line and he also caused a fumble in the victory which made the Huskies 3-0 in the conference football standings.

Others nominated for the defensive award were linebacker Frank Stephens of UCLA and safety Don Schwartz of Washington State.

Fresno State players tabbed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fresno State's Steve Franklin had some wide holes to run through in gaining 155 yards, and offensive guard Chuck Shearn led the blocking effort in the 45-24 victory over San Jose State Saturday.

Franklin and Shearn were chosen Monday to share the Pacific Coast Athletic Association offensive player of the week honor. The PCAA football defensive player of the week award also was split, going to end Lance Fralick of Cal State Fullerton and linebacker Rayford Roberson of San Jose State.

Fresno State gained 420 yards on the ground, with the 5-foot-8, 195-pound Franklin averaging nearly 10 yards per carry on 16 opportunities. He had one run of 72 yards against San Jose State, and a touchdown romp of 23 yards.

Michael Thompson ineligible

MINNEAPOLIS — The University of Minnesota reversed itself and voted to declare Big Ten basketball scoring champion Michael Thompson and Dave Winey ineligible.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association had placed the entire University of Minnesota men's athletic program on probation on Oct. 21, 1976 for failing to comply with an NCAA ruling calling on Minnesota to declare Thompson and Winey ineligible.

At that time, the NCAA charged that Thompson was selling complimentary season basketball tickets for more than their face value. Winey was alleged to have accepted free lodging from a university booster at a Wisconsin lake cabin.

Following the NCAA probation decree, the University took the matter to court and won a decision in federal district court. However, an appeals court last summer sided with the NCAA and upheld the probation, forcing Minnesota to reconsider its position.

Frew McMillan named MVP

LOS ANGELES — Frew McMillan, the doubles ace whose consistent play helped the Golden Gaters reach the World Team Tennis playoffs, was named the WTT's Most Valuable Player for the 1977 season.

The South African also had an outstanding year in mixed doubles, teaming with Francois Durr for a 212-155 game record, .578 percentage and a 30-9 set mark.

Solomon advances

PERTH, Australia — Veteran Harold Solomon trounced countryman John Whitlinger 6-0, 6-3 to advance to the second round of a $46,000 international tennis tournament.

In other matches, Tim Wilkison ousted Brian Fairlie of New Zealand 6-1, 6-1; Australian Phil Dent beat Brad Rowe 6-7, 6-3, 6-4; Jiri Hrebec of Czechoslovakia edged Pat Dupre 6-3, 6-7, 6-4 and Marcelo Lara of Mexico defeated Australian Mark Edmonson 1-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Cauthen passes $5 million

NEW YORK — Steve Cauthen became the first jockey ever to win purses of more than $5 million in a single year when he finished first on Rare Joel in the second race at Aqueduct.

The $6,000 winner's share of the $10,000 purse boosted the 17-year-old Cauthen's earnings for 1977 to $5,004,312.

Town of 100 evicted

ACME, Wyo. (AP) — Lives are being uprooted, houses torn down and sidewalks and lawns ripped up. This town of 100 persons, a recent acquisition of Peter Kiewit Sons Mining Co., has been evicted.

Now only about a dozen residents remain, living in a lonely looking cluster of trailers along the tree-lined single street of the town, which lies in the shadow of a huge slag mound made by the strip mine across the Tongue River.

They too will be gone when a mobile home park in nearby Sheridan, Wyo., is completed in a few weeks.

Acme's residents were served eviction notices in May by Peter Kiewit Sons' subsidiary, Big Horn Coal Co., the firm that operates the mine. Big Horn Coal bought the town from a Denver firm in January.

The eviction notices came without warning and informed the residents they had to leave Acme by Sept. 1. Residents were upset then by the suddenness of the decision and are upset now because they feel the company was not honest with them.

Big Horn told them in May it had decided to build a warehouse, shop, office and parking lot on the townsite. But now officials of Peter Kiewit Sons say the townspeople were evicted chiefly because the company could not afford to renovate the town's 50-year-old sewer and water works.

He said the closeness to the mine, the lack of adequate fire protection and the antiquated water systems were the real reasons the town was evicted.

Government studies control of candy ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, saying many products advertised for children are unhealthy, is moving toward controlling ads for such items as candy, soft drinks and cereal.

"We're not talking about research anymore. We're now talking about the legal problems of which way to go," said a spokesman for the Federal Trade Commission, which regulates advertising to assure it is not deceptive or unfair.

FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk said in an interview Wednesday that he is "convinced that action has to be taken" to guard young children against television advertisements promoting products containing large concentrations of sugar.

Options available to the commission range from requiring labels on such products as cereals, soft drinks and candy warning about their sugar content, to requiring the televising of public service messages emphasizing good nutrition and eating habits, to a total ban on the advertising.

The options are to be presented to the full commission in early November, the FTC spokesman said.

An FTC spokesman said the sugar products are the focus of the commission's attention right now, but the FTC might aim in the future at television advertising of drugs during children and family viewing hours and at ads promoting toys.

"Why single out one industry? What's the difference between a snack and a toy? You're appealing for the same kind of (child) instincts," said the spokesman.

Last week Pertschuk met for 90 minutes with 25 board members of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, a trade group representing the largest advertising firms. The advertising firms had sought the meeting.

Pertschuk, according to one source, "raised the most serious warning flag to the industry since this issue was born," telling them the commission is seriously considering a total ban on children-oriented advertisments of products containing large amounts of sugar.

The strengthened condition of Lockheed has enabled 24 banks to inform the government that its guarantee of a loan to Lockheed is no longer needed.

The guarantee was ended following action of the Emergency Loan Guarantee Board in Washington, D.C., on October 12, 1977.

During the six year life of the guarantee, the government did not have to lay out one cent of taxpayers' money in support of the loan. Nor did it have to divert any money to Lockheed that might have been used elsewhere.

In fact, the guarantee brought the government $31 million in profits from fees paid by Lockheed for services of the Emergency Loan Guarantee Board. That board monitored the guarantee for the government.

The need for the guarantee arose in 1971 when Lockheed suffered an unprecedented series of financial setbacks on several large programs. Banks sought the guarantee before they would loan Lockheed $250 million.

Since then, Lockheed has made steady progress in recovering from those setbacks and is operating profitably. Most of the $250 million has been repaid to the banks, who have issued Lockheed a new line of credit. The government is not involved in that line of credit.

The management of Lockheed and its 55,000 workers express their appreciation to Congress, to its 24 banks and to others who were involved in the guarantee.

Town of 100 evicted

ACME, Wyo. (AP) — Lives are being uprooted, houses torn down and sidewalks and lawns ripped up. This town of 100 persons, a recent acquisition of Peter Kiewit Sons Mining Co., has been evicted.

Now only about a dozen residents remain, living in a lonely looking cluster of trailers along the tree-lined single street of the town, which lies in the shadow of a huge slag mound made by the strip mine across the Tongue River.

They too will be gone when a mobile home park in nearby Sheridan, Wyo., is completed in a few weeks.

Acme's residents were served eviction notices in May by Peter Kiewit Sons' subsidiary, Big Horn Coal Co., the firm that operates the mine. Big Horn Coal bought the town from a Denver firm in January.

The eviction notices came without warning and informed the residents they had to leave Acme by Sept. 1. Residents were upset then by the suddenness of the decision and are upset now because they feel the company was not honest with them.

Big Horn told them in May it had decided to build a warehouse, shop, office and parking lot on the townsite. But now officials of Peter Kiewit Sons say the townspeople were evicted chiefly because the company could not afford to renovate the town's 50-year-old sewer and water works.

He said the closeness to the mine, the lack of adequate fire protection and the antiquated water systems were the real reasons the town was evicted.

Government studies control of candy ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, saying many products advertised for children are unhealthy, is moving toward controlling ads for such items as candy, soft drinks and cereal.

"We're not talking about research anymore. We're now talking about the legal problems of which way to go," said a spokesman for the Federal Trade Commission, which regulates advertising to assure it is not deceptive or unfair.

FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk said in an interview Wednesday that he is "convinced that action has to be taken" to guard young children against television advertisements promoting products containing large concentrations of sugar.

Options available to the commission range from requiring labels on such products as cereals, soft drinks and candy warning about their sugar content, to requiring the televising of public service messages emphasizing good nutrition and eating habits, to a total ban on the advertising.

The options are to be presented to the full commission in early November, the FTC spokesman said.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, plagued by higher interest rates, a sinking dollar and prospects of higher imported oil prices, headed broadly lower Tuesday in active trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 5.98-point loser Monday, was off 3.63 points to 798.69 shortly before noon EDT. The last time the Dow closed below 800 was on Oct. 2, 1975 when it finished at 794.55. Through Monday, the Dow had lost 202.33 points in 1977.

Analysts said some selling was sparked when the Dow Jones transportation average fell to a point Monday that, under the 80-year-old Dow theory, confirmed the industrial average was in a major downturn.

Also contributing to the heavy selling were recent decisions by the nation's major banks to raise their prime lending rate to 7¾ per cent, the highest level in two years.

Further, the dollar has fallen in foreign exchanges, leading to fears the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will raise prices later this year and trigger a round of inflation.

Prices were lower in moderate trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Allied Thermal was ahead 3¾ to 26¼ in active trading. Jim Walter Corp. said Monday it would make a $26-a-share tender offer for Allied shares. Allied has been fighting $22-a-share bid by Interpace.

UCB cites increase

LOS ANGELES (BW) — United California Bank (UCB) reported income before securities transactions of $13,095,000 for the quarter ended Sept. 30, or $1.80 per share, a 46 cent increase from the third quarter of 1976 when income before securities transactions was $8,955,000, or $1.23 per share.

Net income for the third quarter of 1977 was $12,865,000, or $1.76 a share, a 44 percent gain from net income of $8,916,000, or $1.23 a share, for the third quarter of 1976.

Income before securities transactions for the first nine months of 1977 was $33,099,000, or $4.54 a share, up 33 percent from income of $24,866,000, or $3.41 per share for the like period of 1976.

Net income for the first nine months of 1977 was $32,314,000, or $4.43 a share, up 32 percent from 1976 when net income was $24,470,000, or $3.36.

Ingredients of cosmetics now listed on label

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Castor oil, beeswax and borax. These are the items dreams are made of for American consumers who spend nearly $10 billion a year on cosmetics and toiletry preparations.

Learning what's in the different products can help you save money, decide among competing brands and protect yourself against items you might be allergic to.

The principal ingredient in lipstick, for example, is castor oil. Beeswax also is used in lipstick and it is mixed with borax in cleansing cream to prevent oil and water from separating.

A Food and Drug Administration regulation which took effect April 15 requires cosmetic manufacturers to list most ingredients on product labels, or, in cases where the item is very small, on accompanying packaging. But the agency says a lot of misinformation persists about what cosmetics can — and cannot — do.

The Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act defines cosmetics as substances which may be "rubbed, poured, sprinkled or sprayed on, introduced into or otherwise applied to the human body for cleansing, beautifying, promoting attractiveness or altering the appearance without affecting the body's structure or functions."

The effect on bodily functions is a key part of the definition. Products such as antiperspirants and antidandruff shampoos are legally classified as drugs because they are designed to change the way the body acts; deodorants and regular shampoos are cosmetics.

Drugs are much more strictly regulated than cosmetics. They must be proved safe and effective before they are placed on the market. No such testing is required for most cosmetic ingredients although the FDA does insist that if the manufacturer has not substantiated the safety of a product, the label must carry a statement saying: "WARNING — The safety of this product has not been determined."

Unlike the other ingredients, color additives used in cosmetics must be approved by the FDA for purity and safety. One of the best-known colorings, Red Dye No. 2, was banned by the government last year and manufacturers have been forced to develop substitutes.

Many of the color additives that have been okayed for general use in cosmetics are not approved for use in products applied around the eyes because of the sensitivity of the area. The FDA also announced recently a plan to make sure that eye cosmetics have adequate preservatives to make them bacteria free, even when exposed to potential contamination during ordinary use. The agency acted after receiving reports of instances where contaminated cosmetics caused eye infections.

While cosmetic manufacturers and retailers claim special properties for individual brands, the basic ingredients for a given product are fairly similar. The difference in product — and price — may lie mainly in packaging and promotion. Personal tastes and reactions also play a major role. What works for you may be a disaster for your neighbor.

Advertising and promotion claims may be confusing and the FDA advises consumers to take these claims with a grain of salt.

"One word ... which is probably more confusing than any other is 'moisturizer,'" says the FDA. "The word would seem to imply the product would make something moist or wet. But moisturizers do not add moisture. They merely put a protective cover on the skin, so the skin can retain its own moisture."

The FDA regulations require that ingredients be listed, by uniform names, in order of amount contained. Ingredients which constitute less than 1 per cent of the product need not be listed by amount and color ingredients can be listed in any order, regardless of amount. The ingredient list does not have to include the names of specific flavors or fragrances, although the agency is considering suggestions for change in this area. If the manufacturer can show that a given ingredient is a genuine trade secret, he or she does not have to list it on the label.

The names of the ingredients may not mean much to you, but they can be important if you develop an allergy because it makes it easier for a doctor to determine what substances you have been exposed to. You also can compare the value of competing brands of cosmetics.

The regulation applies only to products manufactured after April 15. The FDA did not require a recall of items already on the market so you may still see some cosmetics on sale without ingredient lists.

Some cosmetics are advertised as "hypo-allergenic" and special rules apply to these items. Under new FDA rules, a cosmetic can be labeled as hypoallergenic only if scientific studies show that it causes significantly fewer adverse reactions than competitive products used for similar purposes. Manufacturers must provide test results to the FDA before using such terms as "allergy tested," "safer for sensitive skin" or "lower rate of reactions."

Cautious attitude unchanged

Investing firms reluctant

The quarterly survey by Robert J. Farrell, vice president and manager of the market analysis department at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, in fact found a rise in the number of institutions planning to reduce their percentage commitment to stocks.

Farrell also reported no evidence of any big buildup of cash reserves—regarded as a traditional measure of the "fuel" available for future market strength—among institutions.

The analyst said the data collected in his survey "suggest that institutions are becoming less optimistic about returns from equity investments for the long term."

First of all, Farrell noted, the figures showed a small increase from three months before in the percentage of assets invested by institutions in debt securities such as bonds, while the percentage for equities, or stocks, declined slightly.

"More significant," he reported, "in answer to the question concerning future intentions to increase or decrease equities, those intending to decrease equities rose to 17 per cent of those polled in this survey from 12 per cent in the second quarter.

"That represented a reversal of attitude in future intentions toward equities from that prevailing in the second quarter."

With its 13.34 decline to 808.30 this past week, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials hit a new two-year low and passed a milestone of sorts.

The drop extended the average's loss from the recovery high of 1,014.79 it reached on Sept. 21, 1976 to more than 200 points. The slide has erased nearly half of the Dow's gains in the late 1974-1976 recovery.

Farrell, named this month to Institutional Investor magazine's all-star team of analysts in the "market-timing" category, said his latest survey drew 163 replies from institutions, including banks, insurance companies, mutual funds, pension funds and others ranging in size from $4 million to $5 billion.

The data, compiled as of Sept. 15, showed the average of the respondents with 53.2 per cent of their assets in equities; 36.4 per cent in debt securities, and 10.4 in "cash", a category which in Wall Street terms includes money "parked" in short term money market securities.

The results offered little encouragement for those Wall Streeters who look for bulging institutional cash positions as a possible signal of a future rush to buy stocks.

The number of respondents listing less than one-tenth of their assets in cash increased to 60.4 per cent of the total from 51.3 per cent three months before.

Those with 10 to 15 per cent in cash declined from 29.1 to 19.8 per cent, while those with more than 15 per cent in cash edged up to 19.8 from 19.5.

"On the basis of our findings, we cannot yet conclude that a strong technical position for the equity market has evolved," Farrell said.

"Although the apparent loss of some equity buying power to the debt market was not entirely unexpected, to build cash position to bullish levels now may take considerably longer. In any event, the results of this survey suggest that the transitional correcting market pattern of 1977 still has some time to run."

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, plagued by higher interest rates, a sinking dollar and prospects of higher imported oil prices, headed broadly lower Tuesday in active trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 5.98-point loser Monday, was off 3.63 points to 798.69 shortly before noon EDT. The last time the Dow closed below 800 was on Oct. 2, 1975 when it finished at 794.55. Through Monday, the Dow had lost 202.33 points in 1977.

Analysts said some selling was sparked when the Dow Jones transportation average fell to a point Monday that, under the 80-year-old Dow theory, confirmed the industrial average was in a major downturn.

Also contributing to the heavy selling were recent decisions by the nation's major banks to raise their prime lending rate to 7¾ per cent, the highest level in two years.

Further, the dollar has fallen in foreign exchanges, leading to fears the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will raise prices later this year and trigger a round of inflation.

Against that background, declines far outnumbered advances, 948 to 223, among the 1,614 issues crossing the tape.

New York Stock Exchange volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 10,000,000 shares, up from the 7,200,000 traded during the same period Monday.

Blue-chip General Motors was the most active NYSE issue, off ⅜ to 69⅝ in trading that included a block of 257,600 shares at 69¾. Ford Motor Co., trading ex-dividend, was second, off ¾ to 43½ following a block trade of 186,600 shares at 43½.

New York State Electric was the third most active issue, off ½ to 18⅛ following a block trade of 137,800 shares at 18.

Union Pacific was off 1¼. The company reported a thirdquarter net of $1.18 a share, compared with $1.08 a year ago.

Prices were lower in moderate trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Allied Thermal was ahead 3¾ to 26¼ in active trading. Jim Walter Corp. said Monday it would make a $26-a-share tender offer for Allied shares. Allied has been fighting $22-a-share bid by Interpace.

UCB cites increase

LOS ANGELES (BW) — United California Bank (UCB) reported income before securities transactions of $13,095,000 for the quarter ended Sept. 30, or $1.80 per share, a 46 cent increase from the third quarter of 1976 when income before securities transactions was $8,955,000, or $1.23 per share.

Net income for the third quarter of 1977 was $12,865,000, or $1.76 a share, a 44 percent gain from net income of $8,916,000, or $1.23 a share, for the third quarter of 1976.

Income before securities transactions for the first nine months of 1977 was $33,099,000, or $4.54 a share, up 33 percent from income of $24,866,000, or $3.41 per share for the like period of 1976.

Net income for the first nine months of 1977 was $32,314,000, or $4.43 a share, up 32 percent from 1976 when net income was $24,470,000, or $3.36.

Ingredients of cosmetics now listed on label

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Castor oil, beeswax and borax. These are the items dreams are made of for American consumers who spend nearly $10 billion a year on cosmetics and toiletry preparations.

Learning what's in the different products can help you save money, decide among competing brands and protect yourself against items you might be allergic to.

The principal ingredient in lipstick, for example, is castor oil. Beeswax also is used in lipstick and it is mixed with borax in cleansing cream to prevent oil and water from separating.

A Food and Drug Administration regulation which took effect April 15 requires cosmetic manufacturers to list most ingredients on product labels, or, in cases where the item is very small, on accompanying packaging. But the agency says a lot of misinformation persists about what cosmetics can — and cannot — do.

The Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act defines cosmetics as substances which may be "rubbed, poured, sprinkled or sprayed on, introduced into or otherwise applied to the human body for cleansing, beautifying, promoting attractiveness or altering the appearance without affecting the body's structure or functions."

The effect on bodily functions is a key part of the definition. Products such as antiperspirants and antidandruff shampoos are legally classified as drugs because they are designed to change the way the body acts; deodorants and regular shampoos are cosmetics.

Drugs are much more strictly regulated than cosmetics. They must be proved safe and effective before they are placed on the market. No such testing is required for most cosmetic ingredients although the FDA does insist that if the manufacturer has not substantiated the safety of a product, the label must carry a statement saying: "WARNING — The safety of this product has not been determined."

Unlike the other ingredients, color additives used in cosmetics must be approved by the FDA for purity and safety. One of the best-known colorings, Red Dye No. 2, was banned by the government last year and manufacturers have been forced to develop substitutes.

Many of the color additives that have been okayed for general use in cosmetics are not approved for use in products applied around the eyes because of the sensitivity of the area. The FDA also announced recently a plan to make sure that eye cosmetics have adequate preservatives to make them bacteria free, even when exposed to potential contamination during ordinary use. The agency acted after receiving reports of instances where contaminated cosmetics caused eye infections.

While cosmetic manufacturers and retailers claim special properties for individual brands, the basic ingredients for a given product are fairly similar. The difference in product — and price — may lie mainly in packaging and promotion. Personal tastes and reactions also play a major role. What works for you may be a disaster for your neighbor.

Advertising and promotion claims may be confusing and the FDA advises consumers to take these claims with a grain of salt.

"One word ... which is probably more confusing than any other is 'moisturizer,'" says the FDA. "The word would seem to imply the product would make something moist or wet. But moisturizers do not add moisture. They merely put a protective cover on the skin, so the skin can retain its own moisture."

The FDA regulations require that ingredients be listed, by uniform names, in order of amount contained. Ingredients which constitute less than 1 per cent of the product need not be listed by amount and color ingredients can be listed in any order, regardless of amount. The ingredient list does not have to include the names of specific flavors or fragrances, although the agency is considering suggestions for change in this area. If the manufacturer can show that a given ingredient is a genuine trade secret, he or she does not have to list it on the label.

The names of the ingredients may not mean much to you, but they can be important if you develop an allergy because it makes it easier for a doctor to determine what substances you have been exposed to. You also can compare the value of competing brands of cosmetics.

The regulation applies only to products manufactured after April 15. The FDA did not require a recall of items already on the market so you may still see some cosmetics on sale without ingredient lists.

Some cosmetics are advertised as "hypo-allergenic" and special rules apply to these items. Under new FDA rules, a cosmetic can be labeled as hypoallergenic only if scientific studies show that it causes significantly fewer adverse reactions than competitive products used for similar purposes. Manufacturers must provide test results to the FDA before using such terms as "allergy tested," "safer for sensitive skin" or "lower rate of reactions."

Cautious attitude unchanged

The quarterly survey by Robert J. Farrell, vice president and manager of the market analysis department at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, in fact found a rise in the number of institutions planning to reduce their percentage commitment to stocks.

Farrell also reported no evidence of any big buildup of cash reserves—regarded as a traditional measure of the "fuel" available for future market strength—among institutions.

The analyst said the data collected in his survey "suggest that institutions are becoming less optimistic about returns from equity investments for the long term."

First of all, Farrell noted, the figures showed a small increase from three months before in the percentage of assets invested by institutions in debt securities such as bonds, while the percentage for equities, or stocks, declined slightly.

"More significant," he reported, "in answer to the question concerning future intentions to increase or decrease equities, those intending to decrease equities rose to 17 per cent of those polled in this survey from 12 per cent in the second quarter.

"That represented a reversal of attitude in future intentions toward equities from that prevailing in the second quarter."

The wariness of many institutions toward the market has received plenty of attention in the steady decline of stock prices this year.

With its 13.34 decline to 808.30 this past week, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials hit a new two-year low and passed a milestone of sorts.

The drop extended the average's loss from the recovery high of 1,014.79 it reached on Sept. 21, 1976 to more than 200 points. The slide has erased nearly half of the Dow's gains in the late 1974-1976 recovery.

Other weekly readings showed Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks down 1.24 at 92.32, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index off .17 at 50.61.

Farrell, named this month to Institutional Investor magazine's all-star team of analysts in the "market-timing" category, said his latest survey drew 163 replies from institutions, including banks, insurance companies, mutual funds, pension funds and others ranging in size from $4 million to $5 billion.

The data, compiled as of Sept. 15, showed the average of the respondents with 53.2 per cent of their assets in equities; 36.4 per cent in debt securities, and 10.4 in "cash", a category which in Wall Street terms includes money "parked" in short term money market securities.

The results offered little encouragement for those Wall Streeters who look for bulging institutional cash positions as a possible signal of a future rush to buy stocks.

The number of respondents listing less than one-tenth of their assets in cash increased to 60.4 per cent of the total from 51.3 per cent three months before.

Those with 10 to 15 per cent in cash declined from 29.1 to 19.8 per cent, while those with more than 15 per cent in cash edged up to 19.8 from 19.5.

"On the basis of our findings, we cannot yet conclude that a strong technical position for the equity market has evolved," Farrell said.

"Although the apparent loss of some equity buying power to the debt market was not entirely unexpected, to build cash position to bullish levels now may take considerably longer. In any event, the results of this survey suggest that the transitional correcting market pattern of 1977 still has some time to run."

Plush new mobile home communities like this one are enhancing the Southern California landscape in increasing numbers as more and more people choose the manufactured housing lifestyle.

25th MANUFACTURED HOUSING & RV SHOW AT DODGER STADIUM SET FOR NOV. 5 - 13

The 25th Annual Manufactured Housing and Recreation Vehicle Show, one of the largest of its kind in the country, returns to Dodger Stadium Nov. 5-13 for Public Days.

"An expected 60 manufactured homes, both mobile and modular, 1,000 recreation vehicles and 200 supplier-accessory booths will fill the stadium complex during the show," said Gary Pomeroy, Show Chairman and Vice President of Golden West Mobile Homes.

Last year's extravaganza included 56 mobile homes, five modular homes and 1,100 recreation vehicles. More than 100,000 public and dealers attended the 1976 show.

"A special attraction at this year's show will be the 'Energy-Resource Conservation Village,' a special exhibit of new energy-saving products designed for both mobile and conventional homes," said Pomeroy.

"In addition, several manufactured homes will be exhibited in the display, each featuring new breakthroughs in home energy conservation."

During public days, show hours will be Mon. - Fri. 12 Noon to 9:00 p.m., Saturdays, 10:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. and Sundays, 10:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.

Q. "HOW DID THE SANDWICH GET ITS NAME?"

A. THE SANDWICH WAS NAMED FOR THE EARL OF SANDWICH: HE INVENTED THE SANDWICH AS A SNACK TO EAT WHILE HE WAS GAMBLING

The sandwich was named after the Fourth Earl of Sandwich, an English nobleman who lived in the 1700s.

He is remembered, in part, for his notorious gambling and, according to tradition, he invented the sandwich while playing cards.

Sandwich was such a compulsive gambler that he did not want to take time away from the card table to eat a cooked meal. Instead, he ate pieces of roast meat served between slices of bread during his games.

The snack became popular because it could be easily prepared and served and eaten without the use of knives and forks.

Today, sandwiches can be made from a variety of tasty fillings and can be served hot or cold, toasted or grilled.

They can be eaten as giant three-deckers or prepared as dainty appetizers and in many other forms.

Los Angeles Philharmonic

By RALPH PIERCE

Saturday night marked a very important event in the Pomona Valley musical scene with the reopening of Bridges Auditorium after a closure of two years for renovation and repair. It was visually apparent that the $1.5 million job had produced beautiful results. There was even a round of applause at the raising of the stunning new light blue curtain which could well be the most beautiful in any Southern California hall.

For the opening event it was appropriate to present the Los Angeles Philharmonic with its conductor Zubin Mehta plus an added bonus in the form of the outstanding vocal artistry of Shirley Verrett as sporano soloist. Since its erection in the early '30s, Bridges Auditorium has served as a sort of "home away from home" for the Los Angeles Philharmonic and the orchestra has given two or more concerts a hear here under such renowned conductors as Artur Rodzinsky, Otto Klemperer, Bruno Walter, Edward van Beinem, Alfred Wallenstein and the many conductors who have worked with this orchestra. For Mehta, this may be his last appearance here as this year concludes his term as musical director.

After a boisterous rendition of the national anthem, the orchestra reassembled a smaller group and Mehta returned to the podium to conduct a spirited reading of the familiar Mozart overture to "The Marriage of Figaro." With the orchestra in the proper mood for Mozart, Miss Verrett came on stage to sing the Mozart motet "Exultate, jubilate." Although the closing "Alleluja" is attempted by all too many sopranos, it is only infrequently that we hear the entire work. The motet is in four movements and, in many ways, is similar in form to the concerto for solo instrument and orchestra, a form in which Mozart was never equaled by either his contemporaries or followers. Miss Verrett showed that she was up to the demands of the work both technically and stylistically, and she sang what could be called a virtuoso performance of the beautiful composition.

Many vocalists like to show that they can perform music of all styles and periods and prefer not to be typed as performers of only one school of composition. In this respect it would be hard to think of a more challenging contrast, after the Mozart, than the "Liebestod" from Wagner's "Tristan" which Miss Verrett chose as her second offering. After a slight problem of insecurity in the opening phrases, our soloist rose to the occasion and demonstrated that she possesses a voice of richness and color than can handle the demands of this romantic expression nearly as well as she did the Mozart. Mehta and the orchestra collaborated to provide a richly textured background which went well beyond what could be termed an accompaniment.

After the intermission the program was concluded with a performance which is one of Mehta's specialities. Since his appearance on the Southern California scene audiences have come to look forward to the young conductor's performances of the large, spectacular romantic compositions and especially to the Richard Strauss tone poems. On this occasion the orchestra offered "Also Sprach Zaratstra," perhaps the most original and largest of the Strauss compositions in the form.

It demonstrated the capabilities of both the orchestra and its conductor, and one would know that it was a work they had performed many times — it is also available on one of their recordings. Mehta was in his best form, both musically and athletically.

Joyce Brothers

Going overboard

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My daughter's husband was raised in a strict, religious family. I think his father was harsh to the point where he was whipped if he did something his parents considered wrong. He's never gotten over this, but unlike those who repeat patterns when they have children of their own, he's reacted just the opposite. My grandchildren are never disciplined and all their father says is that he doesn't want them to be inhibited in any way. If they have an impulse, even if it's destructive, he feels they're free to act it out. When I visit them I'm shocked by what I see. The children write on the walls, and they're mean, little monsters. — C.B.

DEAR C.B.: I believe what your son-in-law is doing is very dangerous to the welfare of his children and to society, as well. Discipline is a sign of love, a reminder that the parents care enough about children to take the time to guide them in a way that will help them adjust to the demands of the world they're going to live in.

I suspect from your letter that your grandchildren are of preschool age. From what you say, they will be totally unprepared for the discipline of school. Total freedom is total chaos and ultimately, it is the child and those around him who are going to be injured by this.

Society needs inhibitions. A totally uninhibited society where everyone followed his impulses would be a world where murder, child abuse and rape are even more prevalent than they are today. Social psychiatrist, Dr. Alfred Messer feels that much of the violence that exists today is the result of our becoming an increasingly uninhibited society. It's becoming more acceptable to express anything, any feeling, at any time. We are on what he calls an "impulse orgy" and this can destroy us.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I am 42, am married, have one child, two older brothers and a younger sister. I've worked very hard all my life and am now considered fairly successful. For some time I've known that both my brothers have gambled their lives away. It started early with them and even as a kid, I realized they were fools when it came to money. Now, my sister's husband tells me that she's been using food money to spend on gambling. I can't tell you how this depresses me because I keep thinking, "My God, does it run in my family? Why not me?" I hate the idea of gambling and wouldn't risk a dime, but I'm really worried. — D.D.

DEAR D.D.: Gambling doesn't run in families in the sense that it can be considered an inherited trait. However, the emotional problems that most compulsive gamblers have often begin in the home. For this reason, it's not surprising that many times, two and three members of one family will have this addiction.

You're extremely fortunate in having the emotional security and self-esteem that in some way protects you from the urge to take a chance on almost anything. Some gambling is harmless and can be a beneficial, relaxing diversion, but compulsive gambling is always destructive. Nobody is quite sure how many compulsive gamblers there are, but some think there are as many as six million.

Dr. Robert Custer, an authority on compulsive gamblin, feels it is a behavior disorder, a psychological addiction. Often, these addicts use gambling as a way to relieve a kind of deep psychic pain. This pain may come from repressed anger produced by difficult situations the person doesn't know how to deal with. The pain may come from a general feeling of inadequacy that began early in childhood.

Be glad you don't have the problem. You might suggest Gamblers Anonymous to your brothers and sister. They all need help.

Delegates attend conclave

Two local delegates have returned from the convention of the supreme chapter of PEO Sisterhood held in Chicago.

They were among 1,500 delegates representing 200,000 PEO members in the United States and Canada. Educational philanthropies are a prime activity of PEO Sisterhood, which was founded 108 years ago at Iowa Wesleyan College, Mount Pleasant, Iowa. The educational fund has provided nearly $11 million in loans to more than 18,500 women seeking financial aid for education.

International Peace scholarships are provided to foreign students to enable them to pursue graduate study in the United States and Canada. More than 1,200 women from 87 countries have been given financial help to finish their education since the project was started in 1949.

Cottey College of Nevada, Mo., a fully accredited two-year college for women, has been owned and supported b PEO Sisterhood since 192

Job interview

NEW YORK (AP) — Keep in mind that some experts say the employment interview counts for 85 percent of the decision whether to hire or not, advises S. Robert Freede, president of Scholarship Search here.

Freede, author of "Cash for College," suggests that if you want the best possible odds in your favor arrive on time, look sharp — neatness definitely counts — know your qualifications and what you're looking for and don't be overly aggressive.

Delegates attend conclave

Two local delegates have returned from the convention of the supreme chapter of PEO Sisterhood held in Chicago.

They were among 1,500 delegates representing 200,000 PEO members in the United States and Canada. Educational philanthropies are a prime activity of PEO Sisterhood, which was founded 108 years ago at Iowa Wesleyan College, Mount Pleasant, Iowa. The educational fund has provided nearly $11 million in loans to more than 18,500 women seeking financial aid for education.

International Peace scholarships are provided to foreign students to enable them to pursue graduate study in the United States and Canada. More than 1,200 women from 87 countries have been given financial help to finish their education since the project was started in 1949.

Cottey College of Nevada, Mo., a fully accredited two-year college for women, has been owned and supported b PEO Sisterhood since 192

Job interview

NEW YORK (AP) — Keep in mind that some experts say the employment interview counts for 85 percent of the decision whether to hire or not, advises S. Robert Freede, president of Scholarship Search here.

Freede, author of "Cash for College," suggests that if you want the best possible odds in your favor arrive on time, look sharp — neatness definitely counts — know your qualifications and what you're looking for and don't be overly aggressive.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT

The County of Los Angeles has been awarded an eight year Federal grant to establish a mental health center in the La Puente catchment area. This area contains the cities of La Puente, Industry, part of West Covina and the unincorporated areas of Walnut, Otterbein, Bassett, Rowland Heights, Hacienda Heights and part of Valinda. Various mental health programs will be offered to residents of the catchment area. Federal law provides for a Governing Board to be appointed by the Board of Supervisors. The Governing Board, composed of 15 members, will meet at least monthly and will be responsible for 1) establishing general policies, 2) scheduling the hours services will be provided, 3) approving the center's annual budget and 4) approving the selection of a Director for the center. These responsibilities will be carried out, of course, within County laws and policies.

Nominations for Governing Board membership are being requested from a large number of sources. Criteria for appointments are being made available to nominators through a variety of methods. The following sources are being contacted for nominations:

2) Private mental health practitioners located in the area
3) All known advocate groups whether formal or informal nature
4) Ministerial associations
5) School boards, PTA's, municipal governments, etc.
6) Civic associations, labor unions and other voluntary organizations
7) The general public through publication of legal advertisements in two local newspapers servicing the catchment area

Federal law states that at least one-half of the Governing Board members must not be providers of health care and that the members should live in the catchment area. The term of office for members of the Governing Board is for three years, five members being replaced each year. In the initial appointments by the Board of Supervisors, five members will be selected for one year, five for two years and five for three years.

When all nominations have been received, they will be reviewed by a screening committee composed of three members of the San Gabriel Valley Health Services Regional Advisory Council and two members of the La Puente Health Center Advisory Council. A list of names will then be sent to the Acting Director of Health Services for recommendation to the Board of Supervisors for appointment.

There are no provisions in the law to pay members of the Governing Board. The hours each month spent on center activities, therefore, will have to be donated time. The time required could be considerable.

Nominations of qualified individuals may be made by sending a brief description of their qualifications (with addresses and telephone numbers, if possible) to Mr. Truman Chaffin, Department of Health Services, San Gabriel Valley Health Services Region, 1435 West Covina Parkway, West Covina by November 7, 1977.

When all nominations have been received, they will be reviewed by a screening committee composed of three members of the San Gabriel Valley Health Services Regional Advisory Council and two members of the La Puente Health Center Advisory Council. A list of names will then be sent to the Acting Director of Health Services for recommendation to the Board of Supervisors for appointment.

There are no provisions in the law to pay members of the Governing Board. The hours each month spent on center activities, therefore, will have to be donated time. The time required could be considerable.

Nominations of qualified individuals may be made by sending a brief description of their qualifications (with addresses and telephone numbers, if possible) to Mr. Truman Chaffin, Department of Health Services, San Gabriel Valley Health Services Region, 1435 West Covina Parkway, West Covina by November 7, 1977.

RESOLVED that the Board of Trustees of the Walnut Valley Unified School District of Los Angeles County in pursuance of the provisions of Sections 39360-39377 inclusive of the Education Code, does hereby declare its intention to lease a portion of real property, namely a segment of School Site "D", for use as a temporary access road for construction purposes. The real property is described as follows:

School Site "D", Diamond Bar, California

Such lease is proposed to be made upon the following terms:

FIRST: That the use of said portion of property shall be confined to that as a temporary access road.
SECOND: That at the end of the temporary lease, the property shall be returned by the lessee to the same original condition.
THIRD: A Certificate of Liability Insurance in the minimum amount of $500,000 to be issued naming the district as co-insured against any liability that may arise from the use of said property.
FOURTH: The district is to be held harmless for any and all actions connected with the property.
FIFTH: The duration of the lease shall be one year.
SIXTH: Said lease may be terminated by the district upon thirty (30) days notice.
SEVENTH: That the successful bidder shall also pay all costs of the newspaper advertising required.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Board of Trustees finds unanimously that the monthly rental value of said portion of property for said purpose does not exceed the sum of fifty ($50.00) dollars.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a public meeting of this Board will be held at the regular place of meeting of this board, at the hour of 7:30 p.m. on the 31st day of October, 1977, at which sealed bids to lease the property will be received and considered.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that it is the intention of this Board at the time or place fixed for such public meeting to order such lease and adopt a resolution authorizing the execution of the lease of said property. Notice of the adoption of this resolution and of the time and place of holding said meeting shall be given by publishing a copy of this resolution before the date of said meeting, in five successive issues of the Pomona Progress Bulletin, a newspaper of general circulation of this district.

IN WITNESS of the adoption of the foregoing resolution by a vote of all the members of this board, we, the members of such board, present and voting thereon have hereunto set our hand this 3rd day of October, 1977.

PRICE, Utah (AP) — Footprints made in the dawn of time by the most awesome creatures ever to walk the earth are so common around here that coal miners walk past them daily, for the most part ignoring them.

"I've even seen large prints, which I suppose were left by an adult tyrannosaurus, and the small prints of her baby walking side by side. And right down the middle of both footprints were marks left by the big tail of the adult and the tiny tail of the baby," said Don Burge, a geology professor at the College of Eastern Utah and curator of the Price Prehistoric Museum.

Millions of years ago, Burge said in an interview, dinosaurs strolled in the soft mud and clay of what is now eastern Utah. In a relatively short period, their footprints were filled in with sediment, compressed by millions of tons of sandstone and then fossilized over millions of years.

Their prints and those left by other dinosaurs of the Cretaceous Period — about 130 million years ago — now are routinely found along the ceilings, walls and floors of Carbon County's coal mines.

"Miners walk past them every day," said Burge. So common are the sightings that the miners pay little note to the fossilized, three-toed prehistoric records.

One miner, W. Doug Wilson, was a print collector. When he died in 1972 his family gave the Price museum part of his collection, 12 prints ranging from one inch in length to more than 35 inches.

"He was a tipple foreman," Burge said of Wilson, "and used to watch the coal come up out of the mine on conveyor belts or in ore cars and when he'd spot a footprint, he'd stop everything and grab it."

In nearby Helper, Vanda Hreinson, whose coal miner husband also collected prints, has lined her front-yard fence with several of the heavy natural casts.

Prints of the Tyrannosaurus, a 45-foot-long monster ranked as the largest meat-eating animal that ever lived, are the most common found in eastern Utah, Burge said. Other prints were left by a variety of dinosaurs, including the huge and clumsy plant-eating brontosaurus, which could weigh more than 30 tons.

"It really is amazing, when you think of it, that while those beasts were walking around such a long time ago, they were leaving something of themselves," Burge said. "And that has helped us not only to learn more about them, but gives us more knowledge of the whole chain of life."

Great apes

Although gorillas are the largest of the great apes, mature males average only 6 feet in height and weigh 300 to 400 pounds. Females reach only half this weight.

Low-tar Parliament

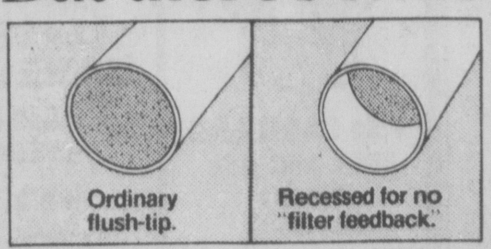
Any low-tar cigarette will give you a low-tar number. But there's something else that you should consider. We call it "filter feedback."



As you smoke, tar builds up on the tip of your cigarette filter. That's "filter feedback." Ordinary flush-tipped filters put that tar buildup flat against your lips.

And that's where low-tar Parliament has the advantage. Parliament's filter is recessed to keep tar buildup from touching your lips. So there's no "filter feedback." All you get is that smooth Parliament taste.
